Somerset is a world of color: the white of winter, the green of spring and summer, the entire spectrum of fall. And Somerset Area High School is part of this world. But color conveys not only a visual impression; it is also a feeling. The anxiety of the first day of school, the excitement of football games, the tension of exam time and the satisfaction of graduation all impart some mental color sensation to the observer.

Somerset consists of a myriad of people, sights, sounds, ideas and moods, which add their own particular hue to the portrait of our school. For this book is a portrait, not of actual colors, but of memories which hopefully will stimulate your mind to inject its own colors of experience.

COLOR US . . . Somerset.

Evaluation Team Rates Curriculum At SASHS

Principals and teachers from Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York schools converged on SASHS for the ten-year re-evaluation of the school, its curriculum, and its methods of teaching. The evaluators observed classes, conducted informal interviews of teachers and students and then offered commendations and suggestions for improvements.

The science department added a number of new instruments to its facilities. Among them were the IMP scope, a device capable of taking electrocardiograms, and a closed circuit TV camera which, it is hoped, will provide students with new methods of learning, once its use is mastered. Many of the instruments were purchased in hopes of encouraging more independent student work.

COLOR US . . . Searching.

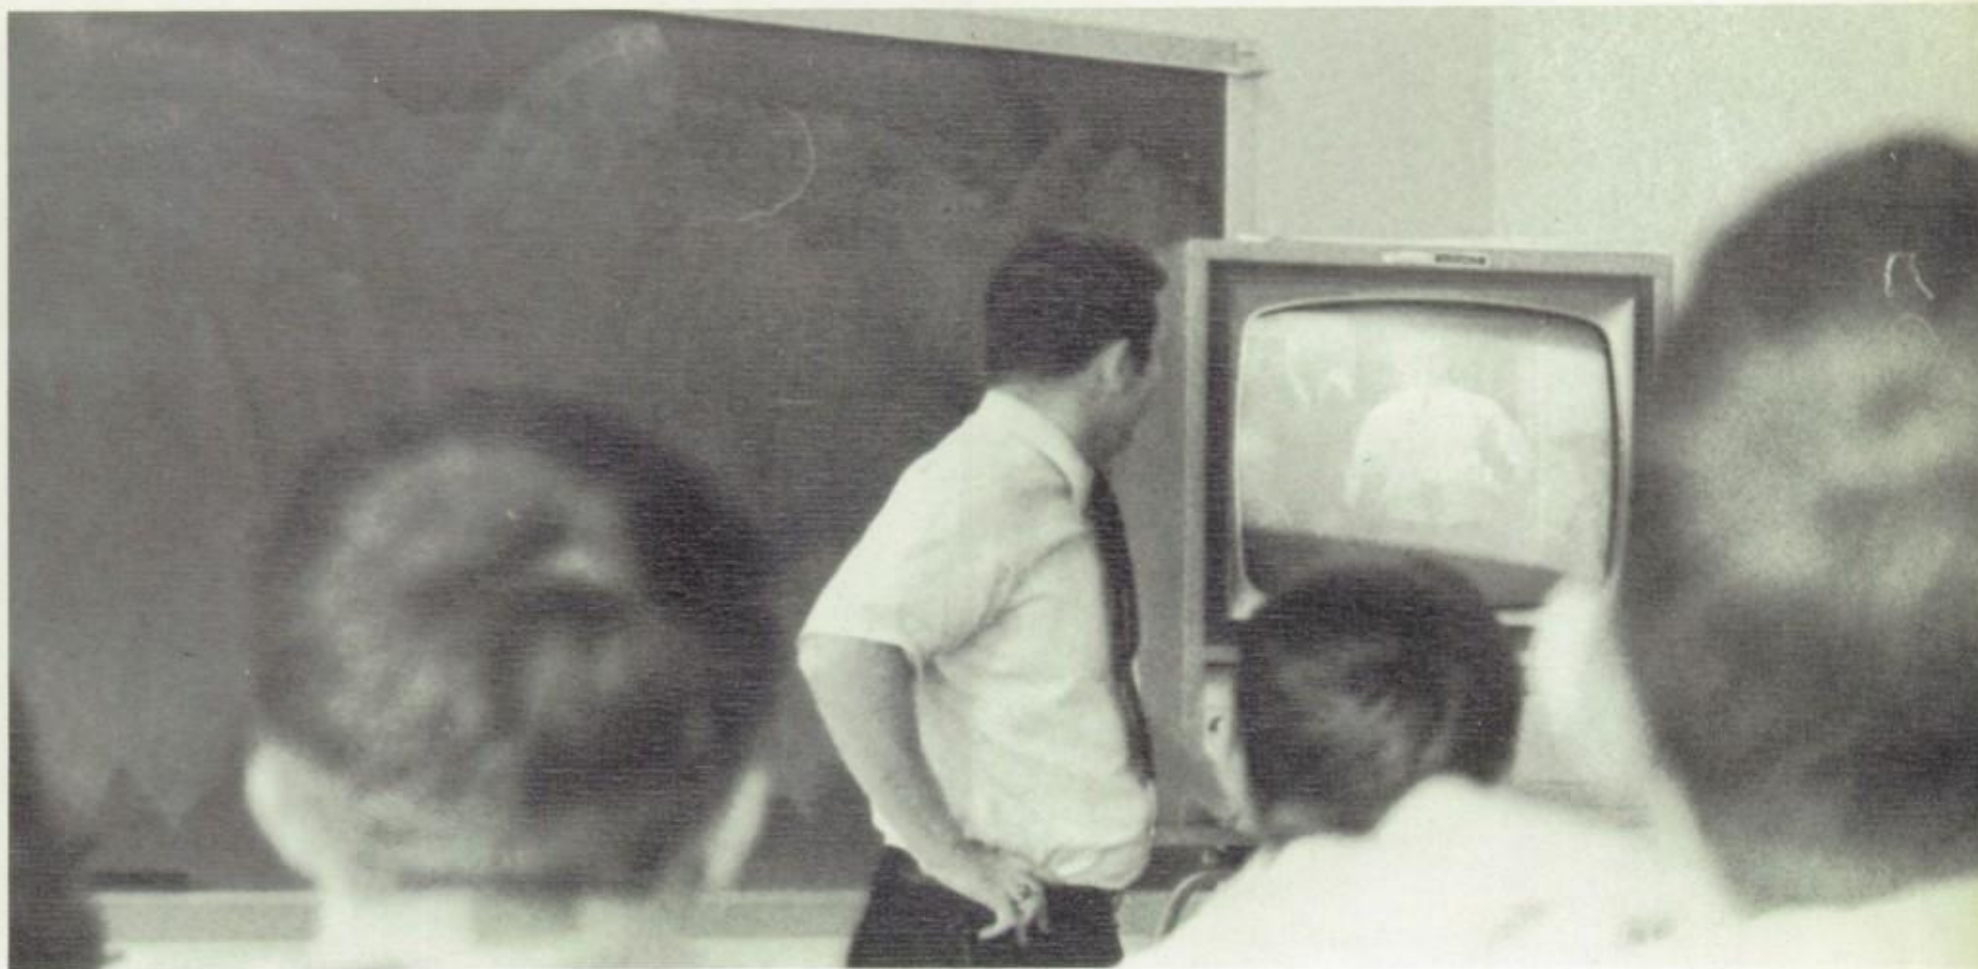

Principal Robert Platt and Mr. Robert Kerr of Jeanette Senior High School look over the agenda for the SAHS evaluation.

Encountering a problem with her computer program, Rebecca Stahl asks Mr. Baer for his advice.

Jim Zehner uses the new Scalar II, a radioactivity measuring device acquired this year by the physics department.

Employing the new closed-circuit TV apparatus, the science department sends Mr. Trent's English class greetings from the physics lab.

Rehearsing before the actual program, the Johnstown Quiz contestants, including our own Marsha Berkey and Robert Brant, warm up for their appearance on WJAC television with practice questions from moderator Mr. John Morehead.

A mock presidential election enabled junior high students to get a first-hand view of election procedures. The junior high elected Richard Nixon president.

Miss D'Alessandro, student teacher from Indiana University, sings "The Christmas Song" at the chorus Christmas assembly.

Student Teachers Appear In Performances

Student teachers from Indiana University of Pennsylvania learned as they assisted in the German, French and music departments. They all added variety to classes. Several participated in assembly programs presented to the student body and the community.

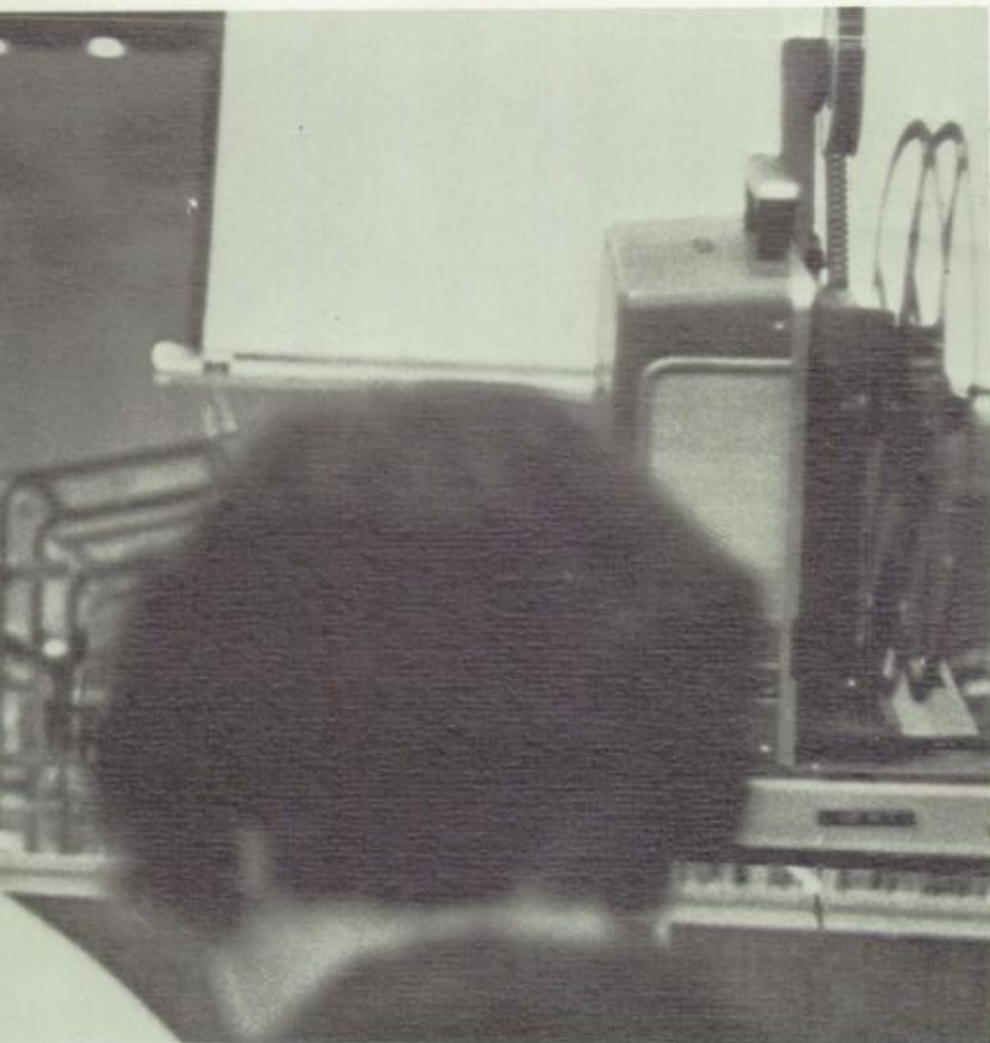

After holding the Johnstown College Quiz in abeyance for a year until the University of Pittsburgh, the quiz sponsor, was settled on its new campus, the event was resumed in 1968. From SAHS, Robert Brant and Marsha Berkey participated in the quiz, which was presented over WJAC television in Johnstown.

In the junior high, the Student Council sponsored a school-wide presidential election, which accurately predicted the results of the national election.

COLOR US . . . Inquisitive.

Mr. Ronald Stitt, student teacher, straightens out a march pattern with Drum Major Ronald Walker at football band practice.

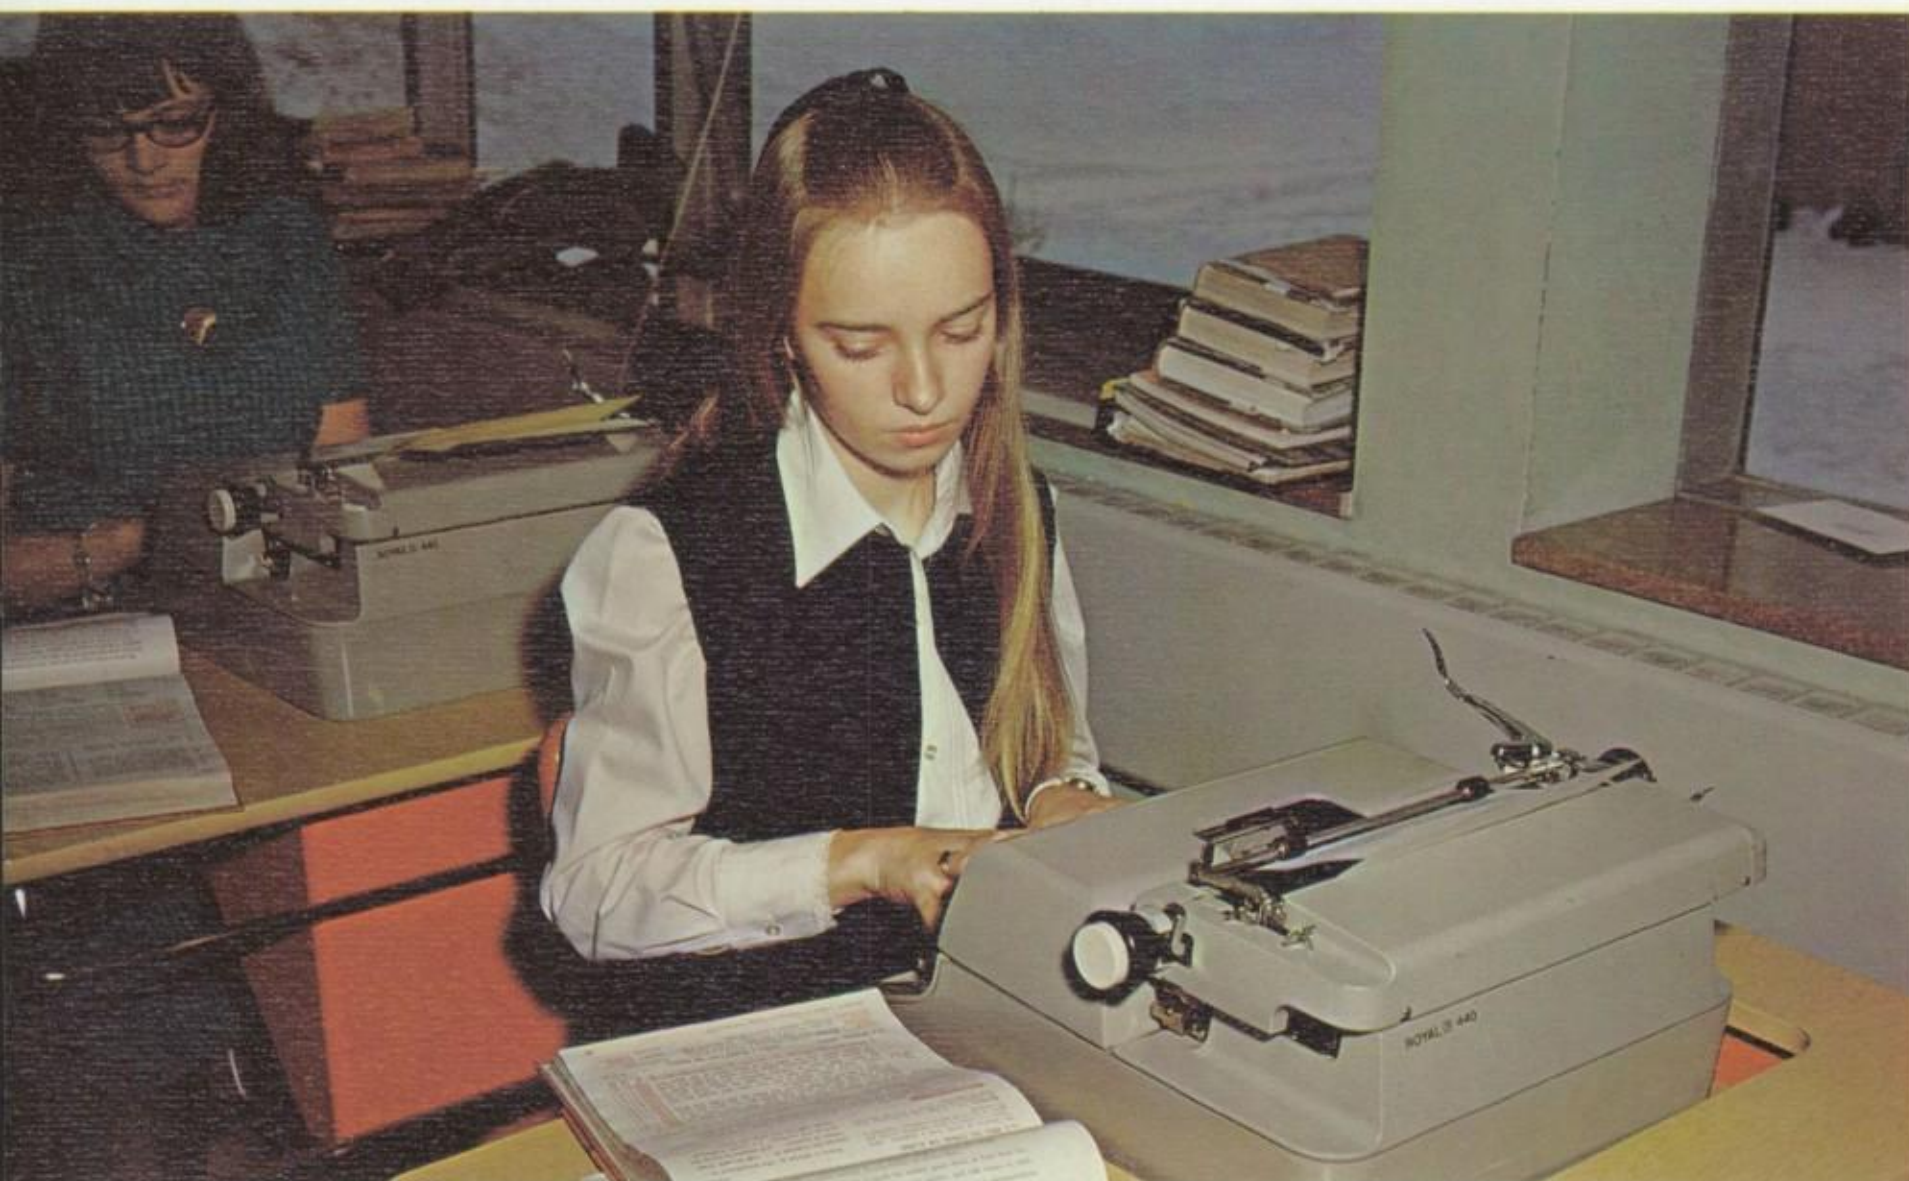

Once again this year, a civil defense course taught by Mr. Charles Morocco was offered to seniors, who responded with record-setting attendance.

Alethea Snyder runs a pH test on a water sample in the pilot stream-testing program conducted by the science departments of county schools.

Betty Glessner increases her speed and accuracy in Business Typing. Varied typing courses to suit varied needs were offered to students this year.

Clubs Supply Areas For Student Interest

Somerset students were deeply involved in the activities of their clubs and organizations. The Library Club extended its scope this year as members spearheaded a school-wide fund drive for Paula Pyle, a local girl in need of a kidney transplant. Support of Juanito Gambito, a Filipino foster child, was continued by the Student Council.

Members of the Future Business Leaders of America prepared Christmas packages for 35 SASHS graduates in Viet Nam. Funds for Care were collected by the Tri-Hi-Y in their annual drive.

The Future Teachers of America visited Indiana University of Pennsylvania and also participated in a day of teaching experience at both the elementary and high school levels.

Partial completion of a sidewalk along South Franklin Avenue was authorized by the school board. Editorials of "The Eagle's Echo" prompted the project, which will be completed soon.

Programs of news, sports, music and special features were taped and presented on WVSC-FM radio by the Radio Club.

COLOR US . . . Involved.

Preparing to collect for the Paula Pyle Fund, Mrs. Halverson and Library Club members prepare their star tags.

Dean Miller, Dan Riggs, Mr. Egolf, and Larry Barron survey a film to be shown to the student body by the Student Council.

Due largely to the editorial efforts of "The Eagle's Echo" staff, construction of a sidewalk along South Franklin Avenue was completed to insure the safety of students who walk to school.

FTA member Janice Kraus gains valuable experience as she leads discussion in an eighth grade history class.

Spanish Club members break a piñata, learning Spanish customs the fun way.

Assemblies Supply Entertainment, Enrichment

Diversified events enabled SAHS students to broaden their interests as various programs were presented to them throughout the year.

The student body observed an outdoor driving safety program sponsored by Nationwide Insurance Company, in which several students and faculty members participated. A specially equipped car tested the braking reaction times of the participants.

A percussion ensemble from Indiana University of Pennsylvania presented an unusual assembly program during which they performed modernistic numbers as well as unconventional arrangements of popular pieces. Qualified students represented SAHS at district and regional band, orchestra and chorus.

Senior, junior and sophomore groups presented skits during pep assemblies held before most athletic events. COLOR US . . . Curious.

Mr. John Dice introduces a number at the annual Christmas concert presented by the chorus.

Bill Riggs adds to the cheerleading display at a pep assembly.

◀ "The Eagle's Echo" staff members prepare their pages for the monthly deadline. The "Echo" in the past has won a number of awards.

Carolyn Gambino emerges from the demonstration car as Leslie Rovnyak prepares the stopping distance statistics in the driving safety program underwritten by the Nationwide Insurance Company.

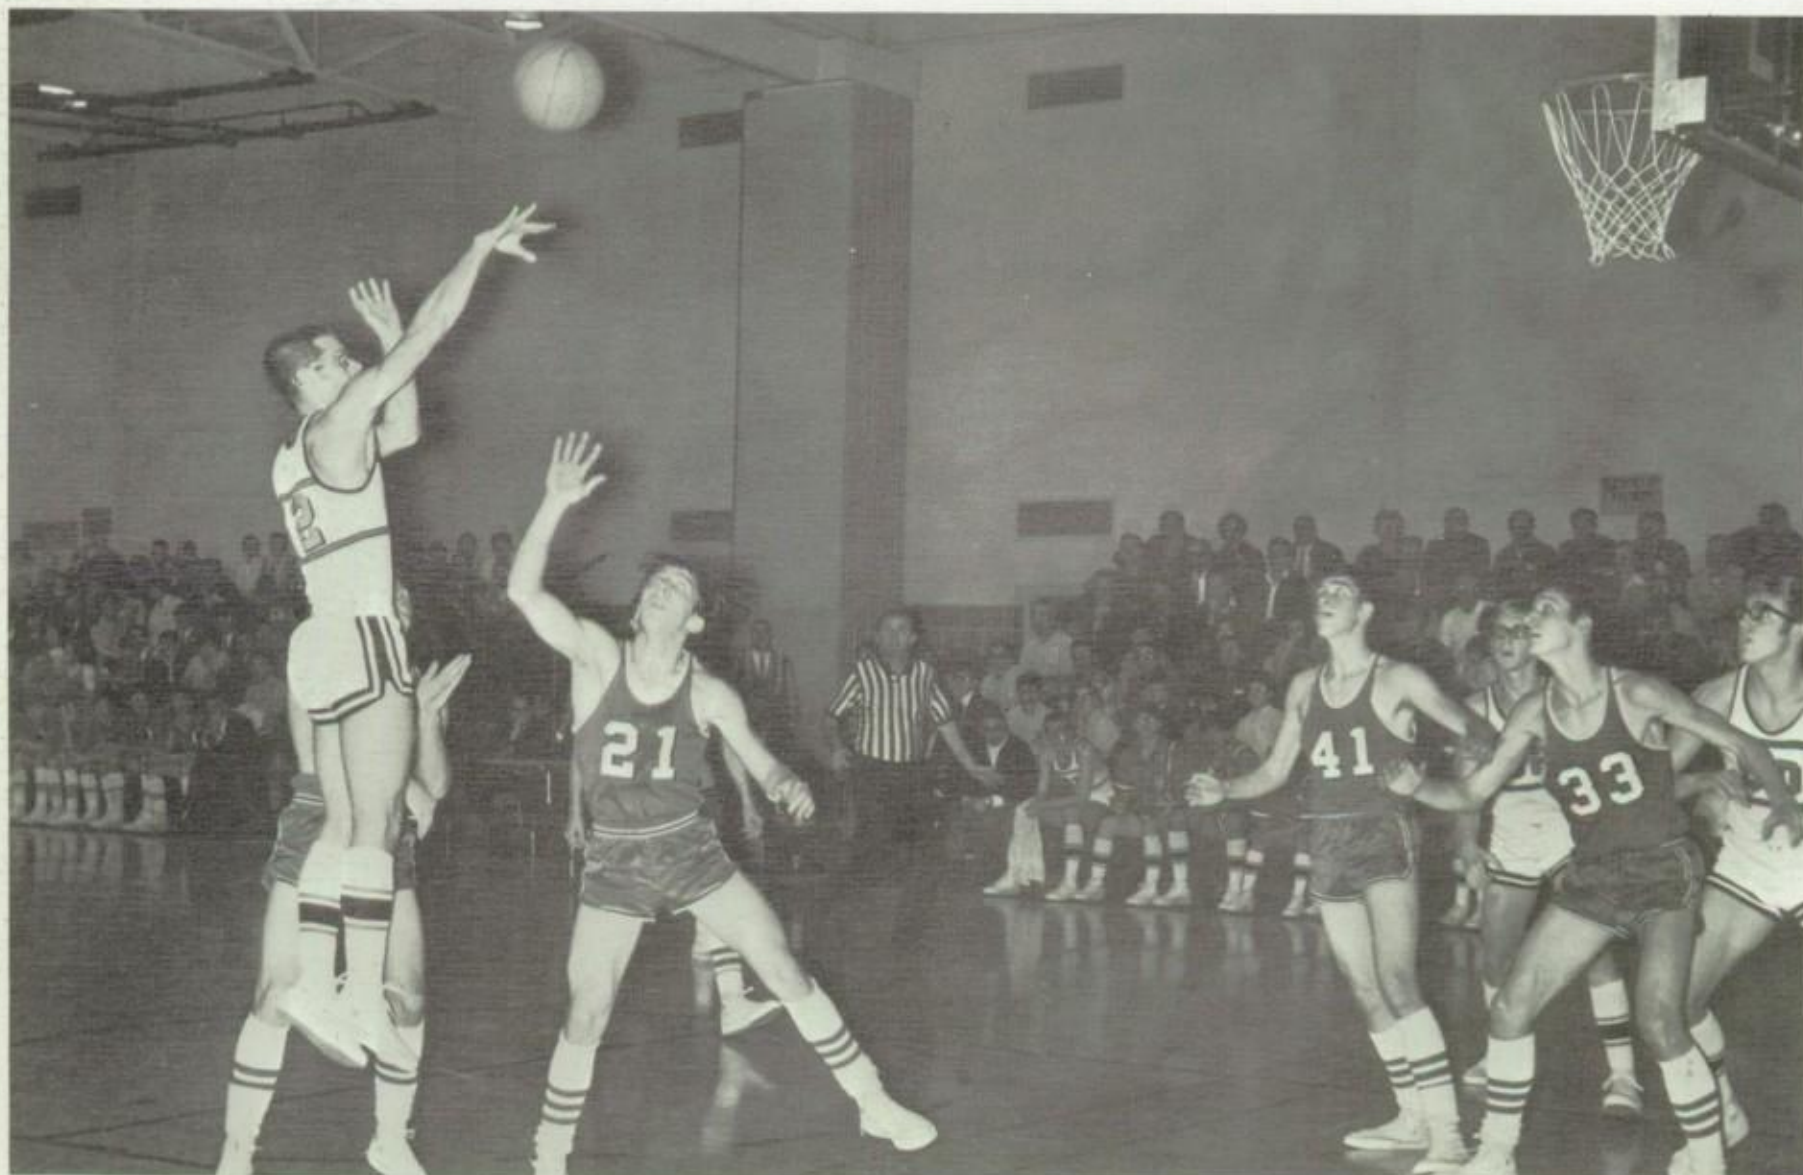

Cross Country Coach Pfrogner follows his team as they compete against Ferndale.

Clark Gross pins his Forrest Hill opponent in the second match won by the Eagles. Coach James McCall led the matmen for the second season this year.

Athletes Thrill With Victories, Learn From

Breaking through the Indiana defense, Randy Urban scores to increase the Eagles' lead in a hard-fought game.

Defeats, Value Both

Under the coaching of Mr. James Pfrogner, cross country running added a new dimension to sports at SAHS. Competing with several other schools in the area, Eagle runners gained experience and confidence.

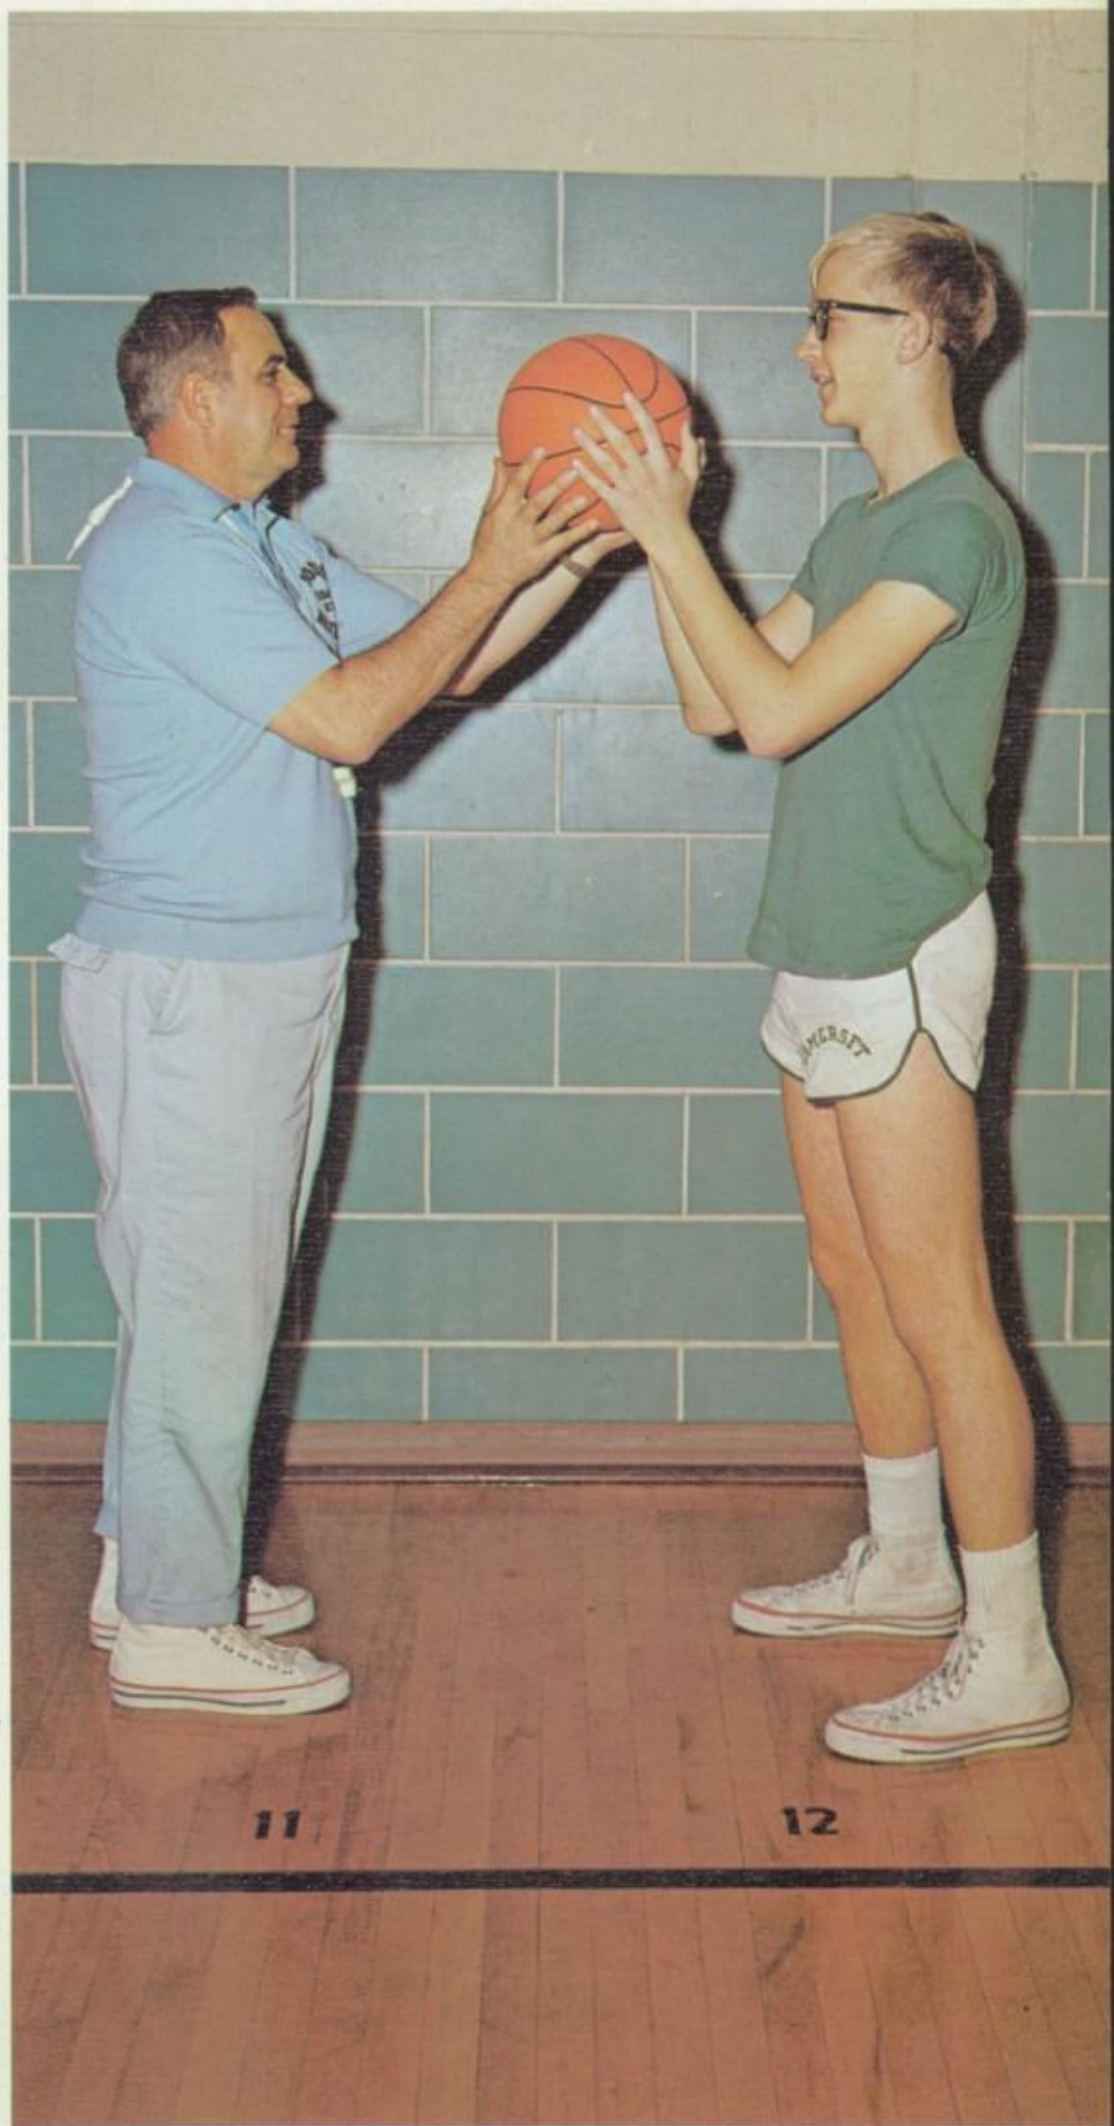

New coaches highlighted sports activities at SAHS this year. Mr. Wilson Weaver took over as head football coach after Mr. Carl Waugaman, successful twenty-year veteran, retired from that post. Golf coach Chester Pfeffer stepped down from his position as Mr. Garvin Kissinger assumed those responsibilities. Wrestling coach James McCall began his second year as head of the matmen. The wrestlers also received new match uniforms, warmup jackets and traveling sweaters.

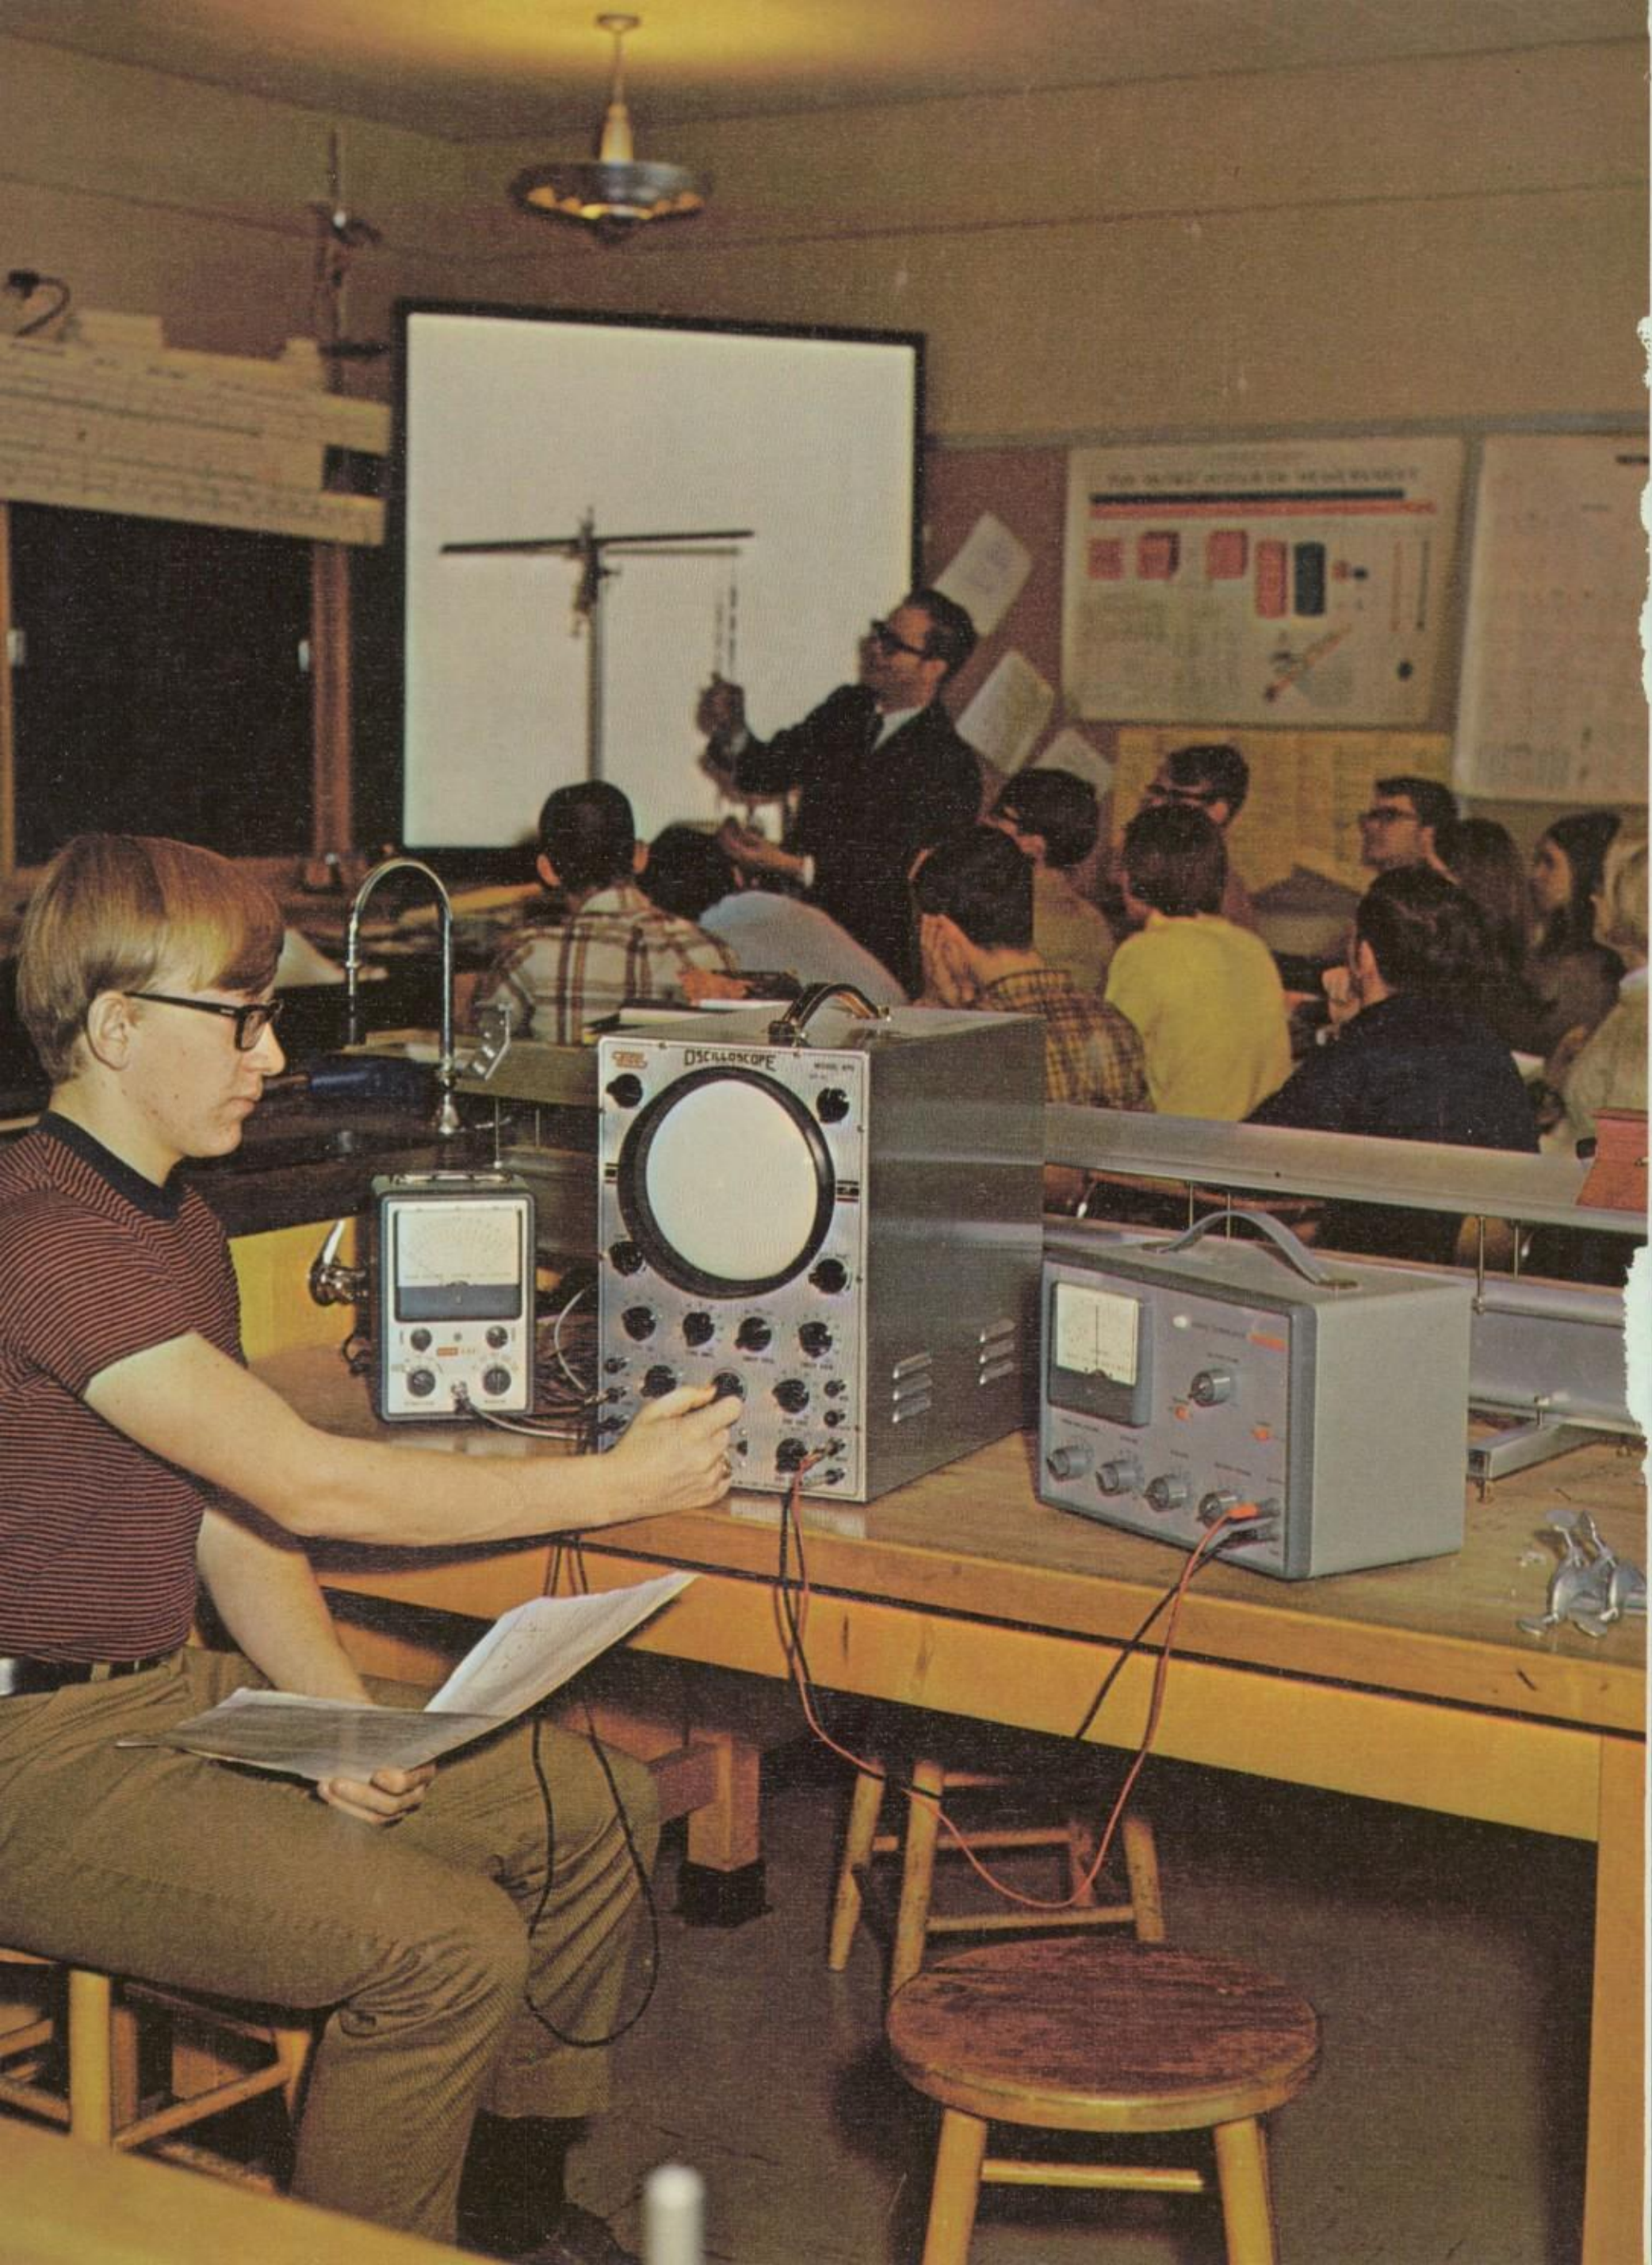

Pep assemblies fired school spirit and urged all teams on to victory with rousing cheers and speeches in the SAHS tradition.

COLOR US . . . Competitive.

At basketball practice, Coach Pfeffer demonstrates to Mark Pile the correct way to hold the ball for increased shooting proficiency.

Quarterback Randy Urban charges through the Richland line in one of the toughest games of the season.

◀ In advanced science class Karl Glessner studies the wave pattern on an oscilloscope.

Diane Gerhardt prepares a mural for the Soph-Senior, this year entitled "Once Upon A Time."

Knowledge Is A Goal — Color Us Stimulated

This book is a stimulant. Its purpose is to encourage the eyes and mind to replace the black and white of the following pages with the colors of experience: the people, sights, sounds, ideas and moods of which we were all a part. We could not possibly include all the events of the past year; our objective is to include those which will prompt the recollection of other, more personal memories, the ones which will be the most cherished in years to come.

COLOR US . . . Provocative.

For five long weeks, Jim Zehner and the other members of the cast of Pillow Talk spent their evenings at rehearsals.

Denise Custer catches forty winks on the bus trip home from the journalism conference at the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown.

Death is not a part of a high school student's life. He doesn't worry about it or think about it—it has no place in his plans. Who ever expects the end at the beginning? Unfortunately, the young don't always escape death. It strikes without preference, without warning—without explanation. The tragic accidents last summer made this all too clear to us. We don't understand why our classmates had to die. Our only consolation is that God, who is helping us to remember, is also helping us to forget. As we gradually forget the sudden, horrible shock of a news bulletin or a friend's telephone call, we are remembering more and more their accomplishments and their lives with us. We've felt the loss of our friends as we have participated in this year's activities. They aren't with us—but they can't really die so long as they are a part of our experience. Because this book records the year's activities and because it serves as a stimulus to our memories, we offer it as a continual memorial to Brenda Weigle, Diana Gasperine and William Engle. May it continue to serve as a tangible symbol of our intangible sense of affection and loss.

The experiences of learning—
classrooms, teachers, books, research, exams, study halls and tardy bells—all lasting impressions of this, the most important purpose of school.

School Board Consents To Pool Construction

Mr. Donald Rininger
Assistant Supervising Principal

The Somerset Area School Board established all standard policies and guidelines administered by our school system during this term. The school directors acted on a major issue this year: the question of a municipal swimming pool for the use of the senior and junior high gym classes. A decision was made to initiate the project, in conjunction with state authorities, at a site near the senior high school.

This year Somerset Area Senior High School was re-evaluated by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Certification by this association is important to students when they are applying to college or seeking employment, because it shows that their school is able to meet the high standards set by the Middle States Association.

The administrators' continuous efforts helped to provide students with a year of learning, which guided them toward mature values.

This year's evaluation program played a major role in the activities of the secretarial staff. Besides their regular duties of keeping records orderly, typing daily bulletins and issuing announcements, they typed a manuscript concerning every aspect of our curricular and extra-curricular facilities.

Mrs. Emma Hay served as guidance counselor for seventh and eighth grade students. Mr. Richard Colliver assisted ninth and tenth grade students in selecting the proper course of study. Mrs. Pauline Glessner aided eleventh and twelfth grade students with college applications, entrance examinations and possible job opportunities.

Mrs. Mary Dean Manges, home-school visitor and psychologist, aided students with the recognition and examination of personal problems as they occurred.

Mrs. Grace Carey, head dietician, planned nutritious, well-balanced lunches for the student body in six buildings.

School nurse Mrs. Shirley Keafer assisted in routine physicals and in the compilation of medical records while she was on duty to handle everyday emergencies.

By use of closed circuit television, Mr. Rhoads shows Sharon Augustine what occurs during the process of mitosis.

Introduced this year into the senior science department was a program of stream pollution study. Conducted throughout Somerset County, it served as a pilot program for an early warning system against stream pollution. Sophomore, junior, and senior science students were eligible to participate.

Laboratory biology provided students with an opportunity to perform experiments in cell physiology, bacteriology, and genetics. Students in general biology studied the basic concepts of these fields.

In chemistry, students studied the composition of matter. Fundamentals of computer programming and slide rule procedure were also introduced.

In the physics department, lecture and laboratory procedure supplemented studies of mechanics, heat, light, sound and magnetism. The department added a linear air track to use in problems dealing with acceleration.

Students wishing to increase their knowledge of science elected advanced science. Electronics was the major course of study.

Students interested in the field of nursing studied nurses' anatomy.

Physical science dealt with science in more general terms than either chemistry or physics.

The junior high science department strove to give students a strong general background in science. Freshmen in general science classes performed experiments dealing with weights and pulleys.

In the biology lab Mr. Rhodes explains the proper use of the new microscope to Mary Dosch.

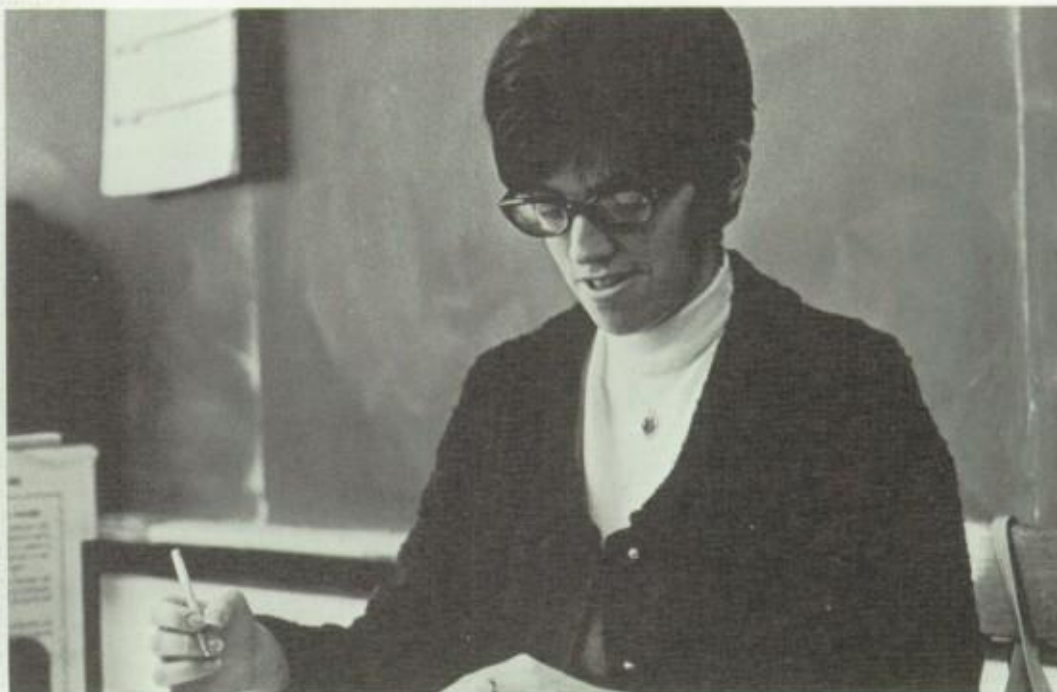

Seventh grader Melanie Schumaker takes time to feed the fish before science class begins.

During Algebra I class Mrs. Bressler helps Sammy Barnett solve an algebraic equation involving one unknown.

Senior high mathematics students were offered a wide selection of courses this year. This selection consisted of Math II, a further study of modern math; Algebra I, the study of formulas and unknowns; Algebra II, where quadratic equations and logarithms were mastered; modern geometry, an inquiry into the properties of points, lines, planes and their relations in space; trigonometry, which dealt primarily with the ratios found within right triangles; and Algebra III, a search into concepts as expressed in formulas.

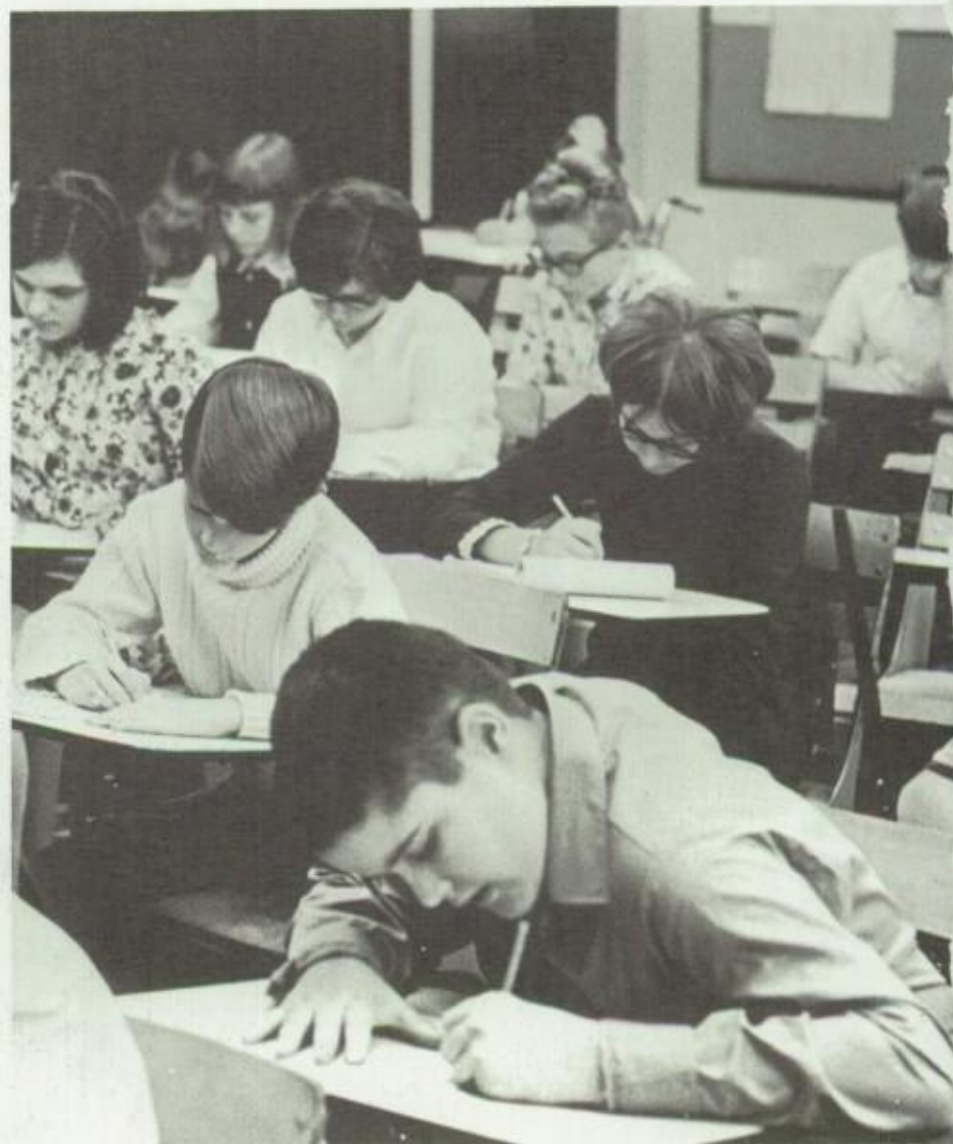

Pre-nursing students could elect nurses' math, where they concentrated on procedures necessary for their chosen career. They gained information in metric and English system conversions, the make-up of solutions in correct percentages, and fractional and decimal equations.

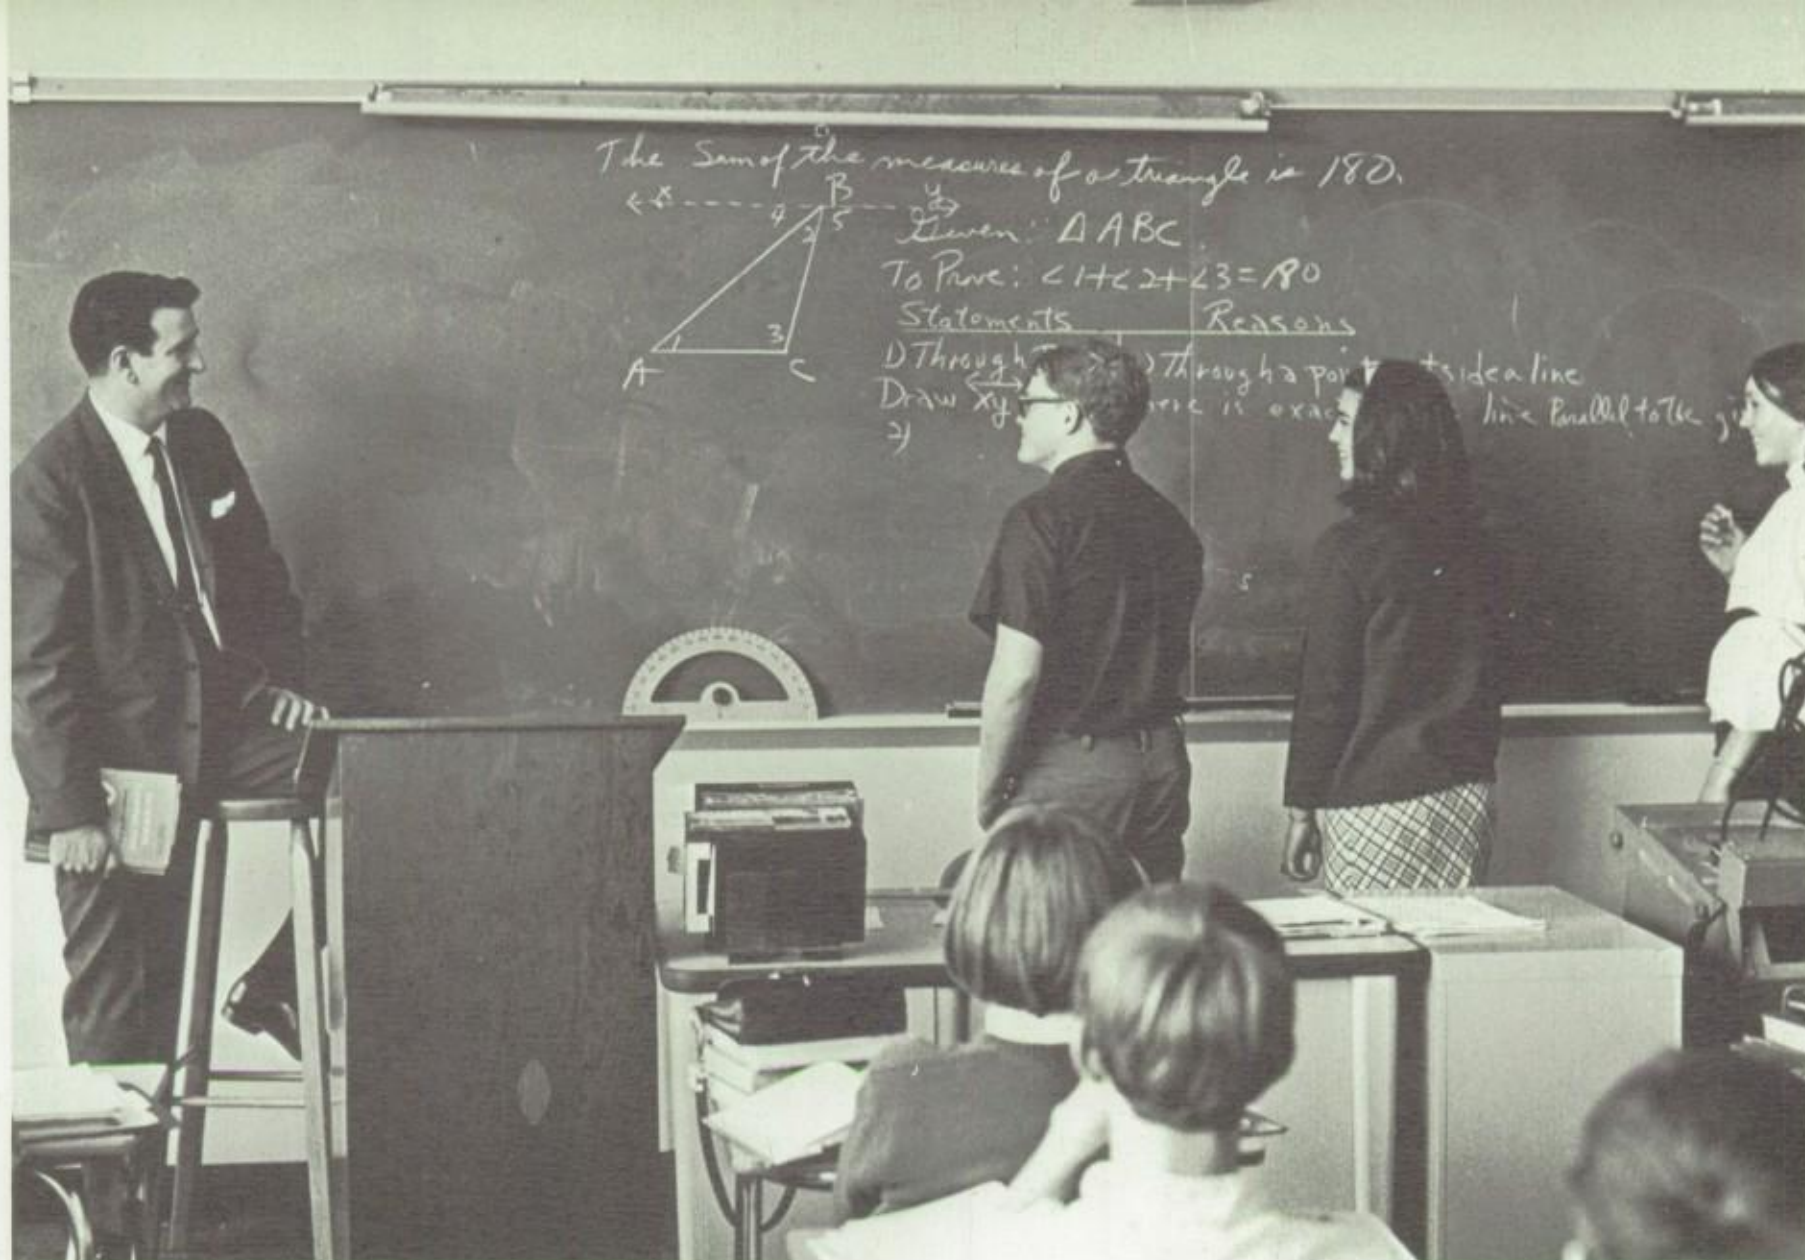

Students in the business field chose business math. Basic arithmetic, stressing speed and accuracy, was the focal point.

Students interested in furthering their studies in math elected advanced math, a step between trigonometry and calculus. Taking part in this class qualified students for membership in the math club, Mu Alpha Theta.

Junior high math courses built foundations in modern math, Algebra I, and Math I. Students learned basic concepts in seventh grade, adding knowledge of higher mathematics as they progressed through succeeding levels.

Seventh grade students attempt to solve a difficult problem in modern math class.

Mr. Urbain watches in amusement while Mark Erickson, Carol Blair and Barb Beeghly struggle through a modern geometry proof.

P.O.D. Classes Examine Basic U.S. Policy

Mr. Egolf lectures his sophomore world cultures class on Taoism, a religion of the Orient.

Unaware that he has been caught sleeping in fourth period P.O.D. class, Rick Talley faces a rude awakening from Mr. Kissinger.

Sophomores studied the present and past history of many countries in world cultures. In American history juniors pursued in detail the growth and development of our nation's government, economy and culture, which helped them to better understand our nation's current policies. Seniors in problems of democracy and economics studied political parties and the organization of our government and economic system in comparison with other political and economic systems of the modern world.

Junior high students studied world history in seventh grade. The eighth grade study of American history was highlighted by special emphasis on Pennsylvania. Ninth grade civics taught students about their government and their responsibilities as good citizens. Their study was stimulated by a mock election of national and state officials in this presidential year.

In geography, seventh and eighth grade students studied the locations and customs of national groups throughout the world. World geography, consisting of advanced study of the world and its peoples, was offered in the senior high as a full-year elective.

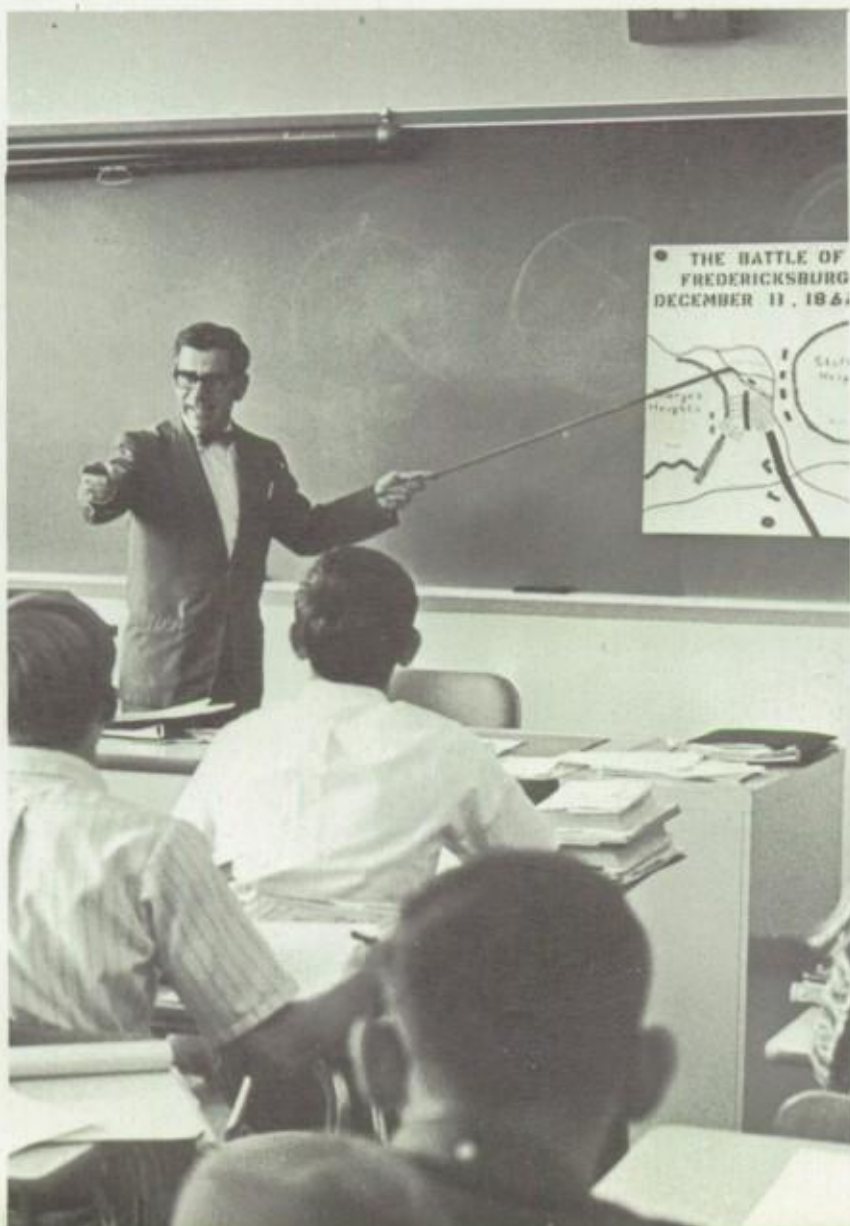

Eighth grade students find that Mr. Russell's history tests require preliminary study.

Randy Miller and Claudia Clay supplement their study of prehistoric man by reading the bulletin board in Mr. Kallman's room.

During the study of the Civil War Mr. Bressler shows his American history class the layout of the Battle of Fredericksburg, one of the bloodiest battles of the war.

Showing his seventh grade geography class the location of Yugoslavia is David Miller.

English Courses Offer Wide Range Of Study

Sophomores expanded their basic knowledge of English by studying conjugation of verbs, sentence structure, vocabulary, and general literature.

A double-track English program offered juniors and seniors a choice between either journalism or academic English plus a literature course. Journalism students chose to specialize in either newspaper or yearbook. All journalism and academic English students studied American literature in grade eleven and English literature in grade twelve.

Those students not enrolled in the academic program chose either vocational, technical or general English courses. Business English, offered to senior business education students, consisted of grammar, public speaking and spelling.

Junior high students gained a firm foundation of English through study of grammar, composition and literature.

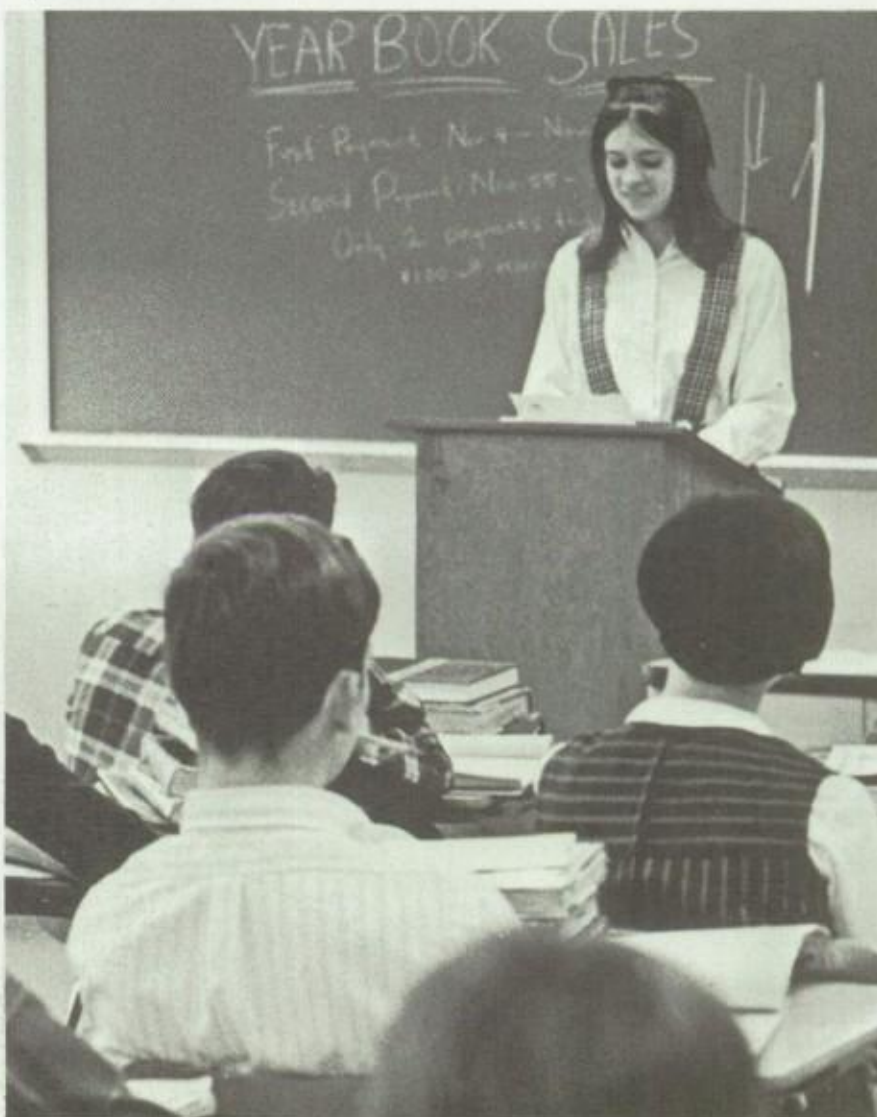

Seventh and eighth grade students enrolled in reading courses, which stressed reading speed and comprehension. An additional reading course was required for freshmen not taking a foreign language.

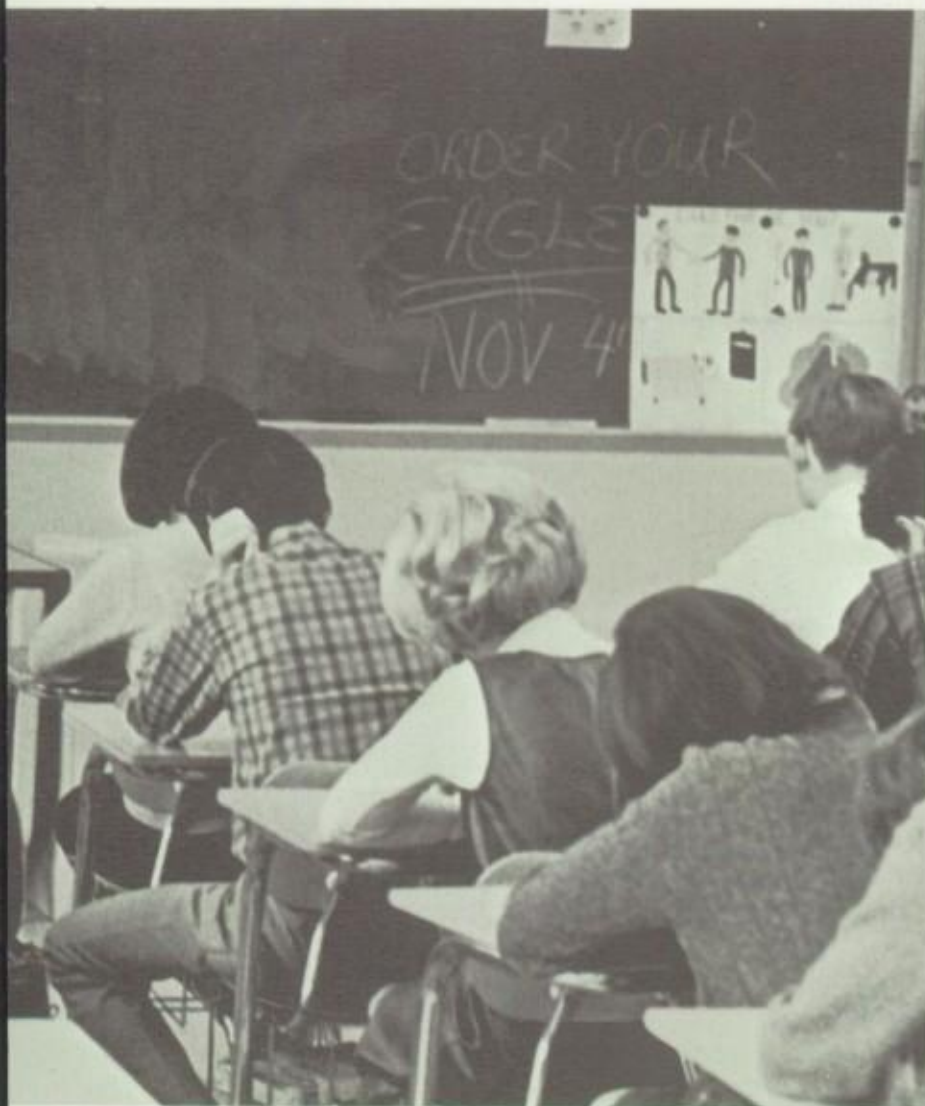

Preparing a book on the 1968 presidential candidates for reading class is freshman James Charlesworth.

While his English literature class writes an essay on French authors of the Elizabethan period, Mr. Trent thinks of all those papers he's going to have to read.

Her sophomore English class listens intently as Patty Barndt gives a book report on Socrates.

Immersed in themes to correct, Mrs. Cindric hopes to finish by the end of the grading period.

To Foreign Languages

Foreign languages were offered to students who wished to broaden their knowledge and use of them. These elective courses provided cultural enrichment and a foundation for possible careers in the foreign language field.

In the seventh and eighth grade students explored Spanish in a nine-week course. They studied the customs of the Spanish speaking countries and the basic grammar of the language. Freshmen could choose from among German, French and Spanish for the first full year of study. This consisted of conversation and grammar.

The senior high extended French, German and Spanish into four possible years of study. Here students studied the culture, customs and literature of the country they were concentrating on. They also learned common expressions, songs and poems. Student teachers from Indiana University of Pennsylvania assisted in the German and French departments. During the year a language assembly was also presented to the student body.

Miss Brant prepares tapes for students to use in taking dictation from the multiple-listening stations throughout the transcription room.

Sophomore general business students studied basic fundamentals of business procedure.

Business typing acquainted commercial students with proper techniques of typing. Academic students could elect semester courses of personal typing and notehand. These courses enabled students to get a condensed but basic background in these fields.

Shorthand I and II aided business students in taking dictation and transcribing notes. The listening laboratory was a help in promoting individual progress.

Bookkeeping helped junior and senior business students acquire a solid background in keeping both personal and business records. Some academic students elected this course in addition to their regular schedules.

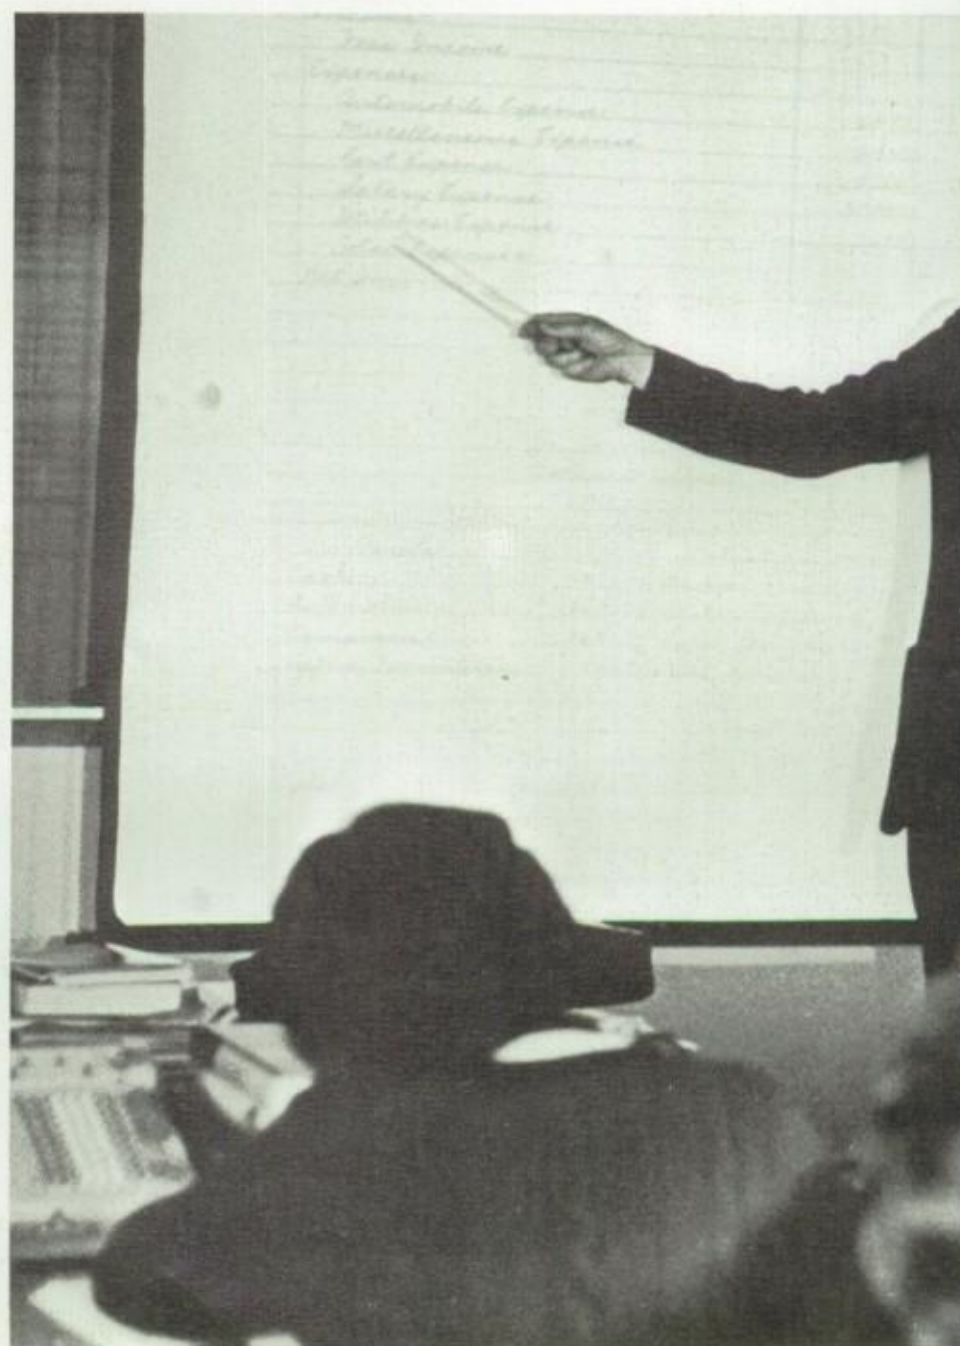

Serving as a final math course for junior business students, business math reviewed fundamentals.

Business English stressed business letter writing, grammar and punctuation to senior commercial students.

The aim of business law was to familiarize seniors with the various laws of business.

Sales students learned the main principles of selling as a vocation.

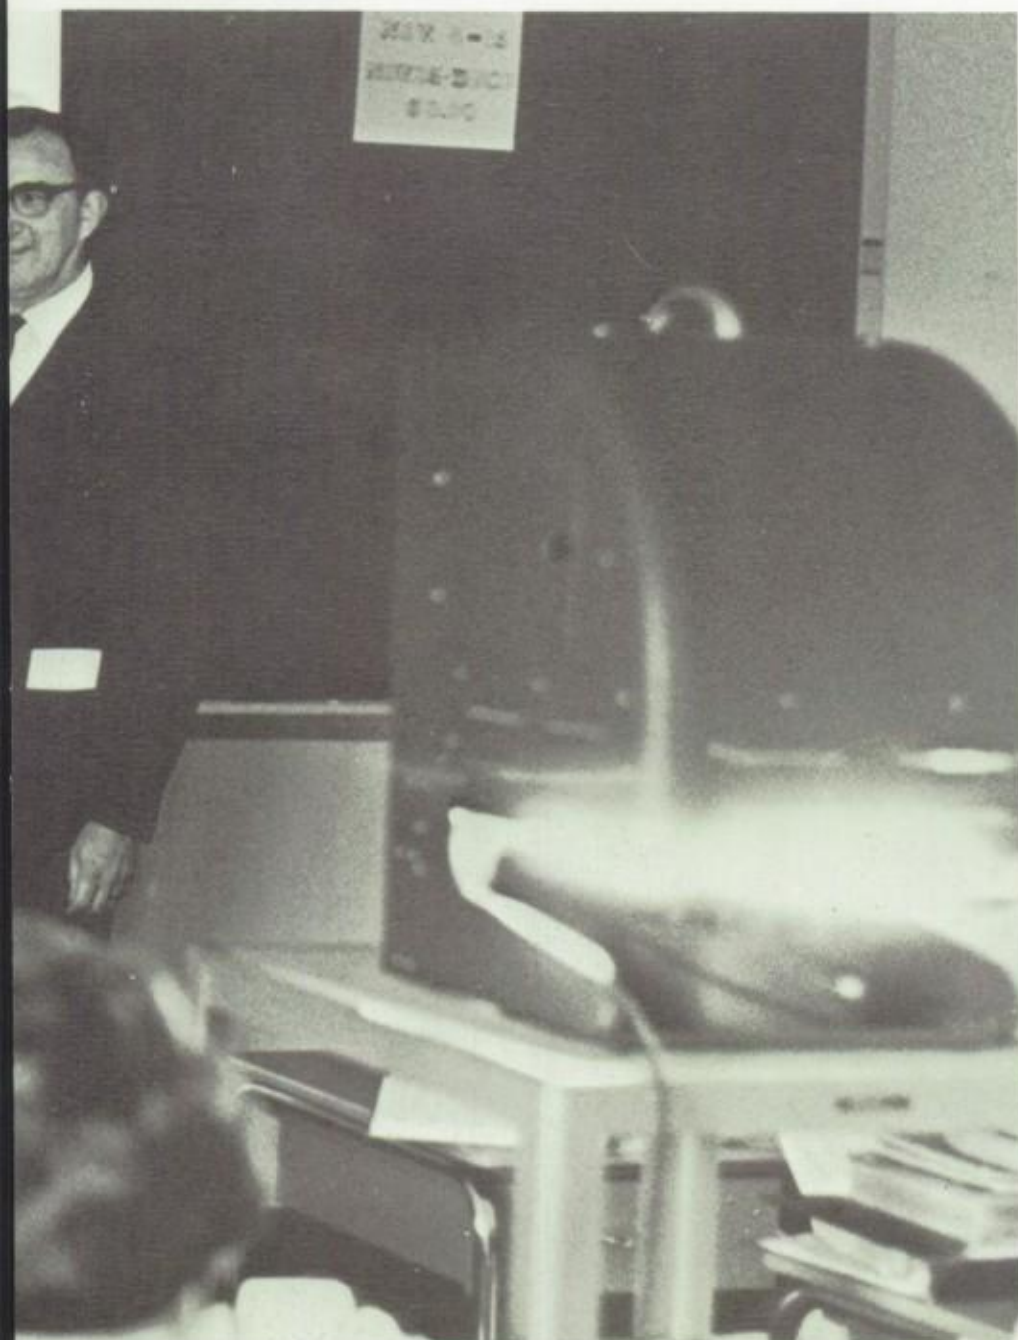

Office and clerical practice served as a finishing course for senior business students. Data processing, the use of business machines and business responsibility were discussed in an employer-employee atmosphere.

Linda Countryman and Vicki Cree work on income tax returns during their work experience week at Cambria Savings.

Marcia Mulhollen is deep in her project, the construction of a wool dress. Senior vocational students added tailoring to their sewing skills.

During a nine-week vocational block course junior high school boys received instruction in wood or metal shop. Some projects undertaken were gunracks, coffee tables, bowls, trays and lamps. A course in home economics taught junior high girls basic sewing, personal grooming, child care and the preparation of well-balanced meals.

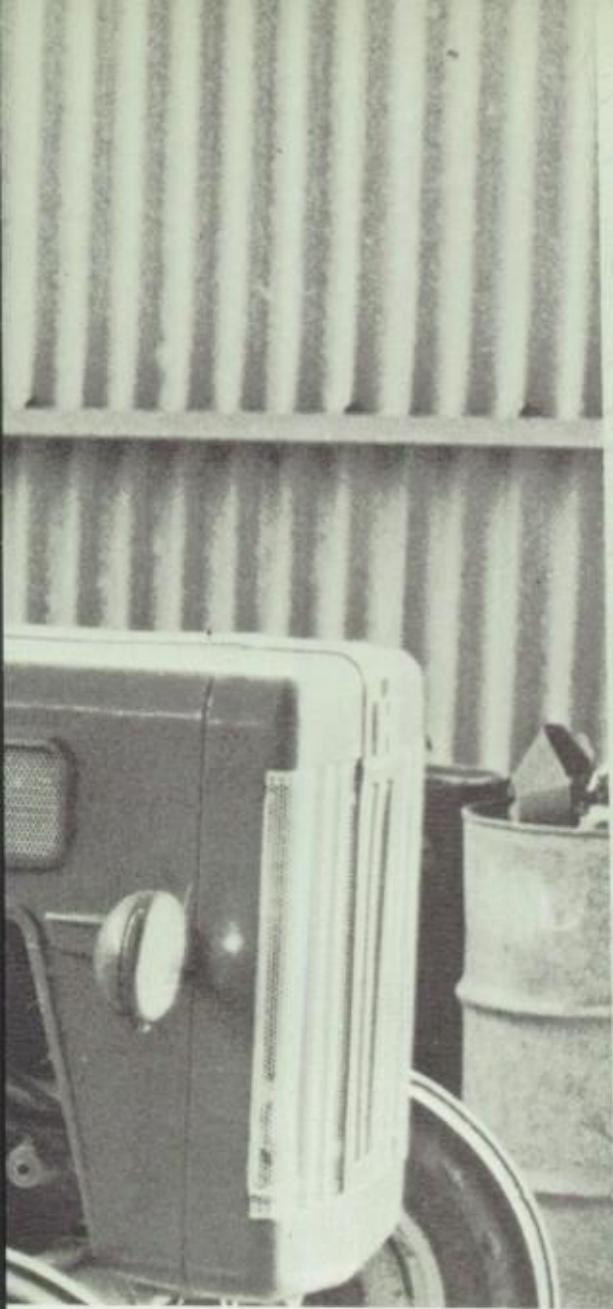

Upon entering the senior high, boys interested in a vocational career could select either a course in industrial vocational fields or in vocational agriculture.

Automotive mechanics gave boys instruction in the repair and maintenance of automobiles. Machine shop taught operation of practical tools. In addition the department offered an elective course in small gasoline engines.

In the vocational agriculture course students gained off-farm training and management as well as on-the-spot farm practice to assist and familiarize them with actual farm environments. The Pennsylvania State FFA awarded the Keystone Farmer Degree to senior Jay Shaffer in ceremonies at the State Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Vocational and general home economics consisted of courses in child care, cooking, sewing and decorating. Boys could elect home economics in a separate all-male class meeting once a week, which gave them actual experience in the field of cooking.

A semester course in nutrition for pre-nursing students explored such fields as nutritional values and consumption of food.

Advanced Art, Art Craft

Students in the junior high participated in a nine-week art course. They worked on projects in sculpture, enameling, jewelry, stitchery, ceramics, architecture and experimental painting, which included oil, tempera, grease, water, plastic and acrylic.

Senior high students had many of the same fields to choose from on a more advanced level. In addition they could study weaving and graphics. The Department acquired a new potter's wheel to be used in ceramics.

Art students designed and produced program covers for many school and community activities. They also made posters for many of the same events, as well as for the Hire the Handicapped contest.

Sophomore and junior artists displayed their talents in decorations for the Soph-Senior dance and the Junior Prom. Senior art students helped design and construct the stage set for the senior class play.

Boosters' Club Supplements Music Program

In junior high, students had music class twice a week. They sang new songs as well as old favorites. Interested students could participate in band, orchestra and chorus.

Students in the senior high could further their music education in music appreciation class. This course consisted of music history and the study of composers. They also studied music theory—how music is written and how to write it.

The senior high band performed complicated formations during half-time at the football games. They also presented a spring concert and marched in local parades.

The orchestra and a portion of the chorus presented selections at Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. Both presented a spring concert. The chorus gave a Christmas concert.

This year interested parents and members of the community organized a Music Booster's Club to earn money to help buy equipment for the music organizations of the school.

Driving Emphasizes Defense Techniques

Driver training, including both classroom and road instruction, stressed driving as an individual responsibility to observe the rules of the road with the intention of staying alive. This meant that a driver should drive defensively every time he gets behind the wheel.

Mr. Shurlock from Nationwide Insurance re-evaluated the effects of careless driving during a safety assembly film. This film showed in grim reality what a slight mistake can create when it occurs in the middle of the highway. Following the film, a demonstration showed students the braking time, reaction time and stopping time of ordinary drivers at different speeds.

The school acquired new standard-shift and automatic driving cars this year. In driving class students gained actual experience which led to the earning of a Pennsylvania driver's license.

Health Stresses First Aid, Good Attitudes

Sophomore health presented materials dealing with body structure and functions in order to provide a basic understanding of the human system. This instruction provided opportunities for students to develop useful knowledge, health habits, attitudes and ideals necessary to meet present and future health needs.

Junior high classes built a foundation by teaching basic systems of the human body, which involved studies of the heart, lungs, bones and brain. The functions of the organs, their effects upon the body's growth and the diseases that might be encountered also found their way into class discussion. The program emphasized first aid for the importance it could have in some unforeseen emergency.

Instructor Carl Waugaman expressed his ideas: "We endeavor to stress those facts pertaining to health that will enable the pupil to live most and to serve best."

Sound Bodies Built Through Intensive Work

Calisthenics began each gym class this year at both the senior and the junior high schools. The physical education program offered a variety of activities to students.

Senior high girls' gym classes, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Coleman, offered sports that would be beneficial after graduation. The program included soccer, volleyball, bowling, golf and impressionistic dancing. An intramural bowling program offered interested girls an opportunity to apply their school instruction in bowling to regular competition.

Boys at the senior high developed speed and accuracy in sports such as speedball, volleyball, wrestling and handball, taught by Mr. David Maize.

Junior high teachers stressed co-ordination and teamwork. The boys, instructed by Mr. Edward Joseph, participated in soccer, gymnastics, wrestling, basketball, track and work-outs on gym apparatus. Miss Sally Saylor presented field hockey, basketball and tumbling as forms of physical activities for junior high girls.

The year ended with physical fitness tests. Trophies were presented to the boy and the girl achieving the highest scores on both the junior and the senior high school level.

Senior class sponsor Mr. Fridy with class officers Wendell Miller, Mary Cascio, Susan Miller and Blaine Trent discuss the ordering of graduation announcements and name cards.

In Somerset Schools

They came from various areas surrounding Somerset to a school about which they knew very little. As they struggled through the first few years of high school, they were quite doubtful of their future. Now, standing together as the Class of 1969, they prepare to pave the way to their future.

Under the leadership of their class officers, they were one as they climbed to the top. The freshman class play, Erasmus With Freckles, enjoyed great prestige as the first class play at Somerset Junior High. Then their two tributes to the seniors, the Soph-Senior dance, Italy By Night, and the Junior Prom, Somewhere In Switzerland, were colored with success.

The annual senior magazine sales topped the total of the previous year by over $1,200 when the goal was met on the last day of sales with a total of $14,934.

The senior class play, Pillow Talk, drew large crowds as two casts performed.

Sally Critchfield did an outstanding job of coloring the seniors proud when she represented them at Johnstown in February as Somerset's Maple Princess.

Athletics drew a large turnout of seniors as impressive athletic ability was displayed by Randy Urban, named to the Johnstown Tribune All-Star Football Team and Dean Carr, who received honorable mention.

Representing the class and school in the Johnstown Scholastic Quiz were Marsha Berkey and Robert Brant.

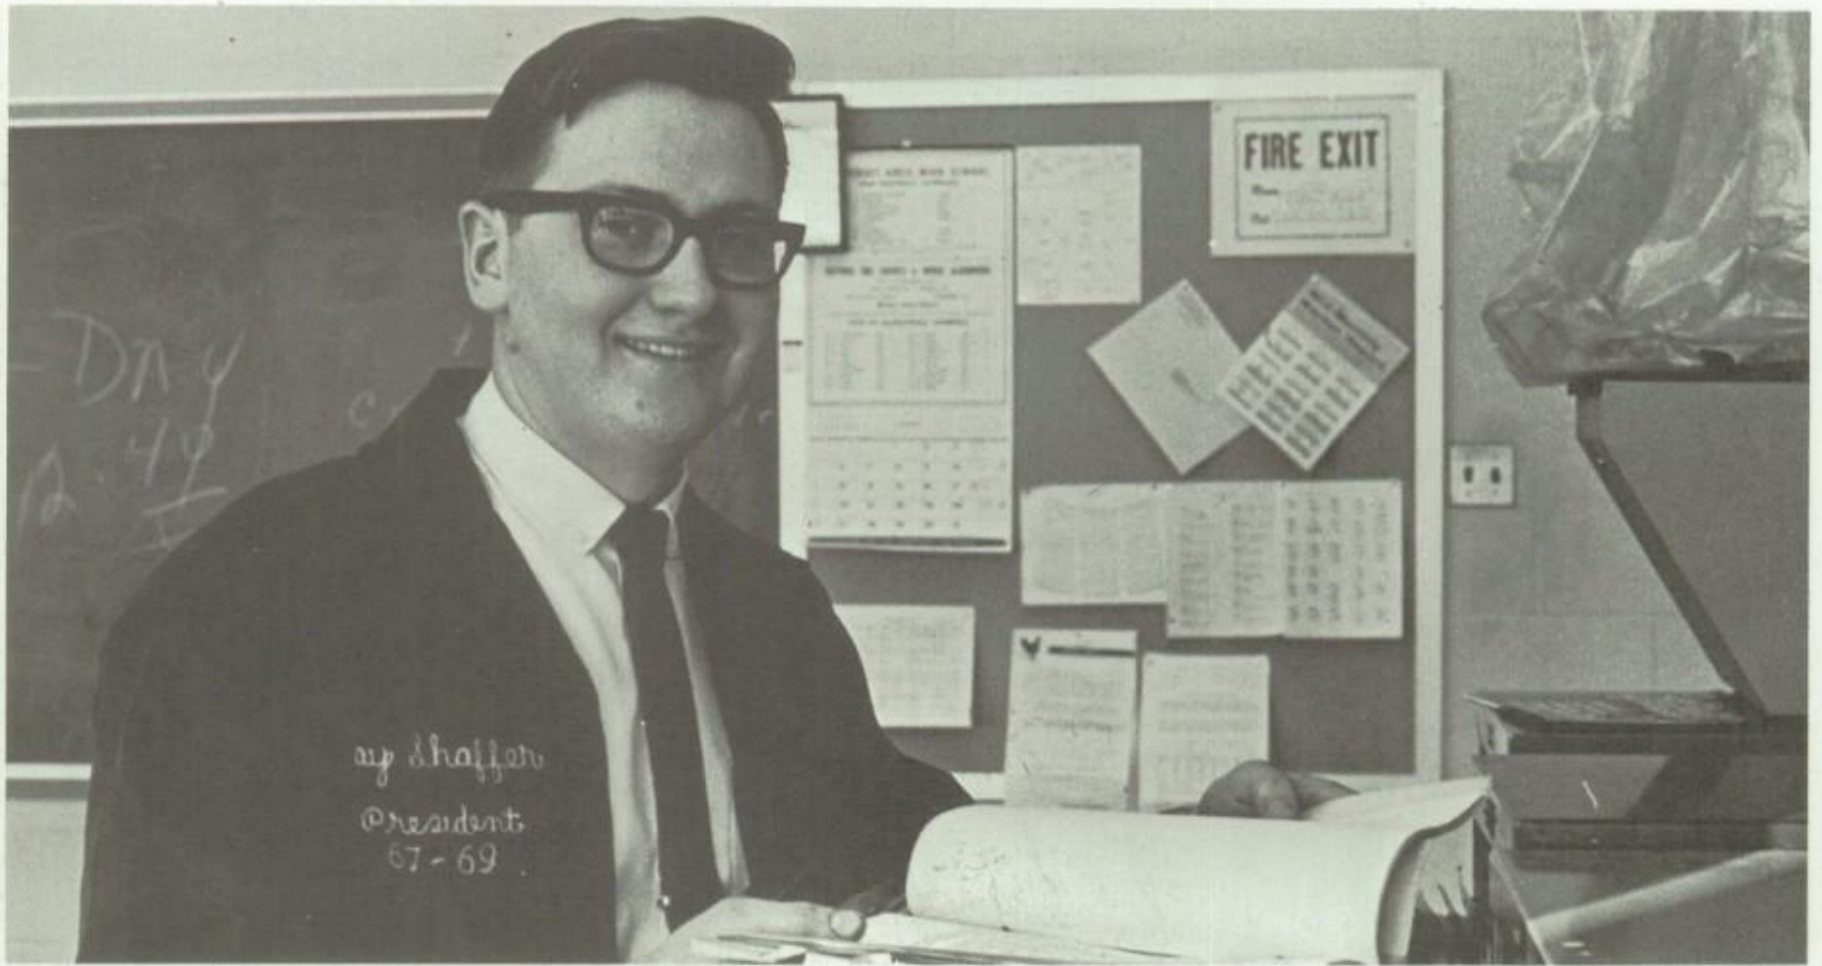

Seniors undertook their final activities in Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. Now color them, as they walk the steps to their destiny, undecided but optimistic.

In an effort to boost school spirit seniors present a skit for the student body at a football pep assembly.

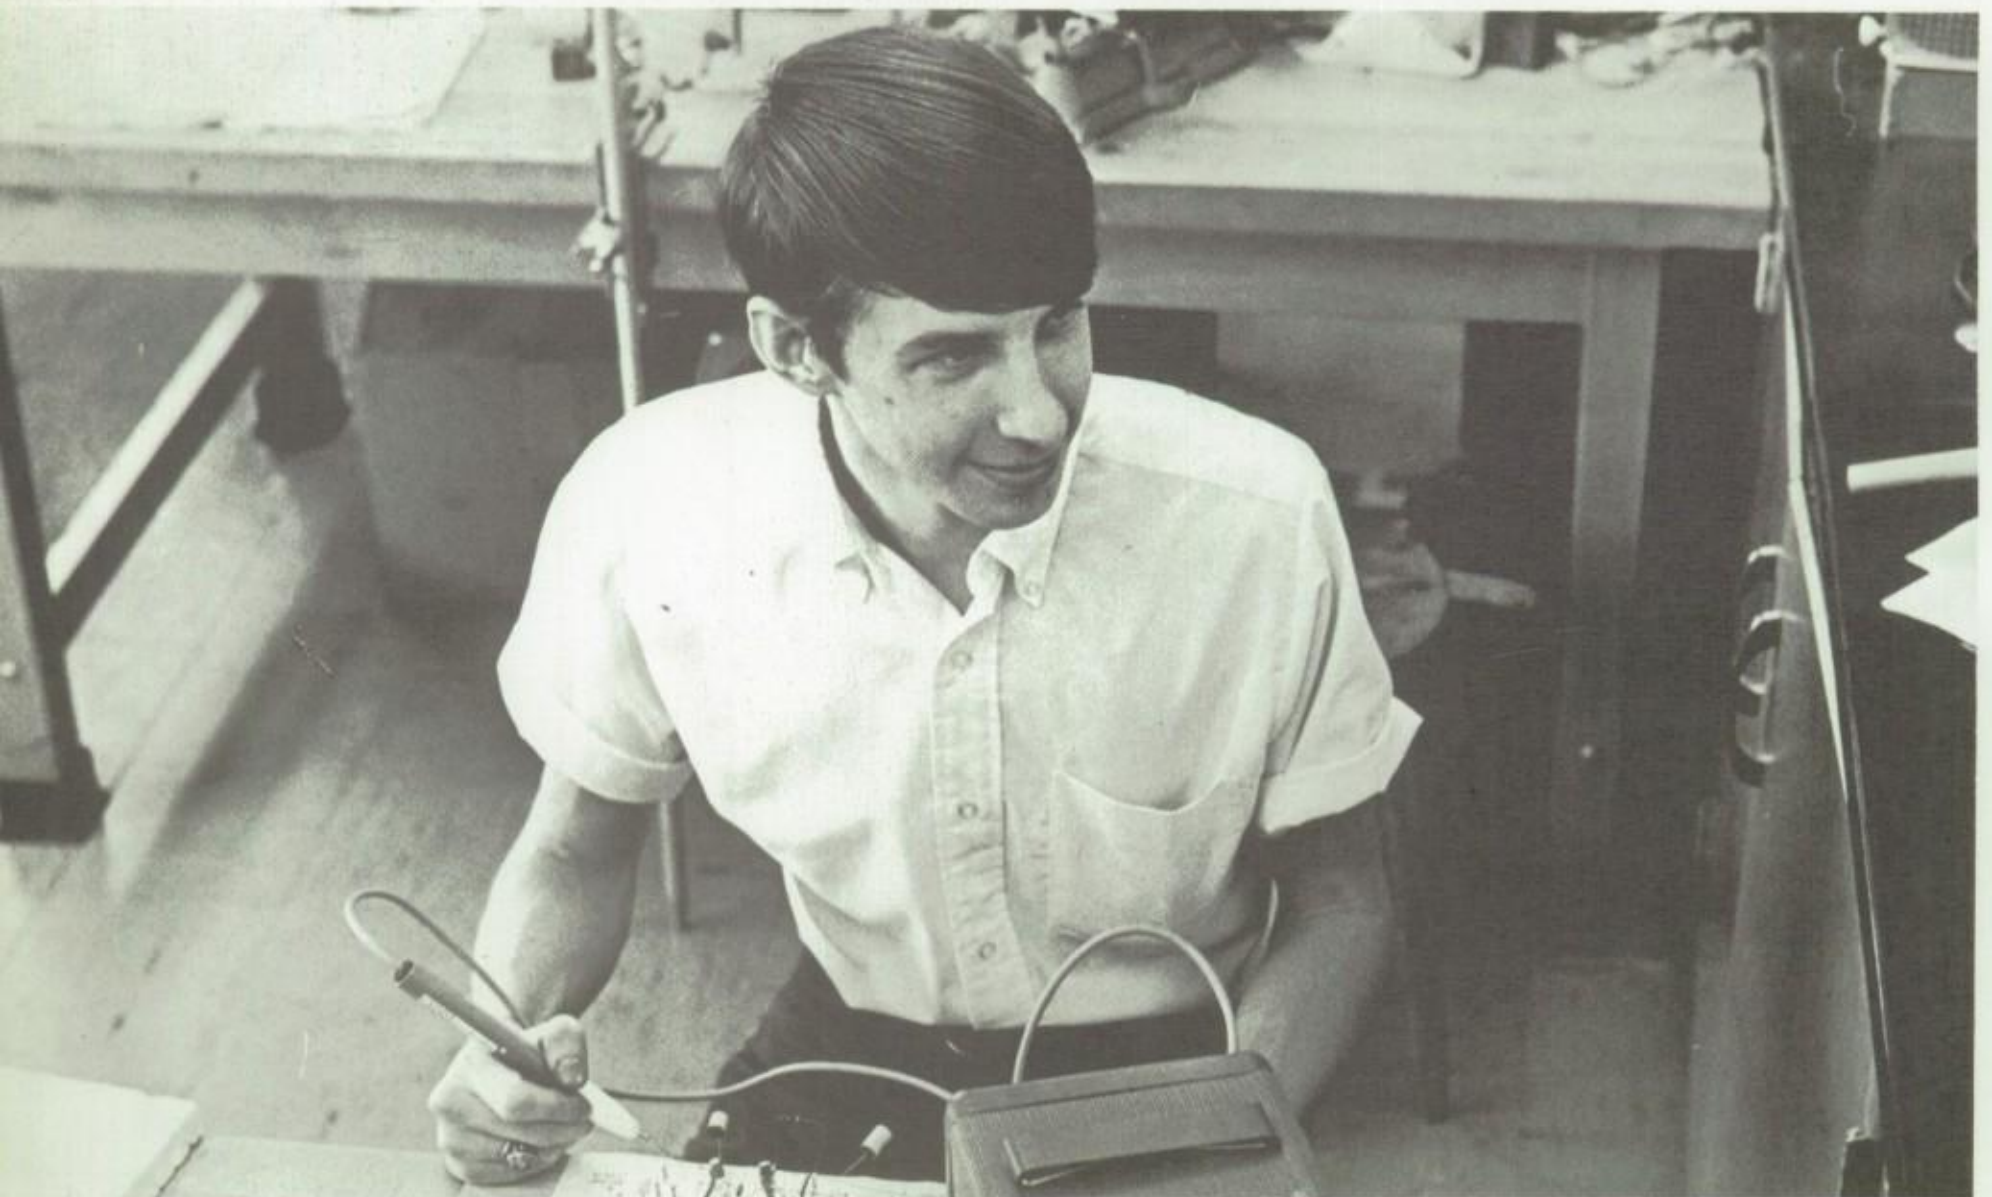

Class loyalty is displayed by Barry Schrock, John Coleman and Bill Dosch as they decorate their cars with blue and gold, the senior colors.

Jay Edwin Shaffer was named outstanding vocational agriculture senior for 1969. President of Somerset area and county chapters of FFA, he was also a member of National Honor Society. Jay received the Keystone Farmer Degree and the FFA Scholarship Award. Upon graduation he plans to attend Penn State University.

Based on first semester rankings, Blaine Edward Trent led the class academically with a straight A average. He was editor-in-chief and photographer for the yearbook. Blaine was also president of National Honor Society, vice president of Hi-Y and a participant in Science Seminar. As a junior he received the Chemistry Award, the History Award, the German Award and the F&M Book Award.

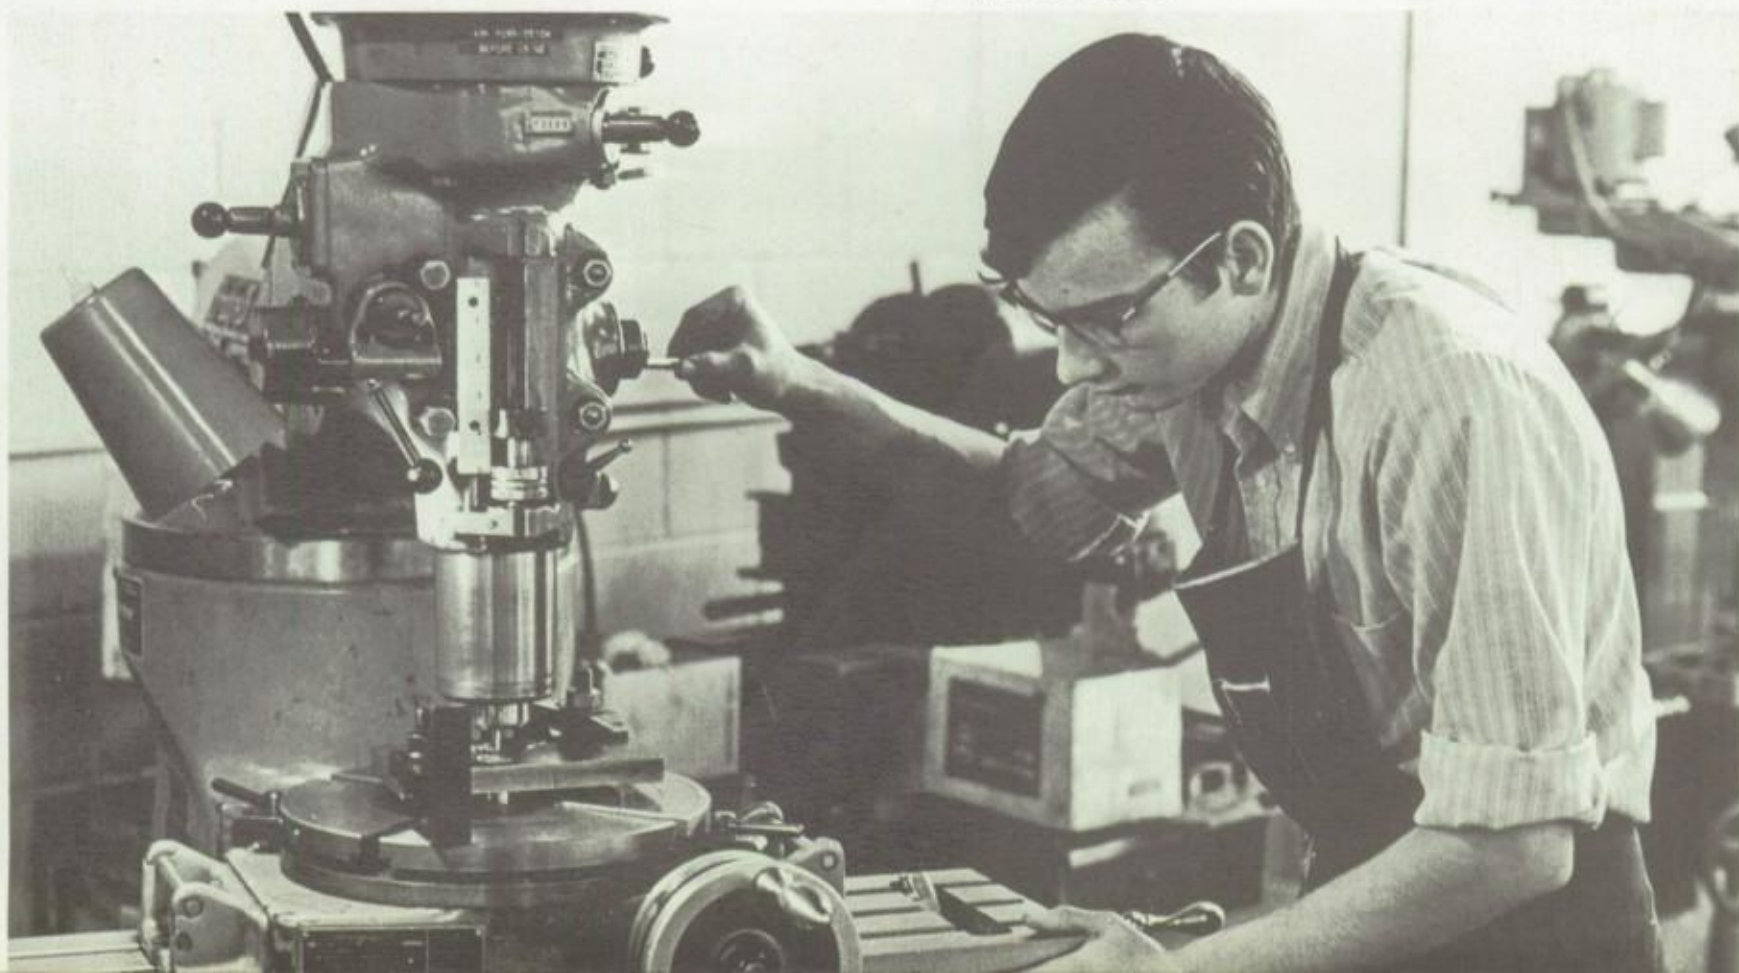

Five Seniors Excel In Chosen Courses

Lorraine Kay Stutzman was selected outstanding business education senior for 1969. She was president of FBLA, business manager for the 1969 Eaglet and Woman's Club Girl-of-the-Month for October. She received the Region IV Business Math Award her sophomore year. Her future plans include medical secretarial school.

At the end of first semester Margaret Elizabeth Conn was chosen outstanding vocational home economics senior for 1968-69. Her scholastic ability and her interest in home economics merited her selection. She served as news reporter for the Future Homemakers of America. Among her many hobbies sewing, cooking and music rank high. Her future plans are undecided.

Blair Eugene Walker was selected as the outstanding industrial arts vocational senior for 1969. He was chosen on his first semester class standing and interest shown in shop and in class. Blair's hobbies include hunting and fishing. Upon graduation Blair's plans include duty in the Air Force.

Class Of '69 Selects

Randy Urban and Georgia Lichty, who were selected by their classmates, typify the well-rounded senior.

Randall Lee Urban was selected by a senior class vote as the ideal senior boy. Randy, along with serving as co-captain of the football and basketball teams, was a member of the All-County and Tribune-Democrat All-Scholastic Football Teams. Pete lettered in football, basketball and track for three years each. He was also a Senior Rotarian.

Jumping high over his opponent, Randy Urban attempts to raise the Eagles' score.

Lichty, Urban As Model Senior Classmates

Elected to represent the ideal Senior girl was Georgia Ann Lichty. Georgia was Basketball Queen attendant, Maple Princess nominee and leading lady in the class play. In addition to being a varsity cheerleader, she was Mu Alpha Theta secretary, Quill and Scroll treasurer and a BPW senior. Her other activities included National Honor Society, FTA and French Club.

Varsity cheerleader Georgia Lichty spent many hours at football games, basketball games, wrestling matches and practice in the service of her school.

Clubs Of Community Host Representatives

Senior Rotarians are (standing) Danny Manges, Dean Carr, Randall Urban, Craig Miller, Donald Barron (seated) Clarence Frazier, John Mayak and Robert Brant.

Seniors were honored by being named Kiwanians, Jaycees, Lions, Rotarians, Soroptimists, Business and Professional Women's Club girls and Girls of the Month by the Women's Club. Kiwanians were selected by the Key Club. The girls serving the community clubs were selected by faculty vote, while the boys were elected by classmates. The students were chosen according to leadership, character and service to the school and the community.

Seniors colored the service clubs' monthly meetings varied and lively as they spoke on subjects of their own choice. The activities sponsored by the clubs were colored young at heart as students helped to make them a success.

Selected as Senior Kiwanians are Charles Roy, Barry Pritts, John Weigle, Dennis Hartman and Frederick Miller.

Attending Jaycee meetings are seniors Clare Kimmel, John Coleman, Richard Talley, Barry Berkley, Douglas Heiple, William Riggs, David Lape, John Emert and Dwayne Young.

Senior Lions are David Ankeny, Wendell Miller, Terry Christner, Barry Schrock, Arthur Tall, Gary Elliot, Blaine Trent, Dean Miller and Edward Cook.

Women's Club Seniors are (top) Rebecca Stahl, Janice Kraus, Lorraine Stutzman, Denise Custer, (bottom) Rochelle Neafach, Marcia Diehl, Shirley Beeghley and Janet Schimpf.

Senior BPW girls are (back) Marsha Berkey, Alethea Snyder, Jackalin Hagins, Patricia Stutzman, (front) Linda Korn, Debra Gnegy, Georgia Lichty and Susan Igou.

Prized Maple Princess Title Goes To Sally Critchfield; Teams Select Respective Queens

The wrestling team selected senior Susan Miller to reign as the 1969 Queen, with sophomore Judy Brant and junior Katy Narad as her attendants.

Somerset's Maple Princess Sally Critchfield was named Maid of Honor to Queen Maple XXII at the county contest.

After crowning Barbara Damico Basketball Queen, Mr. Platt gives her his kiss of congratulations. Attending the Queen are Randy Urban, Wendell Miller, Susan Brant, Crownbearer Janice Platt, Georgia Lichty and Dennis Hartman.

Members of the junior class elected Susan Miller to reign over the Junior Prom.

During the senior magazine sales homeroom captains (standing) Linda Baer, Larry Green, Clare Kimmel, Carol Miller, Connie Stutzman, (seated) Terry Christner, Patty Dickey and Virginia Vogel have the early-morning ritual of computing the daily sales.

Associations Grant "A" Ratings To '68 Eaglet

Keeping track of all negatives, contact sheets and printing orders is the job of Photography Secretaries Antoinette Anodide and Barbara Damico.

The 1969 Eaglet theme "Color Us ..." showed aspects of life in and out of school.

In August 1968 Blaine Trent, editor-in-chief, and Mary Cascio, copy editor, attended the annual yearbook workshop at Kent State University. The Eaglet literary staff, composed of Yearbook Journalism II students, took part in the Central Western Pennsylvania Scholastic Press Association conference at the University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown in October.

FBLA seniors made up the business staff. After spearheading the senior magazine sales drive, they collected patron listings, solicited yearbook subscriptions and distributed yearbooks in May. They also assisted the editorial staff in typing copy and captions.

Two ratings denoting excellence were awarded to the 1968 Eaglet. The Columbia Scholastic Press Association classified the book First Place with 935 out of a possible 1000 points. The National School Yearbook Association rated the Eaglet "A", with the comment, "a strong, interesting book."

When typing yearbook copy, Charles Landis likes to keep a pencil handy.

"A bag full of Eaglets he had flung on his back" joke Linda Howarth and Debra Ringer as they put the final touches on the Eaglet office Christmas door.

Adviser Mrs. Phyllis Cindric meets with staff editors to clarify 1968-69 yearbook policy.

Newspaper Undertakes Junior High Reporting

"The Eagle's Echo" was headed by Editor-in-Chief Pat Pacifico for the 68-69 school term. The paper continued, as its motto directs, "to strive ever for the best in journalism." Staff members stressed the need for a more in-depth coverage of all school activities. They not only made the paper one of the best news gathering papers in the county, but also made it more appealing to its readers. The staff sent personnel from the senior high to the junior high to give English classes the fundamentals of journalism and to try to interest the junior high students in reporting for "The Eagle's Echo." With the interest growing more and more, there is hope that soon a junior high press club can be organized to help cover activities at the junior high building.

"The Eagle's Echo" also continued its record of winning awards for its progress and its use of outstanding journalism. This year the paper won the All-American Rating from the National Scholastic Press Association and the Quill and Scroll International Honor Award.

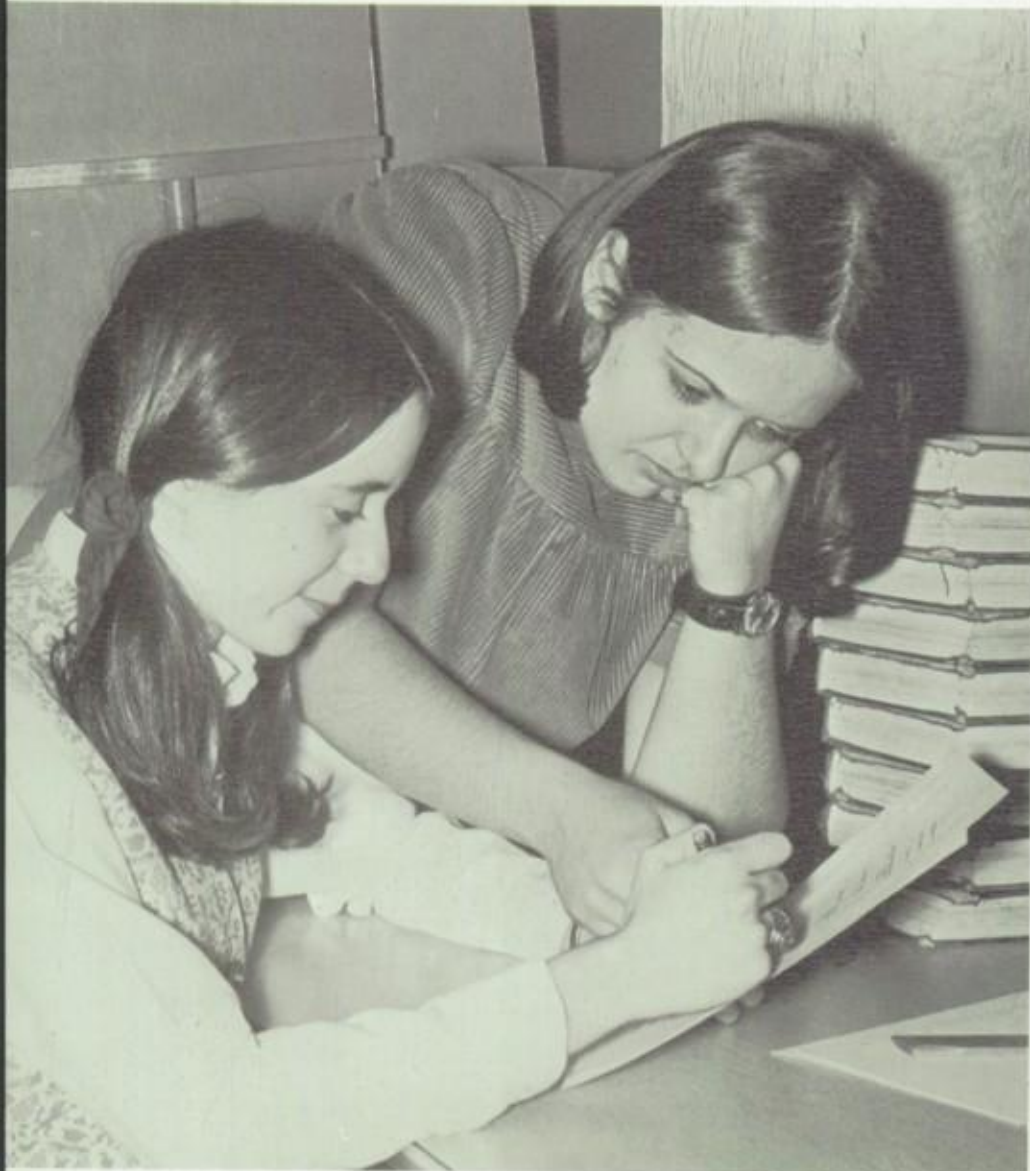

Improving on the latest edition of the "Echo" is the topic for discussion among Editors Harold Shaulis, Donald Barron, Peggy Schlosnagle, Marsha Berkey, Debra Gnegy, Rochelle Neafach and Patricia Pacifico.

Before the newspapers are distributed for sale, they are counted by Circulation Managers Sharon Baer and Janine Bittner.

"Cober's Corner" is submitted by Linda Cober to Feature Editor Marcia Diehl for final approval.

Sally Fink, art editor, experiments with some new ideas for an upcoming issue.

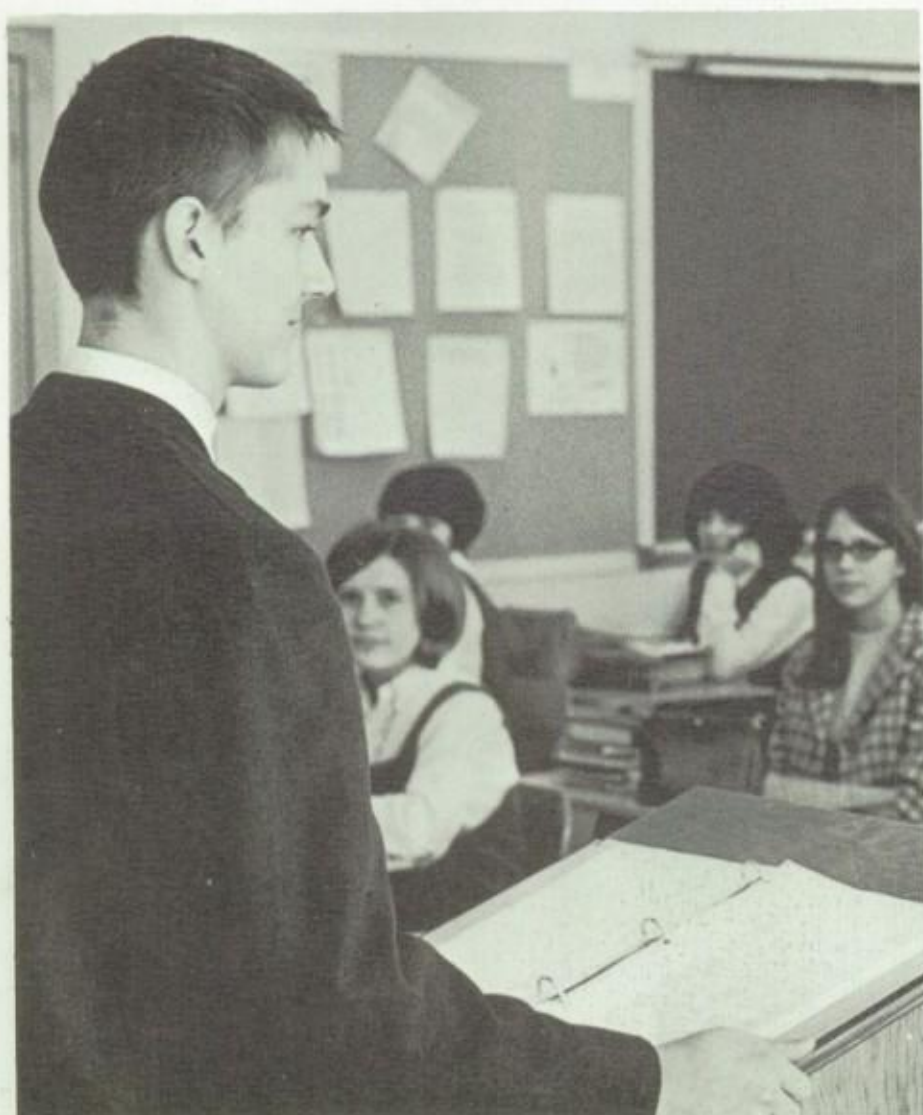

Charlene Walker checks with Christine Sawzik on the deadline for her newspaper ads.

Prior to the campaign for Juanito Gambito, Kaylynn Saylor and Debra Parson place a poster on the Student Council bulletin board in the main hall.

Answering questions at meetings is a vital part of Dean Miller's duties as president of Student Council.

1969 Officers of Student Council were John Emert, Dean Miller, Barbara Damico and Jane Stoy.

Council Directs School

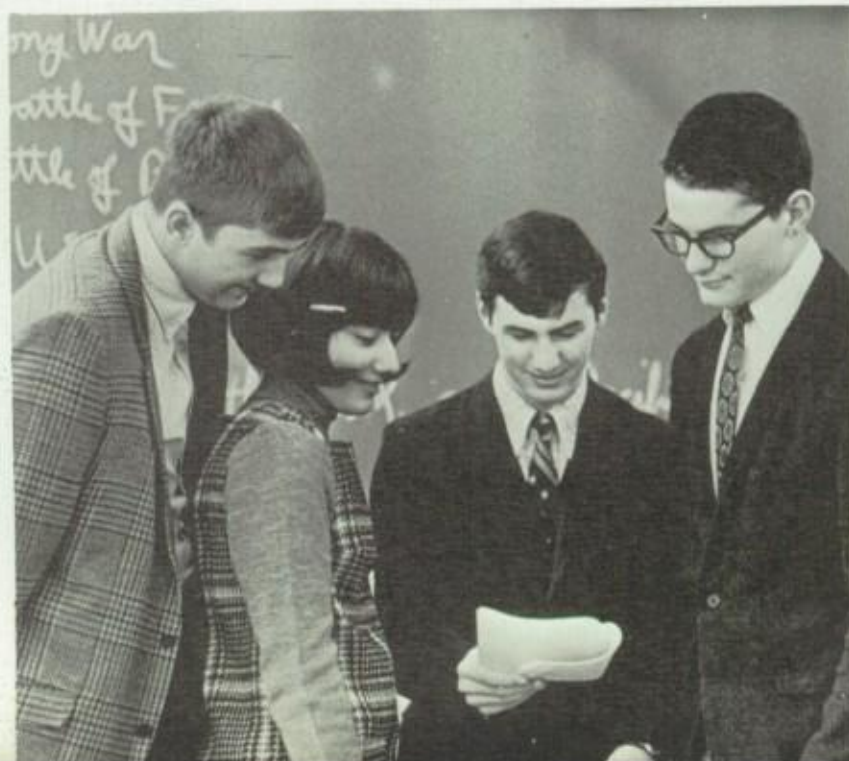

Consisting of a representative from each homeroom, the Senior High Student Council initiated projects aimed at the interests of the student body. President Dean Miller and Adviser Mr. Ralph Egolf co-operated with the faculty and administration in continuing traditional programs.

The Council proposed an Alumni Day for the first home football game and added girls' teams to the annual sophomore-junior-senior volleyball play-offs. Other activities included sponsoring Twirp Week and scheduling club dances in the gym following home football and basketball games. Members of the Council decorated the school Christmas tree and distributed programs at Open House during American Education Week.

For the fourth consecutive year the Student Council sponsored Juanito Gambito, Somerset High's adopted Filipino child.

Vice-President John Emert, Secretary Jane Stoy and Treasurer Barbara Damico completed the Council Executive Committee.

Chorus Hosts South County Choral Festival

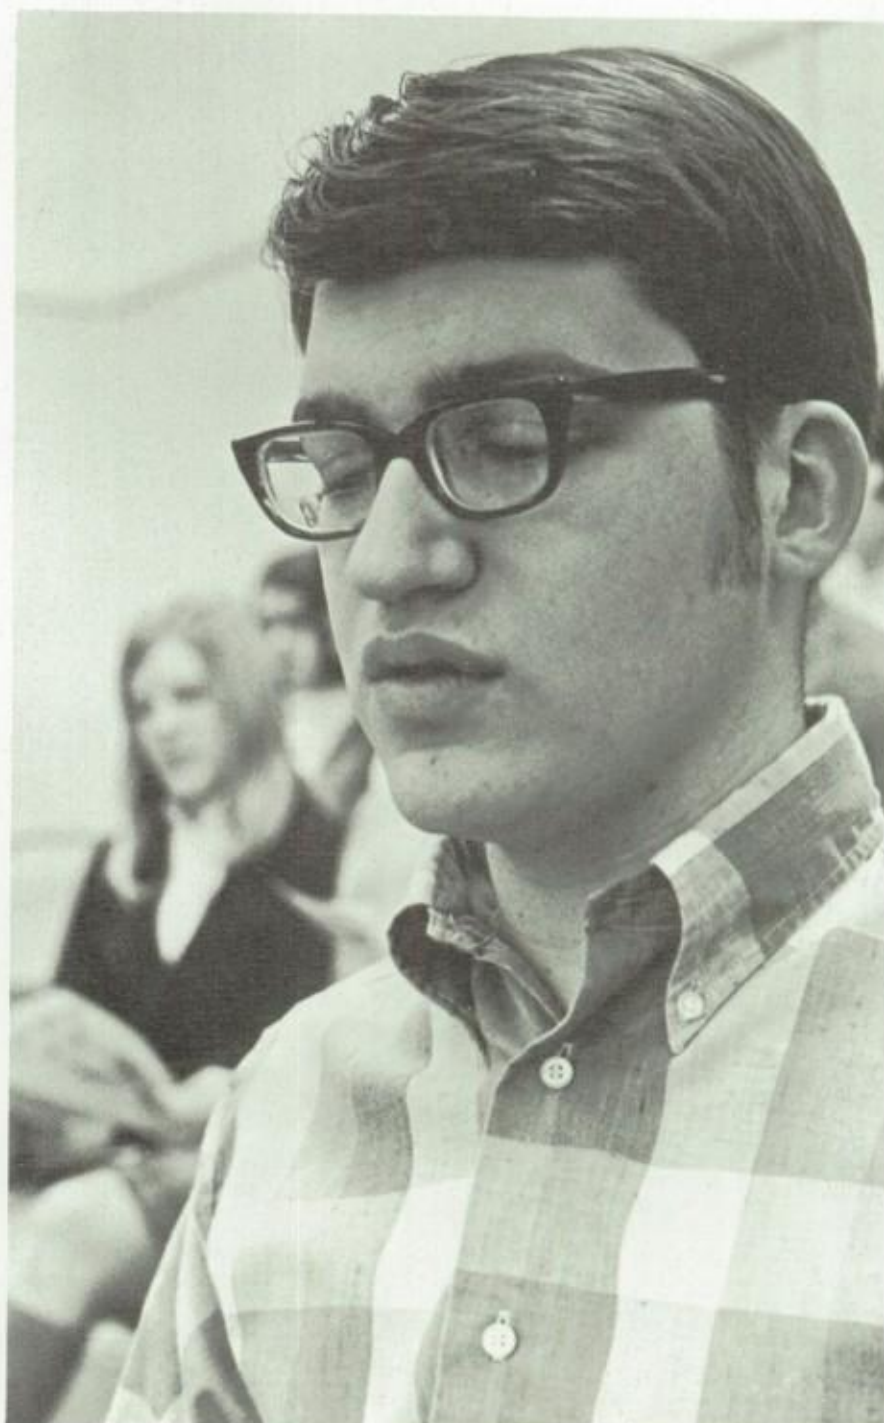

This year, Somerset presented one of its largest choruses under the direction of Mr. John Dice. The two major concerts, Christmas and spring, featured numbers such as "O Holy Night," "Sleigh Ride," the traditional "Twas the Night Before Christmas," "King of Kings Theme," "They Call the Wind Maria" and "Up, Up and Away."

Special groups sang at Baccalaureate and Commencement as well as during the Week of Prayer Services in January. The chorus took part in the South County Chorus Festival held at Somerset.

Sally Critchfield, Elena Palomba, William Riggs, Ronald Walker and Carl Fritz attended District Chorus, held February 20-22 at Westmont. A group of chorus members were chosen to attend the All-County Chorus, which was hosted by Berlin High School.

Gail Foust, Kathy Knepper and Denise Custer follow the alto score of "My Cup Runneth Over."

Tenor William Dosch reads over his part while the altos rehearse.

With the help of Mr. Dice the tenors and basses sing through the first few measures of a new number.

A narration of the Christmas story is presented by Marcia Diehl during the Christmas choral assembly for the student body.

After the Christmas concert the chorus begins work on numbers for their spring performance.

Sandy Firestone uses a fine ear and a little bit of luck to tune the tympani while the orchestra is playing.

Somerset Sends 12 To District Orchestra

Under the direction of Mr. Chester Singer, the Somerset Senior High Orchestra grew in numbers and quality. The sixty-four member group performed at the annual Spring Concert and the Somerset High School Maple Princess Contest. They also provided the music at Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises. A few outstanding numbers performed were "March and Procession of Bacchus" and Schubert's "Symphony in B Minor."

From this group, eight senior high students were selected to represent Somerset at District Orchestra, held in Otto-Eldred at Duke Center, Pennsylvania. These included Mary Cascio, Patty Pacifico, Susan Walker, Ann Brubaker, Christine Sawzik, Patty Dickey, Mike Cascio and Denise Custer. Also attending were four junior high students: Carol Casteel, Patty Sawzik, Sally Miller and Susan Fritz.

Octets Merge, Appear As Peppy Folk Group

Singing groups selected for the 68-69 school term were invited to sing at many school and community programs throughout the year. The Girls' and Boys' Octets sang at the Christmas and Spring Chorus Festivals.

Accompanied by a guitar, a banjo and a string bass, the octets and their substitutes, totaling twenty-one students, became the Roof Garden Folksingers. This well known group filled their performance schedules by appearing at local affairs such as the Rotary Club, the Lions Variety Show and the March of Dimes Spectacular. They also provided entertainment at the Somerset High School Maple Princess Contest held on January 6.

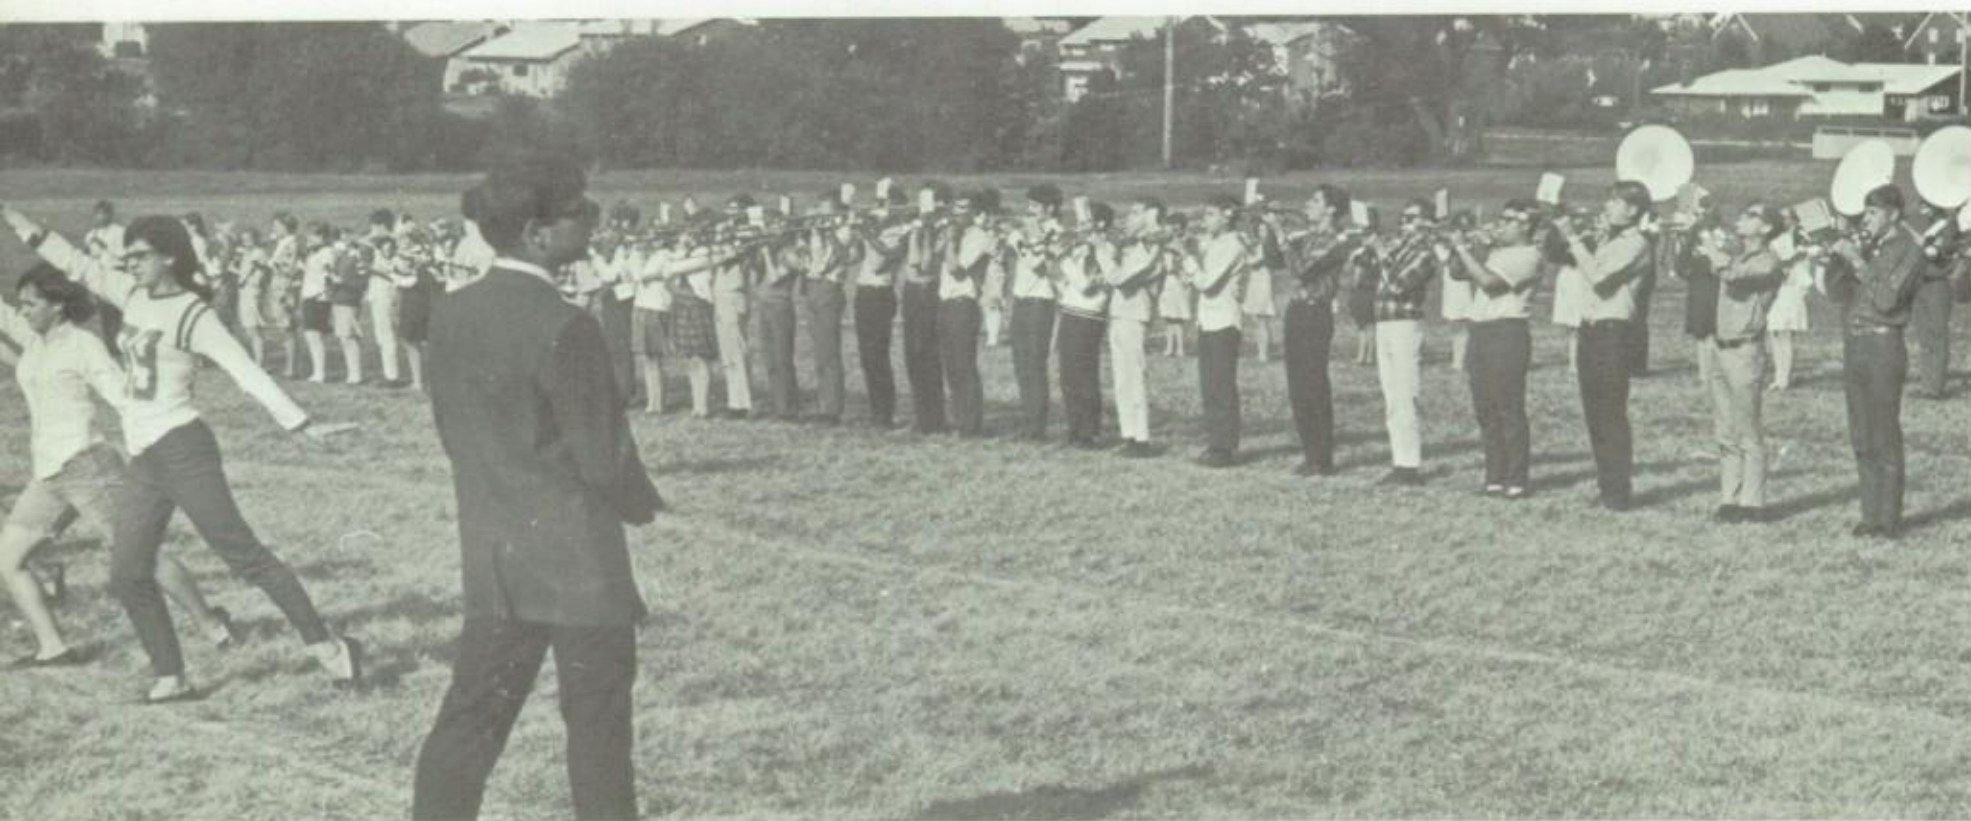

Girls' Octet consisted of (top) Sally Critchfield, Ann Brubaker, Patty Dickey, (middle) Denise Custer, Sandy Firestone, (bottom) Elena Palomba, Kathy Weller and Kyle Oglie.

Boys' Octet included (top) Rodney Hardesty, Bill Riggs, (third) Bill Dosch, Carl Fritz, (second) Alan Johnson, (bottom) Ronald Walker, Jeffrey Burkett and Wendell Miller.

Band Marches Through A Successful Year,

"Look sharp, people" shouts Mr. Labor as practice begins on the fanfare for Friday night's football halftime show.

Vicki Kimmel, Wendell Miller, Patty Dickey, Marsha Berkey and Arthur Tall served as Band officers for the 1968-69 school year.

Last minute instructions and advice are given to (top) Terry Miller, Arthur Tall, (middle) Sherry Saylor, Rosemary Raszewski, David Griffith and (bottom) Vicki Kimmel before they attend District Band.

Drills For Perfection

A 116-member football band began the school year with halftime entertainment at all scheduled football games. Mr. John Labor and Mr. Ronald Stitt, student teachers from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, assisted Director Chester Singer in planning and teaching the precision drills involved in the halftime shows.

After the football season a 140-member concert band was organized. Practice began immediately on numbers for the annual South County Band festival, held at Somerset on May 6, and for Somerset High School's own spring band concert.

Many members of the band received recognition by being selected to represent Somerset at All-County Band at Forbes High School on March 13, District Band at Johnstown on January 16-18 and Regional Band at Johnsonburg on March 6-8.

The stage band was active again this year with four cornets, four trombones, five saxophones, string bass, piano and drums.

President Wendell Miller, Vice President Artie Tall, Secretary Vicki Kimmel and Librarians Marsha Berkey and Patty Dickey, with the direction of the various student teachers and Mr. Singer, helped the SASHS Band to color themselves successful in the 1968-69 term.

During rehearsal for the spring concert Mr. Singer stresses the observance of dynamic markings.

Signaling for attention, Mr. Singer begins Friday night's football game with the National Anthem.

Interest Sparked By Fire Baton Routines

The majorettes led the band in parades during the summer and provided entertainment in football game half-time performances last fall.

Head majorette Jane Morocco planned new routines for each game to match the music provided by the band. Majorettes' batons were replaced often with hoops, flags and fire batons to add variety to their acrobatic dance routines. Their new uniforms of basic white with black and gold trim enhanced their performances. When not twirling, the girls played instruments in the concert band.

Twirlers included Head Majorette Jane Morocco, senior; Jane Stoy, Becky Gnagey, Joyce Ludy, Sherry Saylor and Patty Hardwig, juniors; and Kaylynn Saylor, Barbara Stutzman, and Rosemary Raszewski, sophomores.

Flames held high, the majorettes perform to "Rain in Spain," during a football halftime performance.

Majorettes were Rosemary Raszewski, Patty Hardwig, Barbara Stutzman, Sherry Saylor, Jane Morocco, Joyce Ludy, Kaylynn Saylor, Becky Gnagey and Jane Stoy.

Hi-Y Offers Transit To Pitt-Army Contest

Affiliated with the YMCA, Hi-Y worked to create and maintain high standards of Christian character at home, in school and throughout the community.

Among the Roof Garden Hi-Y Club's many activities were sponsorship of a post-football game dance and a bus to Pittsburgh for the Pitt-Army football game. To encourage school spirit, the club hung pep signs throughout the school. Members aided with the elementary school basketball program, held at the Somerset Armory on Saturday mornings. Representatives attended the District Convention at Greensburg.

Hi-Y was sponsored by Mr. William Kuhlman. Officers for 1968-69 were: Donald Barron, president; Blaine Trent, vice-president; Larry Barron, secretary; Rodney Hardesty, treasurer; and Harold Shaulis, sergeant-at-arms.

Heavy Snowfalls Delight Somerset Ski Club

The Ski Club, organized to promote skiing safety, sponsored lessons for beginners. The ski team, a branch of the Ski Club, was initiated in 1967. Ed Cook, Kathy Baker, Jo Ann Spangler and Jill Berkley competed with area teams in ski events.

Besides skiing at the home slope, Hidden Valley, the Ski Club visited other resorts in the area, such as Seven Springs and Bear Rocks.

Ski pins were designed for the members instead of the usual patches for their ski jackets.

This year the Ski Club made plans to visit the Vermont mountains for skiing adventure and fun.

Mr. Thomas Fridy sponsored the club. Edward Cook, Antoinette Anodide, Kathy Baker and Debbie Parson served as president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer for the 1968-69 season.

Another day of skiing ended, Kathy Baker starts wearily for home.

Linda Korn, Debbie D'Arrigo, Kathy Baker and Dean Hottle make a final check of their equipment before tackling the slopes.

The Key Club was headed this year by President Wendell Miller, Vice-President Douglas Heiple, Secretary Dean Miller and Treasurer Michael Long.

Key Club Aids Salvation Army Fund Drive

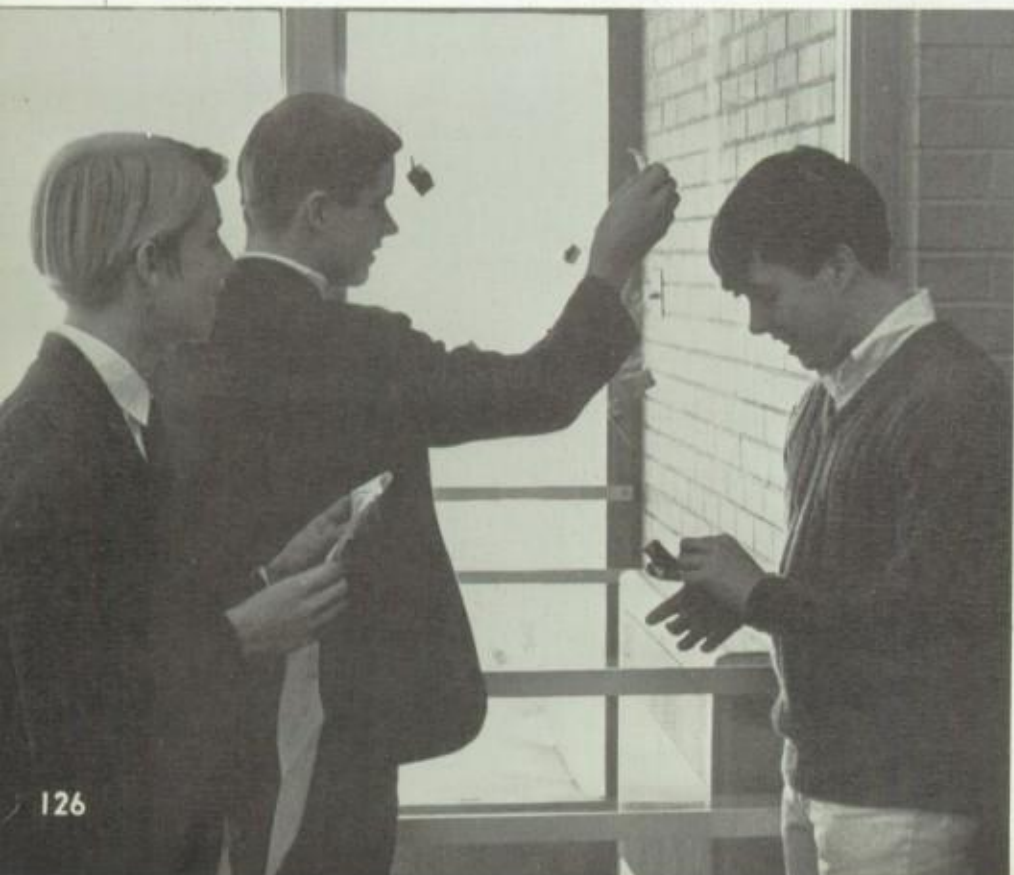

The Key Club, one of the school's service clubs, totaled 43 members this year. The club, a high school adjunct of the Kiwanis Club, strove to serve school and community, and in doing so developed a sense of responsibility in its members.

Meetings were held every Monday evening. After attending three meetings, new members were admitted by a majority vote of the club membership. Presiding officers this year were: President Wendell Miller, Vice President Douglas Heiple, Secretary Dean Miller and Treasurer Michael Long.

Junior Kiwanians helped to ring bells for the Salvation Army at Christmas. They planned bake sales and contributed to the school by cleaning the trophy case and the public phone booth.

The club also sponsored dances and buses to away football games.

As a service of the Key Club, Eugene Sanzi, Jerry Shaulis and Gary Bailey clean masking tape off the windows of the gym lobby.

Dennis Hartman, Douglas Heiple, Barry Pritts, John Weigle and Fred Miller discuss the possibility of a bake sale as a fund raising project.

Charities Supported By Tri-Hi-Y Efforts

Tri-Hi-Y officers, President Toni Anodide, Vice-President Vicki Brant, Secretary Wendy Whipperman and Treasurers Jeanne Barbera and Jackie Runner, under the direction of Miss Ruth Barkley, continued to serve the community with Christian values in mind.

Some of the year's projects included a sale of Heath Candy to the student body and the community, which helped to finance club activities. This sale continued from late October to early November. In February, the club sold heart-shaped lollipops for the fund drive of the Highland Heart Association. In the month of March, the club held its annual Care Drive, which was accented by a dance at the end of the week's campaign. The club also donated money to the United Fund, the Children's Aid Society, and to the Paula Pyle drive, organized on a county-wide basis to raise money for Paula Pyle, a Rockwood High School junior who underwent a kidney transplant in December.

Tri-Hi-Y Officers Elena Palomba, Jackie Runner, Jeanne Barbera, Vicki Brant and Antoinette Anodide review plans for the year's Teen Talks.

Gloria Bassett, Janet Mayer and Amy McClintock go through the materials for the February Care Drive.

Checking the final arrangements for the Heart Fund Drive are Sharon Augustine, Barbara Mapes and Carol Blair.

Club Launches Successful Paula Pyle Drive

Treasurer Terri Dunmeyer, Vice-President Linda Howarth, President Debbie Ringer and Secretary Peggy Schlosnagle carefully check cards before returning books to shelves.

Meeting every Monday, the Library Club, under the direction of Mrs. Martha Halverson, was composed of thirty-two seniors, juniors and sophomores. Club committees kept the bulletin boards and display cases up to date. At every meeting two members presented book reports. Each member was responsible for assisting in the library at least two periods a week.

The club was active this year in sponsoring the fourth annual Christmas door-decorating contest, in addition to a Paula Pyle Tag Day, for which the club received over $429.00 from students and school organizations to add to the Paula Pyle kidney transplant fund.

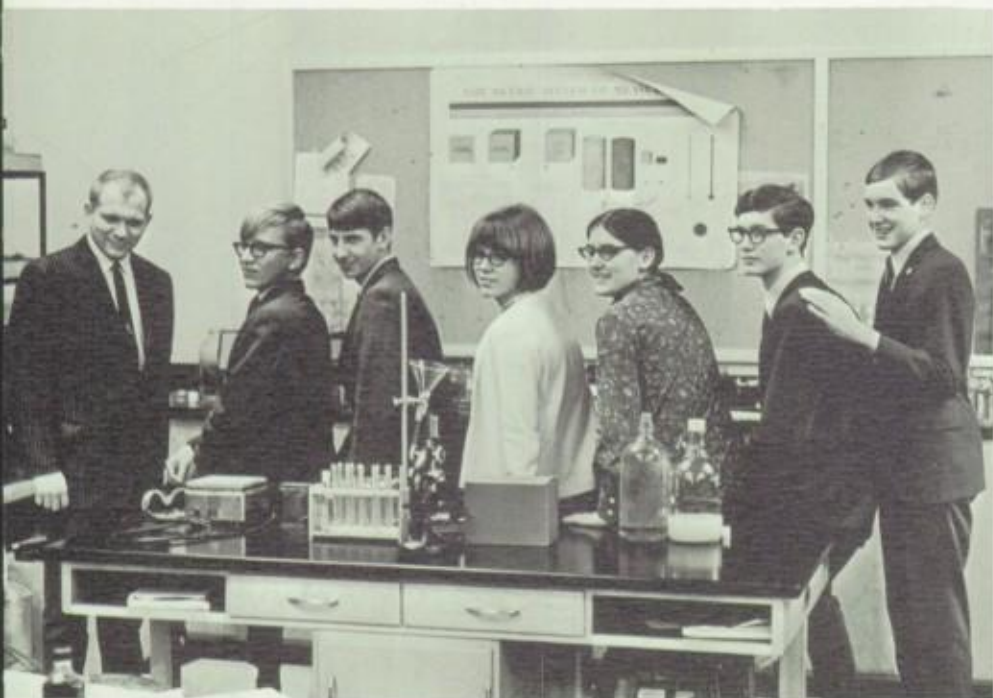

Members of the club attended the Cambria-Somerset Teen Age Library Club Conference at Cresson.

Before the period is over Vicki Kimmel and Debbie Lucas check to see if everybody in the library has a card.

Assisting Mrs. Halverson, the Library Club members count Paula Pyle tags for homeroom distribution.

Members of the 1969 Science Seminar, headed by Mr. Thomas Fridy, were Karl Glessner, Blaine Trent, Joanna Glessner, Ann Brubaker, William Brubaker and George Berkey.

Club Visits Intricate World Of Computers

Under the direction of Mr. William Kuhlman twenty-seven seniors of the advanced math class made up the Mu Alpha Theta. The students received cards and certificates to show their membership in this nation-wide organization. Regular meetings were held every other Friday, with two members reporting from research they had done on a subject concerning higher mathematics. Topics for discussion were probability, magic squares and number systems. The club became acquainted with mathematical principles not taught in regular mathematics courses.

Members went to the Lambertson, Hottle, Bulow Computer Center in Somerset, where they were shown the techniques of computer programming.

Blaine Trent served as president this year, with Mary Cascio taking the duties of vice-president. Other officers were Georgia Lichty, secretary and Donald Barron, treasurer.

Mu Alpha Theta officers for 1968-69 were Mary Cascio, Donald Barron, Georgia Lichty and Blaine Trent.

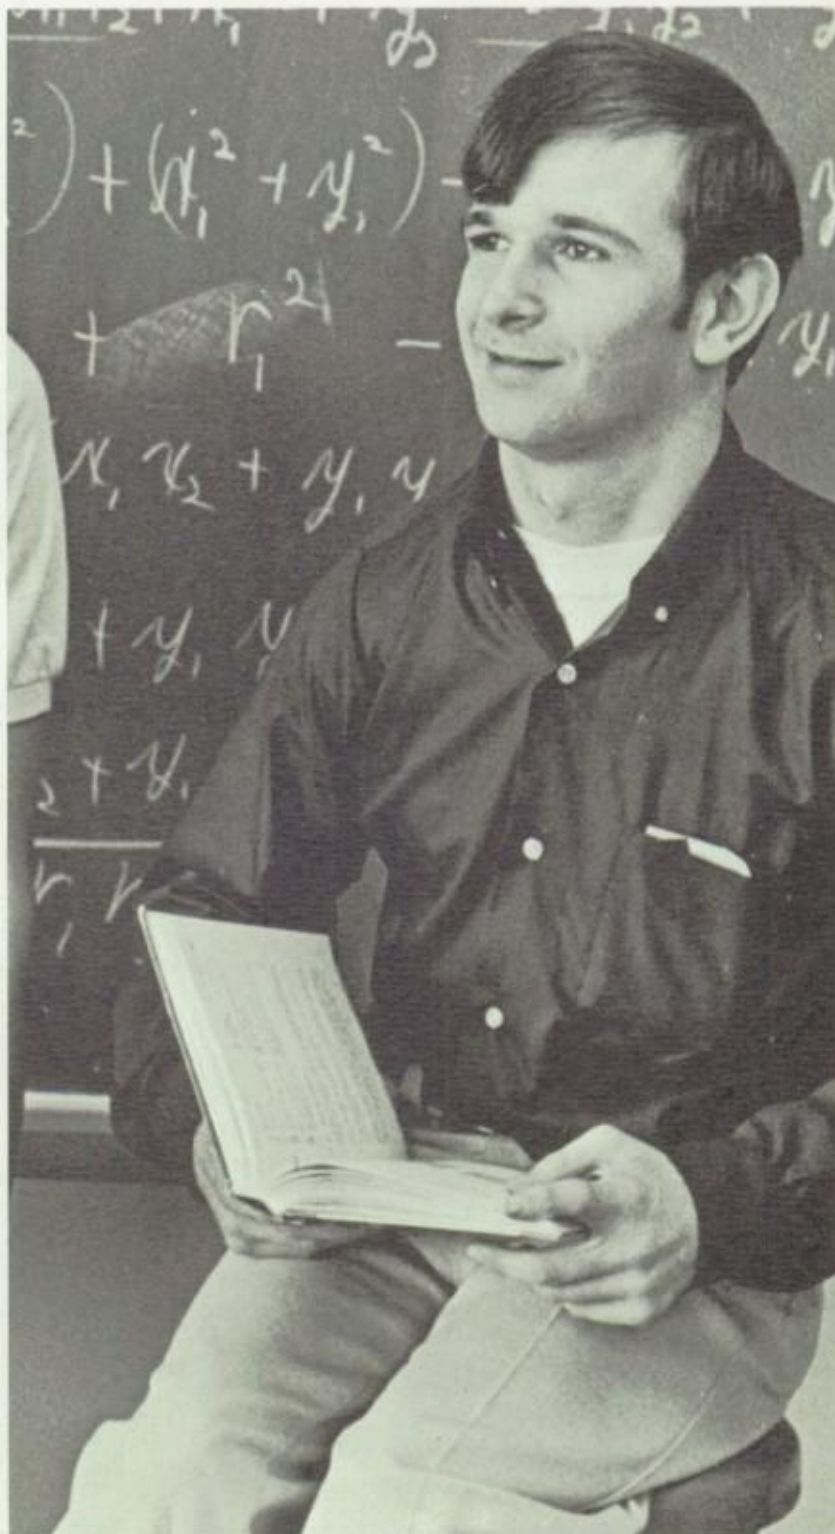

X-Ray Lab Viewed By Science Seminar

A competitive test was given to interested science students to determine membership in the Somerset County Science Seminar, which had originated through the Joe Berg Foundation.

Seminar members toured the community hospital, where they were shown the techniques of the lab and X-ray divisions. Among other field trips taken were those to the Indiana, Pennsylvania, generating station, which uses coal to produce energy, and to the office of Robert Kimball, an engineering consultant in Ebensburg, where they learned about highway design, maps and sewage systems.

Meeting twelve times a year, the thirty five students from various county high schools discussed higher science. Students participating from Somerset included Seniors Blaine Trent and Karl Glessner, Juniors Joanna Glessner and William Brubaker and Sophomores Ann Brubaker and George Berkey. Mr. Thomas Fridy acted as the co-ordinator of this program.

Adviser Miss E. Marie Brant, Secretary Sue Berkley, President Linda Korn, Librarian Shirley Beeghly, Treasurer Nancy Bowlin, and Vice-President Debra Weible directed the 1968-69 FTA.

Busy FTA Agenda Includes Trip To IUP

The Future Teachers of America worked under the new direction of Miss E. Marie Brant, a former co-adviser of the group, assisted by Mrs. Pauline Glessner.

The club's activities included a field trip to the campus of Indiana University of Pennsylvania. This enabled the members, many of them prospective applicants, to see a state college in action. Other functions included a dance, sponsored primarily to raise funds for the club's induction, which was held on November 13 as a feature of American Education Week. Members of the club also participated in the annual cadet teaching day held in April, when they spent a day of actual classroom teaching in the elementary schools.

In March club members visited Meyersdale High School for the annual county conference. Elected delegates were also sent to the state convention in Harrisburg. The club was well represented at all area meetings.

Looking over college catalogs in the guidance counselor's office are FTA members Barbara Farkosh, Carol Beggs, Carolyn Ogline and Carolyn Gambino.

Grads In Viet Nam Contacted By FBLA

The Future Business Leaders of America, Chapter 2612, carried on an active program under the direction of Mrs. Lilia Miller. Club members concentrated on using their abilities to work efficiently and to think clearly to create mutual understanding and co-operation between business, industry, labor, the home, the church and the school.

A major project again this year was the preparation of packages for boys from Somerset Area High School now serving in Vietnam. Thirty-five boxes were sent and received. The annual Easter candy sale, held in the spring, financed state and national dues, trips to the fall and spring regionals and the purchase of equipment for the high school. Sophomore and junior members served as ushers for Baccalaureate on May 18 and Commencement on May 19.

Officers installed in September were President Lorraine Stutzman, Vice-President Ronald Menser Jr., Treasurer Marilyn Walker, Recording Secretary Mary Howard and Corresponding Secretary Beverly Hochard.

Preparing a Christmas package to send to Somerset servicemen in Vietnam are Renee Stanczyk, Delores Page, Winnie Budzina and Larry Green.

Candy Stripers Get Preview Of Nurse's Life

Under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Rayman, interested junior and senior high Candy Stripers aided the staff at Somerset Community Hospital. Weekday evenings and weekends were spent learning the ways of hospital routine.

Running errands for patients and staff members, making beds, feeding patients and serving juice and crackers were a few duties that gave the girls much personal satisfaction.

Caps were awarded to volunteer workers after their first fifty hours. Pins were awarded for one hundred hours and bracelets for one hundred fifty hours.

Taking part in the activities of the hospital gave the girls an inside look into many phases of medicine and the professions available in the fields of health. It gave them a true concept of the ability and interests needed in the numerous fields that they might pursue.

Health Careers Club Visits Bethesda Hospital

Thirty-five Health Careers Club members in grades nine through twelve met twice a month to inform students of types of careers in the fields of health.

Providing a needy family with a turkey dinner was a major service project. At Christmas, club members gave a party for patients at the Siemon Nursing Home, furthering their purpose of finding ways to better serve the community.

Under the sponsorship of School Nurses Mrs. Shirley Keafer and Mrs. Ida Mae Barnett the club made trips to the Rehabilitation Center in Johnstown and to Bethesda Hospital.

Money-making projects held throughout the year to finance field trips were conducted by officers Amy Lutz, president; Sandra Martin, vice-president; Randee Ankeny, treasurer; and Marylee Lucas, secretary.

After paging through some leading magazines Sherry Saylor and Charlene Walker find that careers in the health fields are practically unlimited.

Officers Marylee Lucas, Randee Ankeny, Amy Lutz and Sandra Martin spearheaded the club's fund-raising projects.

FFA Reaps Benefits From Active Program

The Future Farmers of America planted tulip bulbs at the Maple Ridge Elementary School during the 68-69 school term. Under the leadership of Mr. Arnold Wilson, members again took part in raising Christmas trees and selling them in December. In addition to growing trees, the club maintained a small farm, where various crops were cultivated for testing purposes.

The FFA traveled to Hershey for the Forage Progress Days on August 28. Club members also attended the Pennsylvania State Farm Show, where Jay Shaffer was awarded the Keystone Farmer Degree, and the District Leadership Training Conference.

Several FFA members participated in county contests in the spring, where contestants were chosen to compete on a state-wide basis at Pennsylvania State University.

Officers for FHA were Hazel Thompson, secretary; Teresa Jano, vice-president; Irma Heiple, treasurer; Judy Hetzer, president; and Mary Beth Mapes, historian.

Faculty Is Entertained At FHA Holiday Teas

Advised by Mrs. Patricia McNaul, the Future Homemakers of America began the year by acting as hostesses for the County FHA Picnic. In October the officers traveled to Westmont for a leadership training program. On December 6 the club sponsored a dance after the Rockwood-Somerset basketball game.

The FHA also held faculty teas marking each holiday throughout the school year. The entire club attended the County Degree banquet in April at Green Gables.

The club's projects for the year were "Pep Up With FHA" with Miss Mary Menges as guest speaker, "Individuality Counts" with Mr. Colliver and "Your Neighbors Near and Far" with the Columbia Gas Company.

Camera Club Focuses On School Activities

To teach interested students the art of taking and developing clear pictures and to inform them of new developments made in the world of photography was the aim of the 1968-69 Camera Club.

With Mr. John Dirienzo as adviser, members met weekly after school. President Charles Roy presided over the meetings. The club enabled the students to learn more about photography and its various branches.

The Camera Club aided the yearbook and newspaper by attending many school functions and capturing exciting moments in pictures which were used by both journalism staffs, assuring them of full photographic coverage of school activities.

For Camera Club members Eugene Sanzi and Charles Roy the darkroom becomes a second home.

"Automobiles can become lethal weapons" states the safety poster, as School Patrol boy Keith Pfeffer and Mr. Joseph Maslak heartily agree.

David Troll bravely reveals his photograph and awaits judgment by fellow members Randy Wisnouse, Blaine Trent, Eugene Sanzi and Charles Roy.

Safety Patrol Manages School Traffic Situation

The Somerset School Patrol has held an outstanding safety record since its formation by the AAA in 1922. Under the supervision of Mr. Joseph Maslak, the patrol has prevented many small accidents by directing traffic to avoid congestion. Members were on duty at home football games to prevent tieups.

Last year, for the first time, bus drivers were given the right to approve or reject the individual patrol boys assigned to their buses. Because the drivers approved appointments, the boys had to meet rigid requirements to be qualified for positions on the traffic and school bus squads.

Congratulations and advice are given by Mr. Jay Christner to Janice Kraus, newly elected president of Radio Club.

Club Presents Monthly Programs On WVSC

Under the supervision of Mr. Jay Christner the Radio Club gained knowledge of radio broadcasting through actual experience. Members elected Janice Kraus to preside over their weekly meetings.

Beginning in September, the club presented one program monthly until the dismissal of school in the spring. A Christmas play and a Veterans Day memorial program highlighted the club's broadcasts. Regular programs were presented from 7:00 to 8:00 P.M. over station WVSC-FM on the first Monday of the month.

Programs consisted of news, sports and musical entertainment designed to make the listening audience aware of Somerset High School activities. Members conducted interviews and asked poll questions about such controversial issues as the draft and mini-skirts.

Assisting the president were William Brubaker, vice-president and Linda Cober, secretary-treasurer.

After interviewing sophomore, junior and senior students, Donald and Larry Barron try to determine the prevailing opinion of the mini-skirt.

French Club Sets France As Its Destination

Advised by Mrs. Colette Sherren, the French Club was composed of all French IV students.

The club's active year included meetings held on the first Thursday of each month. In addition to holding regular business meetings, club members viewed slides of France.

Christmas caroling at the State Hospital and a picnic at the beginning of the school year were club activities. The group's main project was discussing and planning a trip to France in the summer of 1969.

Miss Ingrid Carlson and Mr. Bruce Byers, student teachers from Indiana University of Pennsylvania, participated in the club activities while they also aided in the classroom by teaching and providing charts and bulletin board displays.

The officers for 1968-69 were Wendell Miller, president; Debra Ringer, vice-president; Jackalin Hagins, secretary; and Donald Barron, treasurer.

Heading the 1968-69 French Club were Jackalin Hagins, Donald Barron, Debra Ringer and Wendell Miller.

German Scrabble Is Learning With Fun

Expanding the student's knowledge of Germany, its customs and its people, was the purpose of the Deutcher Verein. Headed by Mr. John Harris, the club met one Tuesday every month.

The club planned a varied program of German folk dances and folk songs. Members also did some cooking with the aid of German-language recipes. The main project of the year was making a giant scrabble board, to be used to facilitate the spelling of German nouns. Mr. Harris also showed slides that he had taken on his travels through Germany.

President Debra Crouse, Vice-President Patricia Fogie and Secretary-Treasurer Carolyn Gambino served as officers for the 1968-69 term.

Glad to be of service, senior members of the Spanish Club help Miss Highberger redecorate the Spanish room.

Joyce Leadbetter, Marsha Miller, Carolyn Oglie and Susan Miller served as 1968-69 Spanish Club officers.

Spanish Clubs Merge To Continue Projects

Under the new supervision of Miss Carol Highberger, former Spanish Clubs II, III and IV combined to make one senior high Spanish Club.

Regular meetings were held the third Wednesday of every month. All matters were discussed in Spanish at the meetings.

Relating their experiences from Mexico to sixth grade classes were Michelle Baroni, Antoinette Anodide, Mary Casico and Wendy Whipperman, Spanish IV students.

Members discussed plans for a field trip in April to Washington, D. C. to visit the Pan American and Venezuelan Buildings and the Spanish Embassy. The club sponsored a dance after a football game to provide money for their trip.

Joyce Leadbetter served as president of this year's Spanish Club. Assisting her were Marsha Miller, vice president; Susan Miller, secretary; and Carolyn Oglie, treasurer.

Journalistic Interests Stimulated By Society

Quill and Scroll, an international honorary society, encourages individual initiative in journalism and rewards students for excellence in the journalistic field.

Students on "The Eagle's Echo" publication staff who qualified for the society were inducted as juniors. These students were in the upper third of their class and had published at least fifty inches of copy in the "Somerset Daily American." Members of the "Eaglet" staff who were recommended by their editors and the adviser and who qualified scholastically were inducted into the Quill and Scroll during their senior year.

Officers for the 1968-1969 year were: President Marsha Berkey, Vice-President Donald Barron, Secretary Susan Igou and Treasurer Georgia Lichty. Journalism advisers Mrs. Phyllis Cindric and Mr. Jay Christner sponsored the group.

Georgia Lichty, Susan Igou, Donald Barron and Marsha Berkey served as 1968-69 officers for the Quill and Scroll.

NHS Serves School, Guides New Students

Each year the entire senior high school faculty elects ten percent of the senior and five percent of the junior class to membership in the National Honor Society.

Students are selected on the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character and service. Scholarship is a prerequisite for consideration in the group.

NHS aims are to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to stimulate a desire to render service, to promote worthy leadership and to encourage development of character. One club project this year was to aid in the orientation of new students by acting as their guides, providing them with information about the school and introducing them to teachers.

The 1968-69 National Honor Society officers were: Blaine Trent, president; Wendell Miller, vice-president; Mary Cascio, secretary; and Patricia Pacifico, treasurer. Mrs. Pauline Glessner and Mr. Richard Flick were advisors of the society.

Party Line Dilemma Offers Comical Plot

Pillow Talk, the 1969 senior class play, was presented by separate casts on November 21 and 22. Directors Mrs. Phyllis Cindric and Miss Connie Glessner with Properties and Set Adviser Mr. Paul Beal headed ninety-six seniors, who comprised the play casts and committees.

In New York City an attractive career girl shares a party line with a Cassanova bachelor. Everytime she plans a phone call, she finds Brad Allen singing to his girlfriends. When he discovers that the annoyed party on his line is charming and pretty, he assumes a false identity as Texan Rex Stetson. Rex and Jan fall in love. Everything is beautiful until Jan discovers Brad's true identity.

Slyly Brad persuades Jan to redecorate his apartment in an effort to win her back. She intentionally creates a fiasco. In retaliation, Brad pulls a cave man scene, which ends happily as Jan and Brad realize they are in love.

"No one, Mrs. Walters, drills a hole through a 14th Century crematory urn," shudders Pierot.

Coach Weaver Tackles First Year As Head

Guiding the Eagles this season were coaches Mr. Richard Colliver, Head Coach Mr. C. Wilson Weaver, Mr. James McCall and Mr. David Maize.

Chuck Mitchell watches grimly from the sidelines as Westmont makes a gain in the close battle.

Upon the retirement of Mr. Carl Waugaman, twenty-year coach of the Somerset Eagles, Mr. C. Wilson Weaver took over as head football coach. He had the task of building an aggressive offense and a stable defense around fifty-one boys, only fourteen of them seniors.

The defense led the team to two shutouts, including a 37-0 rout of Cambria Heights in the first game of the season.

In a game at Bedford the Eagles lost a well-fought match by a 14-12 score, with Bedford getting the last touchdown in the final minute of the game.

The only tie game of the season came when Somerset and Forest Hills battled to a 26-26 deadlock.

Somerset then lost to Richland Township by a large margin, but came back to beat county rival Windber by a 6-0 score.

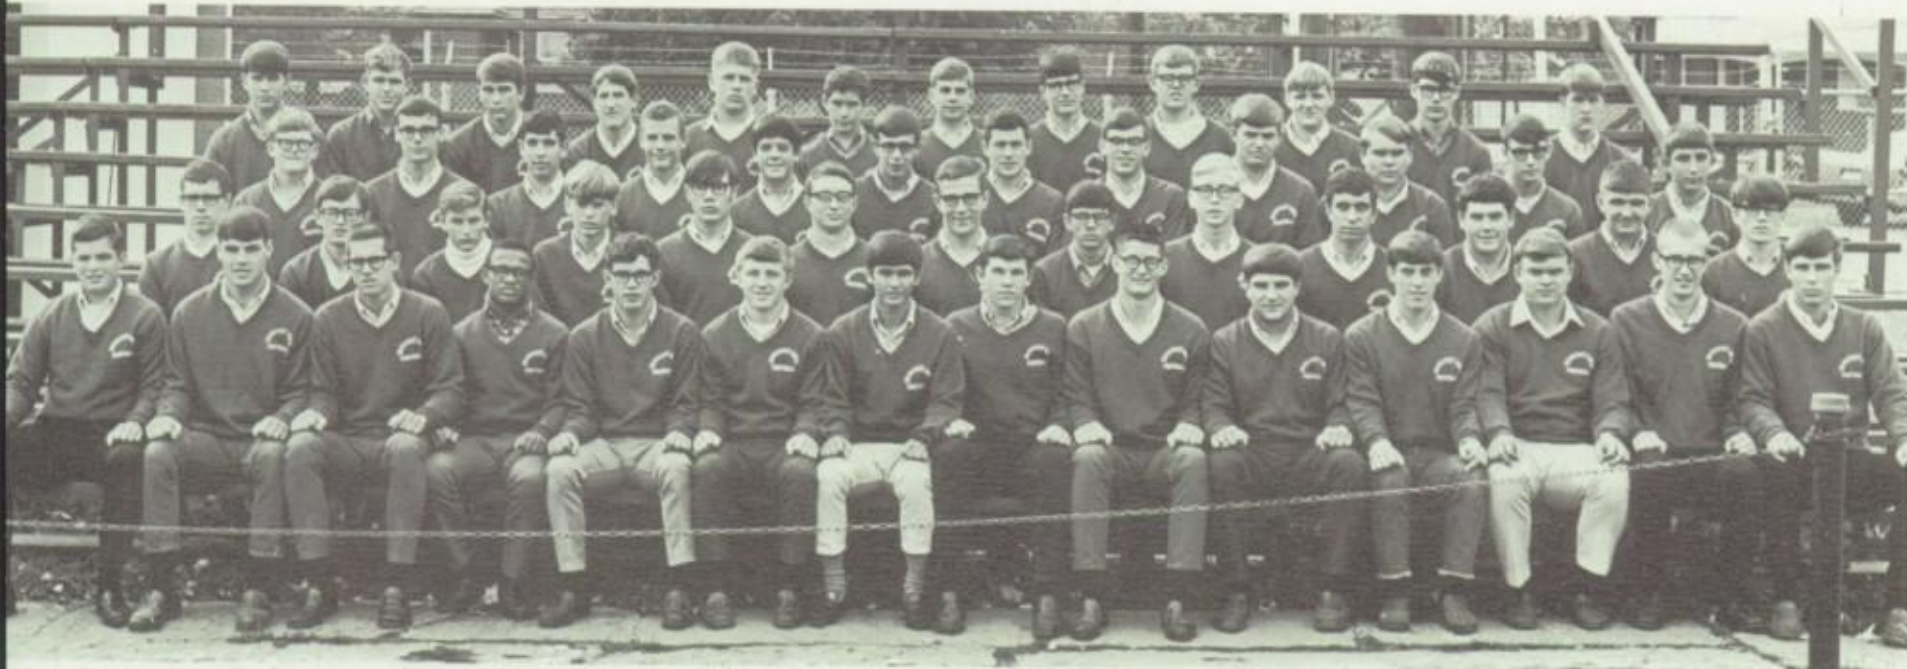

The Eagles made it two in a row by downing a stubborn Boswell team 19-6, but closed out the season with two losses at the hands of Westmont and Conemaugh Township.

With the season's record at 3-4-1, captain and quarterback Randy Urban earned a position on the All-County Team, Dennis Baker placed on the second team and Dean Carr received honorable mention.

The Junior Varsity team compiled a record of 0-4. Despite their losses they gained experience, which Mr. James McCall, junior varsity coach, feels should be of value to the varsity team next year.

Cross Country Team Starts At Somerset

In the fall of 1968 cross-country, a sport which requires great endurance, was added to the interscholastic sports schedule of Somerset High School.

Mr. James Pfrogner coached the eleven boys who participated in the new sport.

The course marked off for home meets covered a distance of 2.8 miles. Sophomore Eddie Ross ran the Somerset course in 16:17, which proved to be the fastest time of the season for an Eagle runner.

With nine members of the team underclassmen, the Eagles finished the season with no wins. However, a bright spot of the year came when Mr. Pfrogner entered the JV team in the Ferndale Invitational Meet, where they placed third in a line-up of twelve schools.

Intramurals Increase Athletic Participation

Something new in the athletics program appeared at Somerset Senior High in 1968-69. A program of intramural sports for both boys and girls provided an athletic activity for those who were interested, but not participating in varsity teams.

Mr. Waugaman, athletic director, was in charge of scheduling the intramurals while Mrs. Ruth Coleman and Mr. David Maize, physical education teachers, served as advisers for the events.

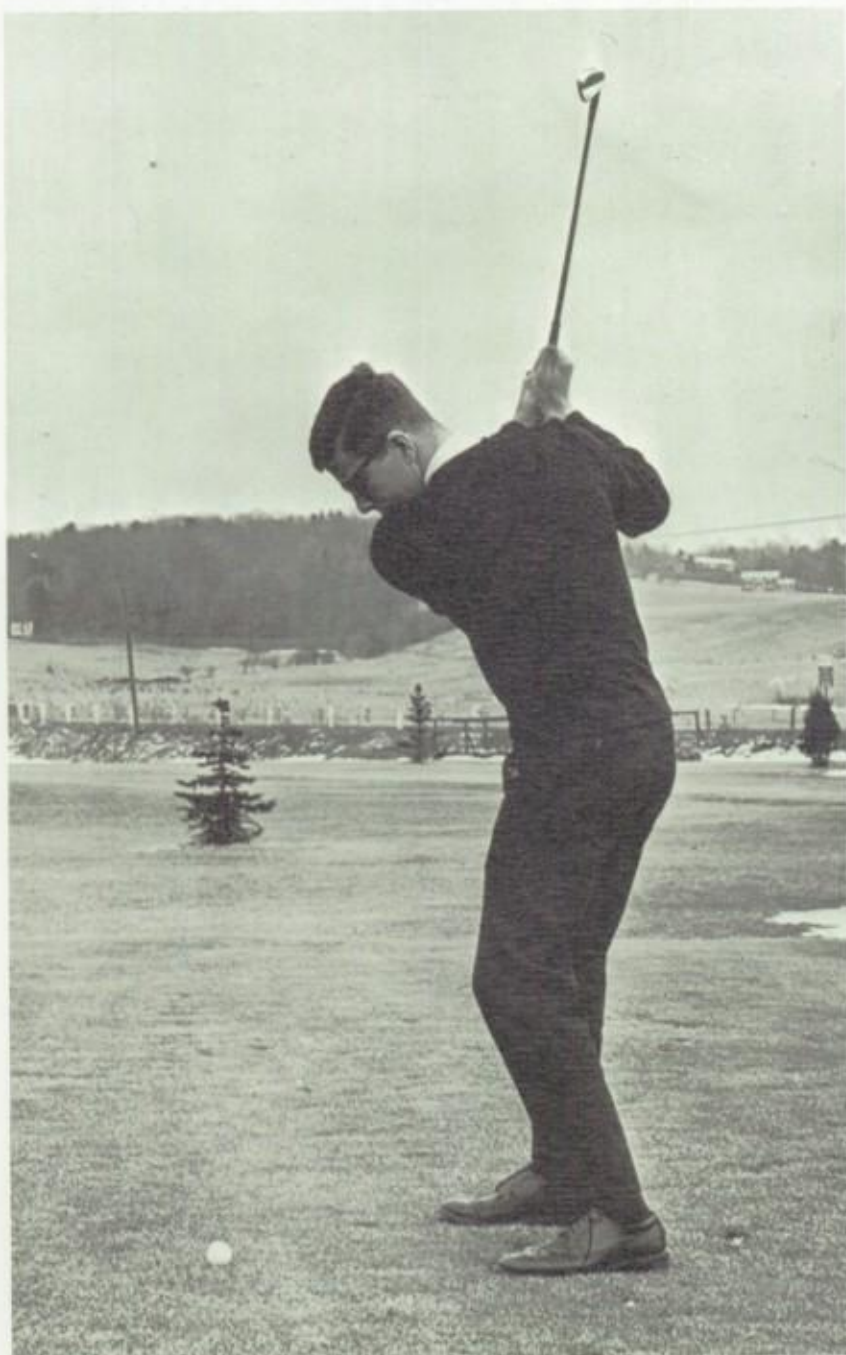

Boys were able to participate in golf and handball. Soon after school started, golfing was held at the Green Meadows Golf Course on Saturday mornings.

Bowling and basketball schedules were organized for girls. In November bowling started, with the action taking place at the Roof Garden Lanes in Somerset. The girls picked teams and competed every Wednesday after school. Girls' basketball entered the scene at the end of the regular varsity basketball season.

Snaring rebounds is practiced by senior girls as they prepare for their intramural game.

Teeing off for the first green is Kerry Metzgar at the Green Meadows Golf Course.

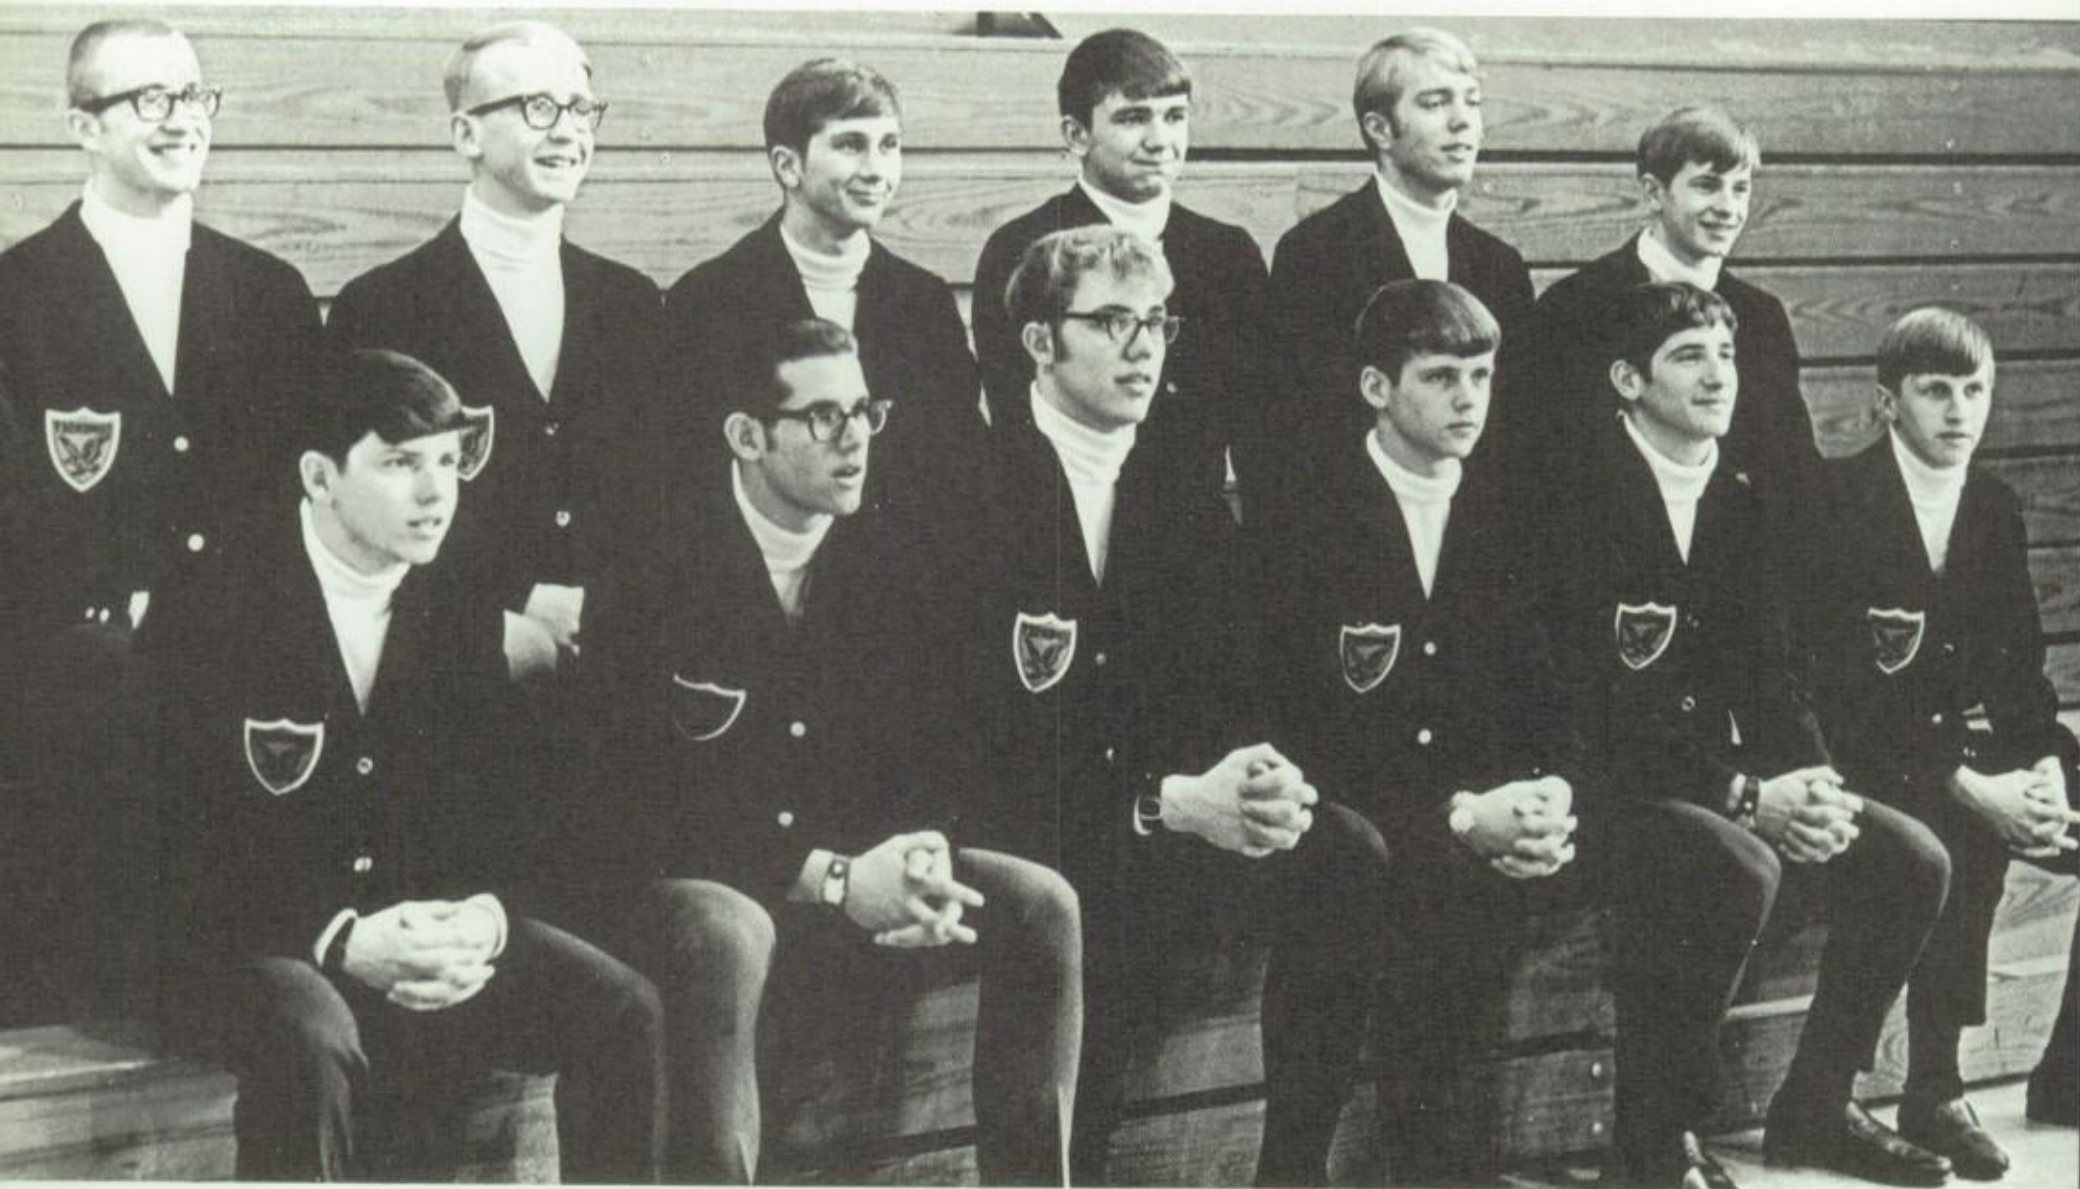

Rick Talley and Mike Miller engage in a handball duel as part of the tournament set up by Mr. Maize.

In hopes of a strike, Linda Howarth releases the ball as her teammates watch her follow-through.

League Battles Test Ball-Handling Tactics

Employing a combination defense, called man-to-man zone, and concentrating equally on offense and defense proved the key to the Golden Eagles 13-9 record.

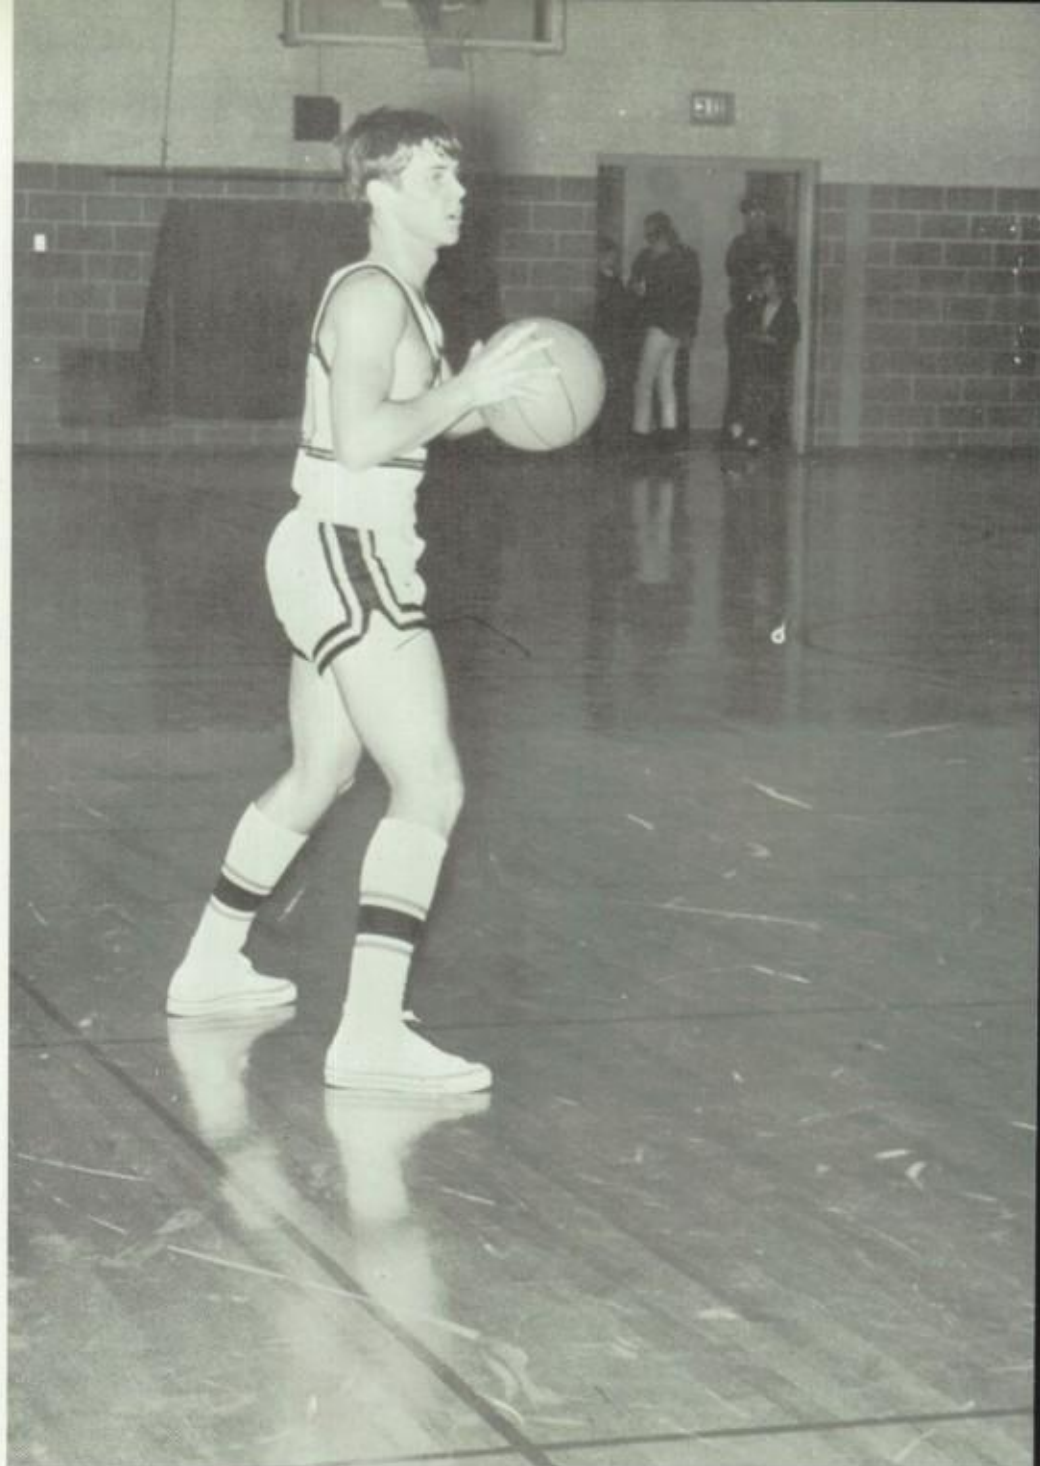

Participating once again in Tri-County League competition, Somerset finished in second place behind a three-team tie for first. In addition to their regular schedule, the Somerset cagers competed in the Penn-Cambria Tournament at Cresson during the Christmas recess. The Eagles lost the first game to Penn Cambria, but garnered third place in the tournament as they beat Ferndale 44-43 in the consolation game. They also received a trophy for the team displaying the best sportsmanship.

The 1969 Junior Varsity squad compiled a record of 13-7 as they gained experience which should aid next year's varsity Eagles. They were directed by Mr. James Pfrogner.

Eagles Offer Strong Defense To Boswell

In his second year as head coach of Somerset wrestlers Mr. James McCall, with his assistant Mr. Ray Shaulis, guided the Eagles to seven wins and five losses.

Somerset again participated in the annual Christmas tournament at Conemaugh Township. Against seven opponents the Golden Eagles finished in a tie for fourth. The lone champion for Somerset was Dennis Barron in the unlimited class.

Team leadership for the 1968-69 grapplers was provided by co-captains Rick Frazier and Clark Gross.

Highlighting the season was a 31-8 loss to a very strong Boswell team in which a standing-room-only crowd viewed Somerset put up a good fight, allowing only one pin the entire evening.

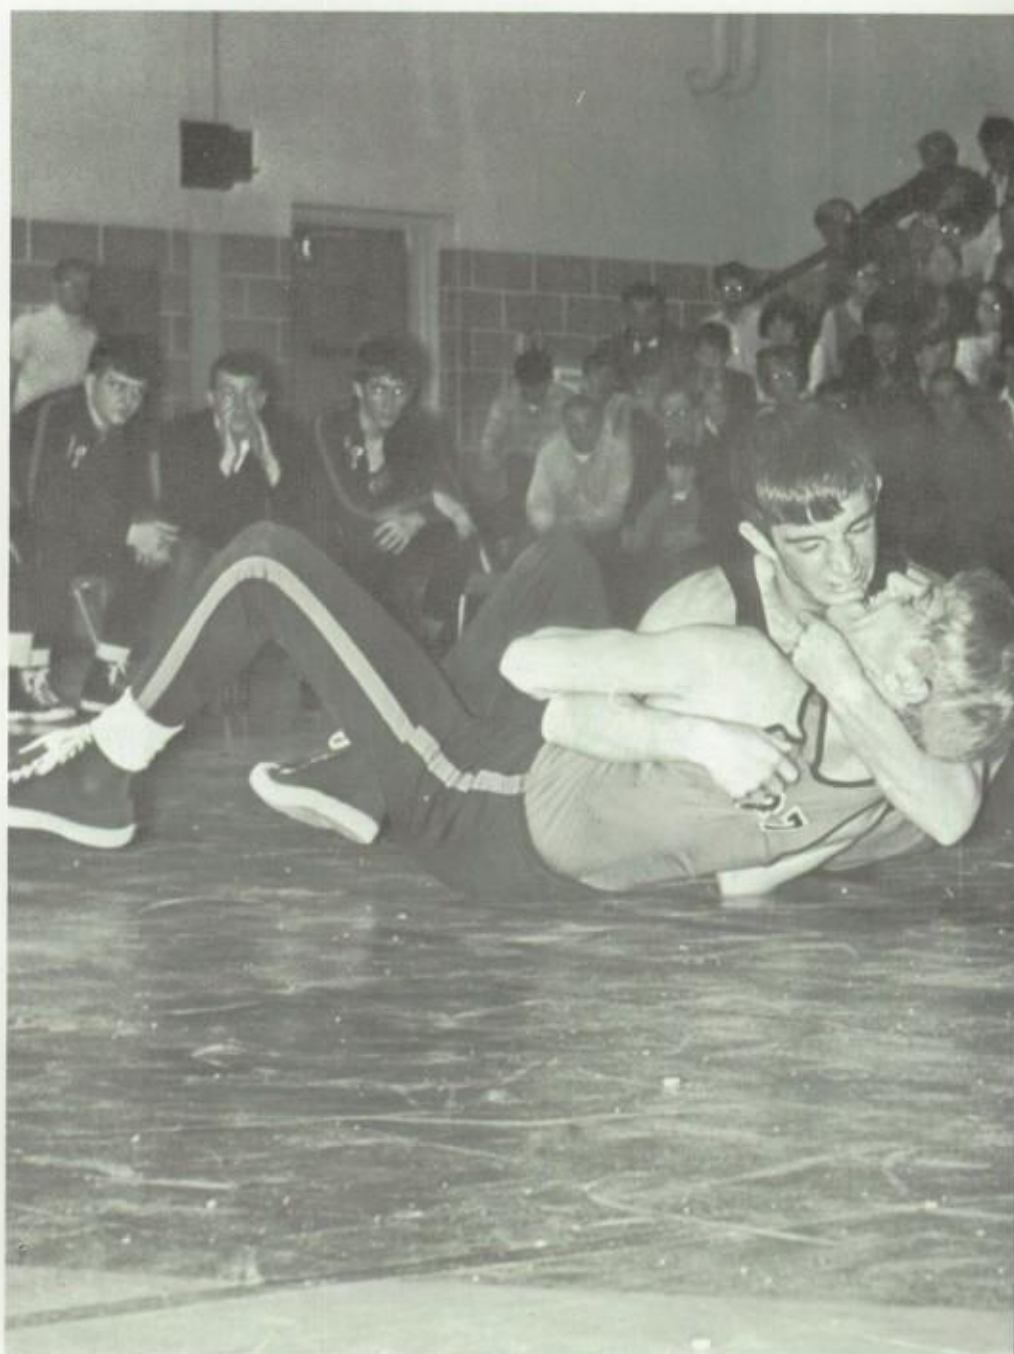

Juniors filled the positions for nine of the twelve scheduled weight divisions.

Somerset will lose only one regular wrestler by graduation, which should promise good things for next year.

Roger Klink battles his opponent from Conemaugh Township in an effort to get back onto the mat and take him down.

Brad Winters, junior, is awarded three points for a near-fall in the 127 lb. class with Conemaugh Township.

Pushing over his Forrest Hills opponent to try for a pin is senior co-captain Rick Frazier.

Intently watching Clark Gross take down his opponent are coaches Ray Shaulis and James McCall.

Gym Team Enters Interscholastic Competition

For the first year in the history of gymnastics at Somerset, a full schedule of meets was carried on in 1969. Dual meets at home were another first for the Eagle gymnasts.

With probably the strongest team to date Coach Edward Joseph felt Somerset should do well in all areas of competition: free exercise, side horse, parallel bars, vaulting, still rings and high bar.

This year there were only three seniors on the squad. The bulk of the team was composed of sophomores, who have two years of competition ahead of them.

Somerset closed out its season in March with sectional competitions. The state finals were held on March 29 in Butler.

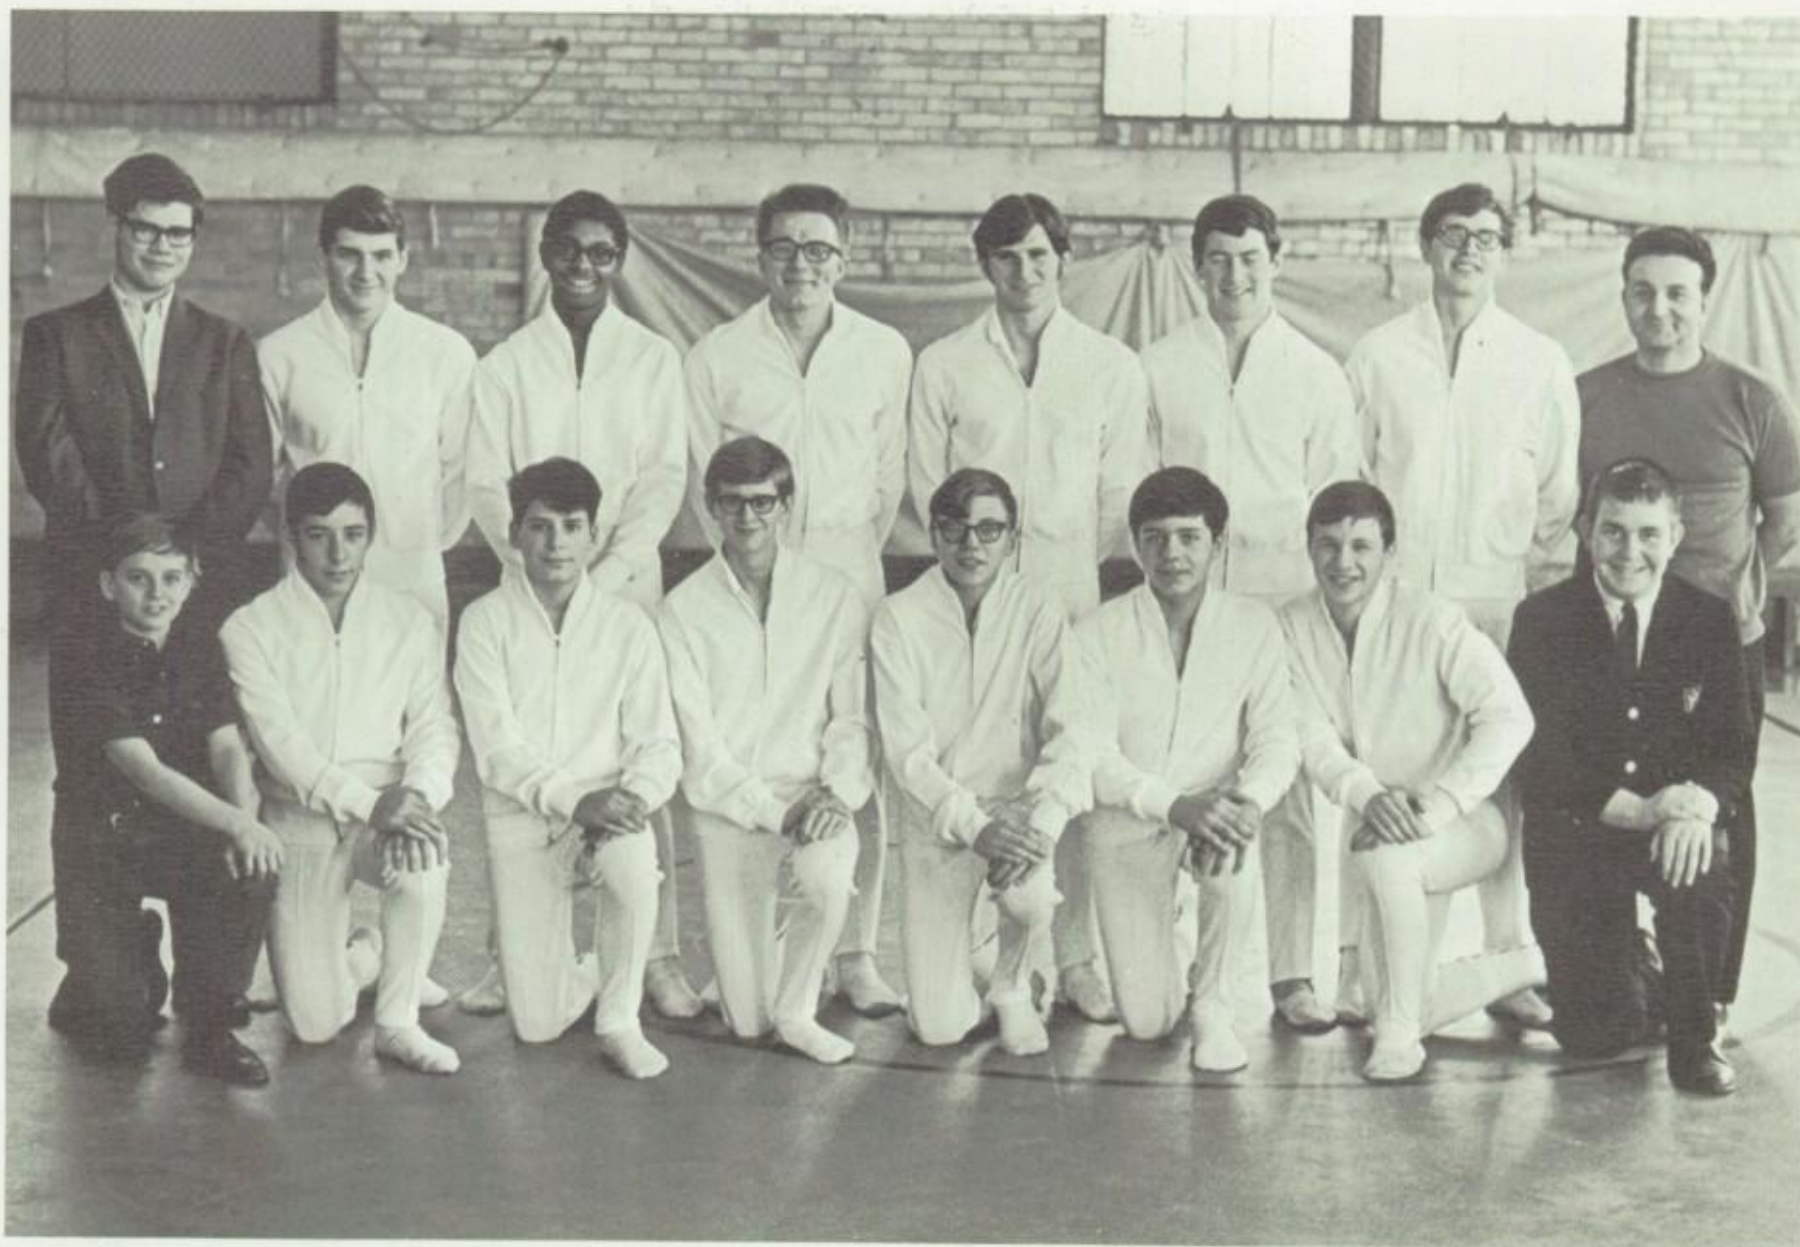

Going into a hand stand is part of sophomore Jules Yancey's routine on the parallel bars.

Three Triangular Meets

Under the direction of Head Coach Richard Colliver, C. Wilson Weaver, James Pfrogner and David McCall, the 1968 track team recorded three firsts in four triangular meets.

Somerset took top honors in the Mountain Conference Relays and the first Somerset County Meet. In addition, they received second place in the Mountain Conference Track and Field Meet.

In District V competition the Eagles gained a close second place, finishing five points behind Windber.

The two-mile relay team set a new school record in the April 24 meet with Meyersdale and Rockwood. The new time was 8:57:9.

Leading the team in 1968 was David Mapes with 99 5/6 points. He specialized in the triple jump, the high jump and the broad jump.

The return of eight lettermen to the team gave Coach Colliver reason to anticipate another fine season.

Cober And Barndt Go

With only two losses in 1968, both at the hands of Bedford, the Eagle golf team turned in a fine season.

Mr. Chester Pfeffer served as coach, with Jim Cascio and Doug Berkley sharing the position of captain.

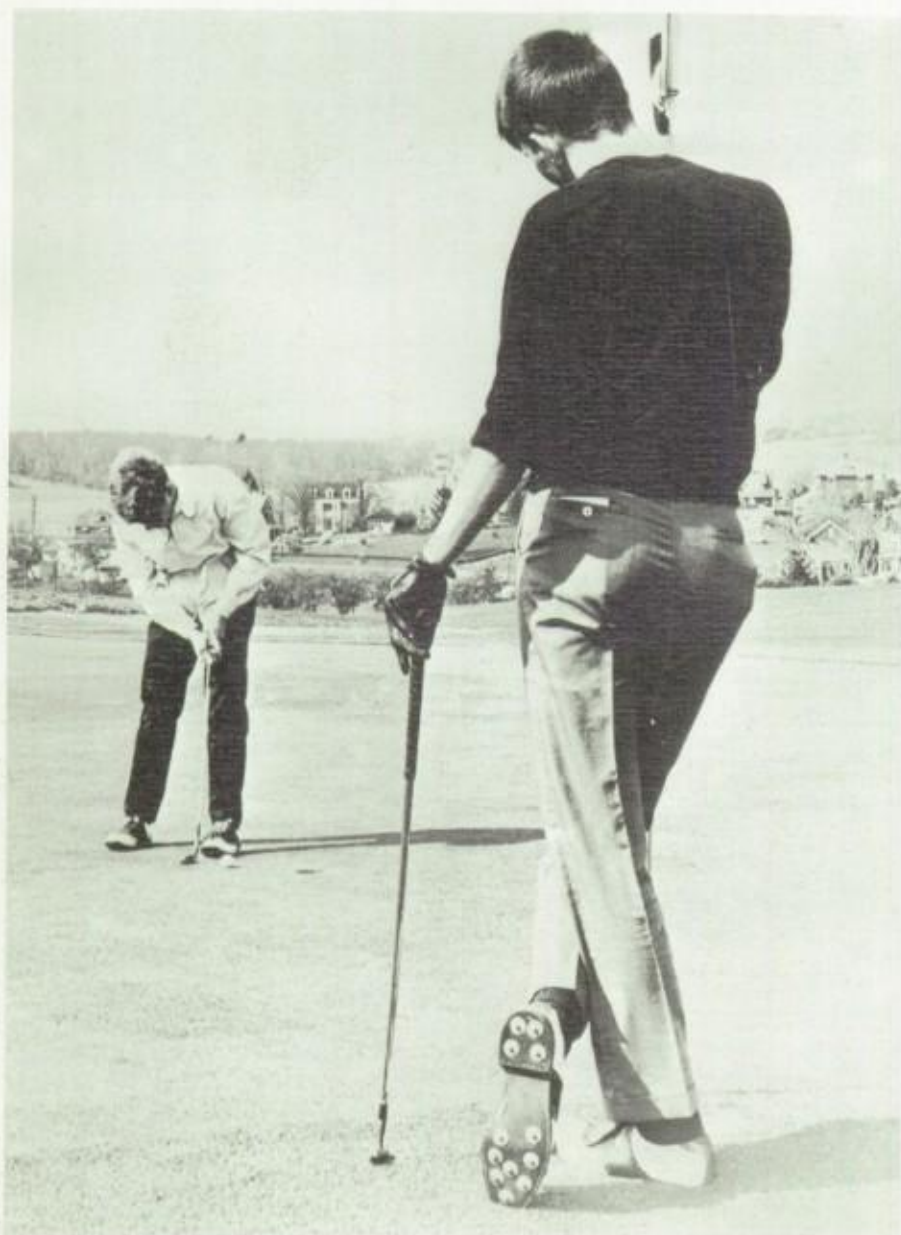

The greatest victories for the year came when Somerset defeated Windber on April 11 by a margin of fifteen points and again on May 6 by eighteen points.

Representing Somerset and District V in state competition at the Penn State University course were Randy Cober and Marvin Barndt.

The team also participated in the Dr. Wheeling Memorial Tournament at Sunnehanna Country Club in Johnstown.

Douglas Platt, Randy Cober and Richard Forney, who saw a great deal of action during the 1968 season, form the nucleus of the 1969 team.

Impartial Judges Select Cheerleading Squads

Before the start of the fourth quarter at the Ferndale game, Georgia Lichty helps keep up the rooters' spirits.

This year for the first time varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders were chosen by outside judges.

The varsity squad was composed of five seniors and five juniors. The junior varsity squad, numbering six members, was made up entirely of sophomores.

Each varsity cheerleader served as captain for a separate football game. After football season, the squad elected Susan Miller as permanent captain. Amy McClintock served as J.V. captain.

Varsity cheerleaders urged on the athletes at all football games, basketball games and wrestling matches. They also organized and conducted seasonal pep rallies.

Junior varsity cheerleaders cheered at all J.V. sports events. Mrs. Ruth Coleman advised both squads.

Members of the junior varsity squad were Mary Ann Hauger, Linda Schrock, Joni Stumpf, Amy McClintock, Linda Mapes, Vicki Shroyer and Denise Lichty.

The varsity squad included (back) Georgia Lichty, Suzy Younkin, Connie Aultz. (front) Gail Gorman, Denise Custer, Kathy Knepper, Sandy Benedict and Susan Miller.

S Club Rewards Lettermen For Achievement

The S Club, sponsored by Athletic Director Mr. Carl Waugaman, is the honorary organization to recognize varsity athletes who have earned a letter in interscholastic competition.

To be awarded a letter, a varsity competitor must meet these requirements: participation in more than half of the total quarters of the football or basketball season; accumulating eleven points, participating in a majority of the matches or winning a district wrestling match; earning a total of ten points throughout the track season; accumulating fifteen points, averaging $1\frac{1}{2}$ points per match or winning a district golf championship; or ranking as one of Somerset's top six finishers or placing in the top ten of all competitors in over half of the season's cross-country meets.

Senior football captains, Randy Urban, offense, and Chuck Mitchell, defense, look over the list of underclassmen who lettered in varsity football.

Ric Frazier and Dennis Hartman, seniors, admire their wrestling and basketball trophies as sophomore lettermen Mark Martz and George Fisher think hopefully of the future.

Music Provides Opportunity For Expression

The junior high school band, orchestra and chorus qualified the student for the varied music program offered in the senior high. Mr. Arther Pepe conducted the orchestra, which participated in the annual Christmas and spring concerts. Four members, Susan Fritz, Carol Casteel, Patty Sawzik and Sally Miller, attended District Orchestra in February at Otto-Eldred High School in Duke Center.

Under the direction of Mr. Robert Griffith, the junior high boasts an "A" Band of select musicians and, for the first time this year, a stage band. The band played in the Memorial Day parade, the South County Band Festival and the Maple Tapping ceremonies.

Mr. John Dice led the mixed chorus with the help of his accompanist, Douglas Weicht. Special talent was displayed in the performances given by the Girls' and Boys' Octets.

Representing Somerset Area Junior High School at District Orchestra were Carol Casteel, Patty Sawzik, Susan Fritz and Sally Miller.

As accompanist for stage band and chorus Douglas Weicht has a full practice schedule.

The Girls' Octet, consisting of Gloria Brant, Carol Casteel, Kristy Long, Sally Miller, Susan Spangler, Ellen Glessner, Patty Buell and Sally Trent, added variety to the junior high music program.

Highlighting junior high chorus concerts, the members of Boys' Octet were (rear) Don Pring, William Peters, Joseph Zeigler, Chris Hay. (front) Larry Hoffman, Dave Miller and Jerry Barron. John Runner was also a member of the group.

Members of the junior high student council were (rear) Chris Hay, William Peters, Joseph Barbera, Michael Frazier, Sally Miller, Susan Spangler, Denise Barndt, William Clark, Sally Trent, Cynthia Shafer, Nikki Costea, Melanie Miller, Ginny Gates, (front) Daniel Mickey, Ann Hay, Susan Poorbaugh, Carol Hurd, Craig Sprock, Gayle Walker, Peggy Kimmel, Denise Walters, Brenda Dixon, Jon Jacobs, Lori Stuftt, Tracey Beal.

Leading the Student Council were Nicki Brugh, vice president; Sally Miller, treasurer; Chris Hay, president; Mr. C. Wilson Weaver, adviser; and Susan Spangler, secretary.

Serving as Library Club officers were Patty Sawzik, secretary-treasurer; Cindy Custer, president; Mrs. Finnette Egolf, adviser and Susan Poorbaugh, vice-president.

Mr. Louis Bruno, adviser; Cliff Glovier, president and Mike Stoltz, secretary-treasurer served as Chess Club officers for 1968-69.

Junior high cheerleaders (standing) Pam Biancotti, Claudia Smith, Donna Braeseker, Diane Walker, (kneeling) Cindy Welker, Susan Shaulis and Susie Hughes supported the Little Eagles.

Activity Supplements Junior High Academics

Junior high cheerleaders, led by Miss Sue Saylor, supported the Little Eagles in all athletic contests.

Under the direction of Mr. Wilson Weaver, the Student Council engaged in projects to finance its activities. The group staged a Veterans' Day assembly and a talent show.

Meeting twice monthly, Chess Club members perfected their skills. Guided by Mr. Louis Bruno, the club competed in an annual spring meet at Forbes High School.

Each member of the Junior High Library Club assisted Mrs. Finette Egolf one period each week. Two-year members received a pin on Awards Day.

The Junior High Ski Club sponsored lessons for its forty members at Hidden Valley. Club adviser Mrs. Steiner stressed skiing safety and etiquette.

Directed by Mr. John Baraniak, the Press Club contributed junior high news to "The Eagle's Echo."

The majorettes, directed by Mr. Robert Griffith, performed at football games and parades.

Pep Club members sponsored buses and held school dances. With the assistance of Miss Sue Saylor the club spread school spirit with programs and signs.

Miss Saylor, Pep Club adviser, supervises the placing of a "spirit" sign by officers Patty Ludy, vice-president; Jeanie Spangler, president; Susan Spangler, secretary; and Donna Braeseker, treasurer.

Ski Club officers Maggie Boose, treasurer; Mrs. Bettyjane Steiner, adviser; Bryan Hottle, vice-president; Jim Brant, secretary and Bruce Hottle, president check the weather hopefully for signs of snow.

Majorettes for the 1968-69 school year were (standing) Judy Landis, Barbara Wheeler, Head Patricia Ludy, Karen Koontz, Michelle Mosholder, (kneeling) Jackie Pence, Susan Yancey, Tracey Beal and Sally Boxler.

Cindermen Shatter Track And Field Records

Supervising junior high sports were Wrestling Coaches Mr. Bingman and Mr. Baraniak, Basketball and Track Coach Mr. McCall, Football Coach Mr. Baker and Basketball Coach Mr. Clay. Mr. Maslak served as head football coach for the junior high team.

Sixty-five eighth and ninth graders participated in football, supervised by Head Coach Joseph Maslak and Assistant Blaine Baker. The season closed with five losses and one win over Shade.

Basketball Coaches James Clay and David McCall guided the forty-two member team. Captain Jerry Barron led his teammates through a demanding schedule.

The wrestling squad consisted of forty-five matmen coached by Mr. William Bingman and Mr. John Baraniak. John Stanyzck, Brad Murray, Tim Drake and Hamilton Pyle wrestled against county teams.

Mr. David McCall guided the 1968 track team to a season of three wins and one loss. The Somerset Invitational meet with six teams competing was also won by the squad. New records were set in the discus throw (159'9") by Roger Young, the long jump (19'4") by Mark Martz and the pole vault (9'6") by Scott Boyer. Greg Gardner, Sam Crouse, Craig Custer and Mark Martz broke the 440 relay record by 50 seconds. Tying the 880 relay record were Dave Ankeny, Craig Custer, Jules Yancey and Clarence Trout with 1:43:5.

Whether by an active participant in life at SAHS or by a stranger to that life, the blacks and whites and greys of the preceding pages can be replaced by the colors of individual memory. We pause to remember and to supply those colors, but only for a moment, for the future beckons and we are bound to go.

Color Us . . . Progressing.
